Says Slain Man Burglary Ringleader

A Niles man shot and killed by a policeman on a rooftop at Fairplain Plaza last December was the ringleader in a burglary plot, an alleged accomplice testified Wednesday in Berrien Fifth District court.

Larry D. Homan, one of two men charged with breaking and entering of Muir's Drugs, said that he and co-defendant Daniel M. Williams "didn't want to do it" but were persuaded to go through with the break-in plan by Billy K. Gober.

Gober, 33, of 1434 Eagle street, Niles, was shot and killed by Benton township patrolman Kim Fowler during the alleged burglary Dec. 14. The shooting since has been ruled justifiable homicide by Berrien Prosecutor John Smietanka.

Homan testified Wednesday that Gober said "he had a feeling about the burglary" and that he (Homan) was "to a certain degree high" on marijuana the night of the shooting.

Homan's testimony came during the preliminary examination for co-defendant Williams, 33, of route 2, Watervliet.

People who entered the courtroom were searched by a metal detector for possible weapons, and the courtroom was then locked when the hearing started.

At the end of the three-hour hearing District Judge Leo Cook bound Williams over to Circuit court for trial on charges of burglary and possession of burglary tools. He remains jailed under $50,000 bond.

Homan, 38, of 1342 Silverbrook avenue, Niles, then waived examination and was bound over to Circuit court on the same charges, but his bond was lowered from $50,000 to $5,000.

Homan began his testimony by explaining that he and Asst. Prosecutor Scott Beatty had made a plea bargain — in exchange for his testimony against Williams, Homan will be allowed to plead guilty to a lesser charge of attempted breaking and entering.

The charge carries half the maximum sentence of 10 years in prison for breaking and entering.

During his testimony, Homan said he and his friends had been on the roof for over an hour when police arrived and were seeking cash and drugs from Muir's.

He also testified that he was carrying a rifle case containing a sawed-off shotgun and a .38 caliber pistol as a policeman chased the three south along the rooftops of the plaza stores.

Homan said the officer yelled "halt" and fired two shots while chasing the trio, and that he (Homan) had ducked behind cover when Gober was shot.

Swainson Attorney Cleared

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — Konrad Kohl, attorney for former Michigan Gov. John Swainson, has been cleared of any wrongdoing in federal grand jury investigation of his conduct. Kohl, defense counsel for Swainson at his recent bribe-conspiracy-perjury trial, had been accused of hiring a convicted felon to sit in on the courtroom to intimidate a key government witness.

Robert C. Ozer, chief of the U.S. Organized Crime Strike Force in Detroit, said Wednesday the inquiry into Kohl's activities was terminated after Kohl spent more than an hour before a grand jury.

Ozer denied he acted under pressure from Justice Department officials in Washington and said the decision to drop the matter was his own.

Pulvirenti told Ozer and FBI agents he was hired by Kohl to sit in the courtroom and stare menacingly at John J. Whalen, a convicted burglar and the main witness in the prosecution of Swainson.

Swainson, convicted on perjury charges but acquitted of bribery conspiracy, subsequently resigned as a justice on the Michigan Supreme Court.

Kohl said he hired Pulvirenti, who knew Whalen, to help assess Whalen's testimony.

Kohl was accompanied by Swainson as he arrived at the courthouse. George Bushnell, president of the State Bar of Michigan, also was on hand.

Bushnell said he was "amazed" at the accusations made against Kohl and wanted to see first-hand how the case progressed.

Kohl said afterwards he was "unhappy with the way I was dragged before the grand jury."

Ozer told newsmen in a brief appearance:

"I am advising you that Mr. Kohl was before the grand jury and that they concur in my belief that there was no evidence of any impropriety on the part of Mr. Kohl or Mr. Swainson in the Pulvirenti matter."

"The grand jury has also concurred that there is no need for any further inquiry into the conduct of Mr. Kohl and Mr. Swainson on the Pulvirenti matter."

He would make no further comments.

Pulvirenti was arrested by the FBI last week and charged with obstructing justice and violating Whalen's civil rights. He blamed his troubles on Kohl.

Whalen told authorities he was abducted and tortured prior to Dec. 19.

Swainson, who appeared alone at a midafternoon news conference, said he was "disheartened and sickened" by

Slip Is Temporary, Ford Backers Claim

President Ford's campaign officials say a poll showing a 7 per cent drop in Ford's popularity is a temporary setback resulting from voter apathy. But a spokesman for Ronald Reagan indicated he thought the figures mean the country is looking for leadership.

Ford, who has yet to make his first 1976 political trip, went by motorcade Wednesday from the White House to his campaign headquarters six blocks away. He met about 130 campaign workers and expressed continued confidence in his campaign manager, Howard H. Callaway.

But a short time later, a campaign spokesman said the Ford election committee had been told the results of a new Gallup poll showing a decline in Ford's popularity to 39 per cent, only two points above his all-time low Gallup rating.

As Ford was making his first visit to his own campaign headquarters, Reagan, his rival for the Republican presidential nomination, ended three days of campaigning in New Hampshire and flew to North Carolina.

A Ford aide said the campaign committee was "obviously concerned" about the poll but added, "As we get near the primary dates, support will harden and we think it will swing back to the President as his policies and programs become known. Such sizeable shifts of support for candidates are not surprising at this stage of the campaign."

In a statement, the Ford spokesman said polls made for

Southwestern Michigan escaped a predicted subzero blast, but early morning commuters today were confronted with snow covered and slippery roads.

Wednesday's forecast was for an overnight low of zero to 5 below in southwestern Michigan. The low on the recording thermometer at The Herald-Palladium was 9 above at 6 a.m. today.

Intermittent snow during the night slicked highways. State police of the Benton Harbor post said I-94 had a light covering of snow in the Twin Cities area and some cars had skidded off the road. State police at Paw Paw reported similar conditions but said I-94 was clear farther east.

The forecast for tonight was zero to 5 above.

Maybe Sick Economy Blessing In Disguise

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken thinks the ailing economy could help sidetrack a prolonged auto industry strike this year.

"I think the problems of industry and high unemployment weigh heavily against a strike," Milliken said Wednesday.

"I would think the depressed economy from which we are emerging would provide a stimulus for settlement rather than a stimulus for a strike."

Milliken said in an interview with The Associated Press that a prolonged strike by the United Auto Workers against any of the cent translated into 497,000 persons out of work.

On another topic, Milliken all but promised a veto if a proposal to legalize casino gambling in Detroit wins legislative passage.

"I never say beforehand that I will veto something.... I must say I am opposed to it."

Milliken said. "I don't think it would improve Detroit's fiscal situation and it would create more problems for the people of Detroit.... To increase the level and degree of gambling would be to encourage questionable elements of our society to move Contracts with the Big Three U.S. auto makers are up for renegotiation this year. Milliken discounted theories that labor would be reluctant to strike on the eve of major state and national elections.

"I don't think the decision is going to be made by Republicans or Democrats but in the collective bargaining process. Each side will determine what is at stake," Milliken said.

Milliken said Michigan unemployment will not go above the current "12-13 per cent" this year but will not drop below 10 per cent. Some day, the federal government may have to raise its definition of "full employment," which is 4 per cent now, Milliken acknowledged.

DETROIT (AP) — Konrad Kohl, attorney for former Michigan Gov. John Swainson, has been cleared of any wrongdoing in federal grand jury investigation of his conduct. Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

The Concorde Deserves A Trial Run

Two years before Watergate almost clamped a permanent lock on the headlines Congress scratched the development of an American supersonic transport.

The drawing boards for the U.S. version envisioned an SST capable of flying 500 or more passengers at 1,500 miles per hour nonstop at least a quarter of the distance around the globe's girth.

Three forces combined to mothball the project.

A good many people ridiculed the SST as a needless fast flight to nowhere.

Others swung the economy axe against the idea. Reliable cost estimates were more guesswork than accounting forecasts, but it was conceded on all sides the SST would chew up billions before the first craft departed its launching site. The private aviation industry lacked the resources to undertake the program and since the Nixon Administration was under fire for spending willy nilly to conquer space while neglecting social problems back on earth, it was easy to coalesce financial opposition to the SST.

Strongest of all were environmentalist objections that the SST's landing and takeoffs would create intolerable noise levels around the few airports large enough to accommodate the monster plane and that its flight path would ruin the ozone cover which protects all animal life from undue exposure to the violet ray bombardment by the sun.

Undeterred by those considerations, the Russians were at work in designing their SST, and the British and French governments were collaborating on another version called the Concorde.

Both types are now operational. For the moment the Soviets are confining their SST to freight runs throughout their vast land area.

The Concorde is booking passenger flights from London and Paris to Rio de Janeiro and other distant ports.

Its sponsors are seeking landing rights at New York City and Washington. They propose four flights daily in and out of New York, two at Washington.

If granted, it means at least 350 people could hop the Atlantic nonstop in 3½ hours, half the time required by conventional jet craft.

The Environmental Protection Agency bitterly opposes the plan for the ecological reasons already mentioned.

Hearings on the proposal concluded this week before William Coleman, the Transportation Secretary, whose office has jurisdiction over the issue.

His job is to weigh the soundness of the environmental alarms against a practicality in foreign affairs. The French and British have made it clear a license denial could fragment the only detente among the free world nations worth mentioning.

The EPA calls this blackmail. Maybe so, but the EPA has never been above giving out hypotheses unbacked by reliable evidence to prove its case.

Test flights to allow the Concorde to establish its merit or to put it out of court should be granted.

Outlook Good Unless Campaign Oratory Spoils It

Three Chicago economists, who apparently have not been striking a happy degree of accuracy in predictions in recent years, collaborated on this outlook for 1976:

"Businessmen will find 1976 a good year — not a great year, but a good one — if election-year politics don't muck things up."

"That's an 'if' big enough to fly a supersonic transport through. But the boys probably are right. There is no point in trying to predict what politicians will do to themselves, the economy or anything else in a major election year."

To accomplish such a feat would be at least as difficult as accurately predicting the weather — or the state of economic conditions, with or without political interference.

Supply And Demand In The Postal Business

Have you noticed that you received fewer Christmas cards this year? Or did you send fewer?

If the answer is "yes" you are not alone. The price of postage is causing many American families to trim their Christmas card lists.

Ten-cent postage this past holiday season prompted lots of people to confine the sending of cards principally to distant friends and relatives, cutting out local acquaintances who had received cards in past years.

What will the new 13-cent price of postage do? It probably will reduce Christmas card mailings even more. And that brings up the old question of supply and demand.

Now that the U.S. Postal Service has gotten its 13-cent stamp, on a permanently temporary basis as one wag put it, the question is how much longer to the next increase. Few doubt that there will be others, considering the example the service has been setting for itself.

Even the Postmaster General, while arguing for the latest rate increase, acknowledged the cost of a letter stamp could go to 23 cents within the next few years. It could, if the Post Office has enough customers left to keep it going at all by that time.

It is a fact, as postal figures show, that use of the mails is on a decline at the same time costs to the customer are rising. That is exactly the kind of productivity decrease which spells trouble for the future of the service.

Considering that 85 per cent of the postal budget goes for labor costs, it is safe to say that labor inefficiencies — whether related to rising salaries, falling workloads or whatever — are the cause of much of the problem. It will not do to pass off the continuing deficits, even with the latest increases, simply to "inflation."

It is also a fact that postal unions are among the more militant public employee organizations and have demonstrated an unwillingness to accept labor-saving innovations. It may be time for Congress to rethink the self-serving monopoly it has created.

Putting Both On The Spot!

State Postal Official Defends His 'Employer, Fellow Employes'

Editor.

Since your newspaper has been so negative in the past year with your editorials toward the management and operations of the United States Postal System, to the postal labor unions and their current contract and in particular to the past postage rate increases, you have done an excellent job of stirring the people into playing the old public game of "kick the post office." I feel it is my responsibility to speak up in defense of my employer and in behalf of my fellow employees.

Needless to say, everything is going up in prices. Bank interest rates, food, clothing, automobile prices, etc. So why the terrible uproar when postage is increased? Some people sit in a bar and have a glass of beer raised a nickel right before their eyes, or pay 15¢ more for a pack of cigarettes, or pay two to three hundred dollars a year more for a new car. They just shrug this off and attribute it to the cost of living. However, raise postage a few pennies and they have temper tantrums.

I would like to call your attention to the heading on one of your newspaper articles last summer which read, "would you believe a 13¢ stamp." Well, more complaining we should check the first class postage rates of some of the other countries. Belgium 18.5¢, Australia 13.5¢, France 20¢, The Netherlands 20.8¢, Sweden 23¢. The British post office, which our critics hail as a model of efficiency, have nearly doubled their rates over the past year to the present rate of 23¢ for first class mail. I would like to point out at this time that entire England is comparable to the State of Michigan in square miles. How efficient the USPS could be delivering mail to an area that size and at those rates. West Germany charges 21¢ for first class postage while entire Germany is not as large as the state of California in area.

Since most mail at one time or another is moved by gasoline powered vehicles, let us look what it costs the USPS when gasoline prices are raised. Every additional penny in the price of gasoline costs the postal system $3.5 million a year and you know how many pennies gas has gone up in the last few years.

Many people ask, "If postage goes up will the service improve?" I'll answer this by asking, "If gasoline goes up will I get more mileage per gallon, will I get more milk from a quart of milk or more slices in a loaf of bread if these prices are raised?" The answer is obvious. Postal workers are constantly being brought to the attention of the one letter or parcel that was delayed or misrouted with no mention of the vast majority which are delivered accurately and on time.

The USPS not only delivers parcels, but delivers letters, magazines and most any type of mailable items and offer other services besides. They are compelled by Law to deliver to the most remote areas of all 50 states regardless of the cost. Perhaps the USPS could operate at a profit if they would be allowed to deliver certain classes of mail only such as parcel post to selected areas. How nice it would be to "skim the cream off the top."

In defense of the employees of (See page 27, column 1)

would you believe that in 1965 your newspaper cost $21.00 a year delivered by motor route and now in 1976 the cost of the Herald-Palladium delivered by motor route is $45.00 a year. First class postage was 5¢ an ounce in 1965 and at the present time is 13¢ for the first ounce. Sure it doubled also. So what's your beef?

Perhaps before we do any

New officers were elected this afternoon by the Berrien County Horticultural society in session at the Bijou theatre in Benton Harbor. Martin Dwan, St. Joseph, was elected president; J.G. An important discussion in the horticultural session this morning had to do with the new peach variety known as the South Haven. This variety, according to leading growers, meets a lull on the Chicago market, preceding as it does the Alberta, and reaches markets at a time when competition from other states is at a minimum. This variety is available here, said George Friday, under the name Benton. This peach, growers declare, is increasing in popularity and in Football and other athletic sports which have recently been condemned as too rough and dangerous for American boys to play have found a local champion in Rev. The Benton Harbor machine works was established last September by C. Upton, O.B. Little and F. Lampher and since then the firm has outgrown its present quarters and is now in need of larger space for the manufacture of launches, gas engines and all kinds of machine work.

Chop Off Head To Kill Snake

WASHINGTON — Organized crime costs your family and mine $1,000 a year — $50 billion nationwide.

It's expanding into legitimate businesses and fueling the corruption of officials and police. Yet, we're bumbling our attacks on the syndicates — going after insignificant targets, ignoring the Jaguar.

No syndicate can operate on any important scale for any length of time without large payoffs to officials or police, usually both. So long as these authorities go free, or if only a bribe recipient here or there is caught and jailed, a clampdown on organized crime is impossible.

Investment capital and working capital are essential to any major syndicate operation. But our attacks on organized crime, in the main, ignore these truisms.

We are so obsessed with the thought we must catch the man actually running dope, stealing, strongarming or hijacking, that we end up with a barrel of small fry and, in total, a few billion dollars worth recovered from the $50 billion the syndicates take home.

The men can be replaced at a dime a dozen. And the syndicate losses from law enforcement officers represent a minuscule percentage of the taxes most of us pay.

There are, as indicated above, only two roads to effective syndicate busting.

Some means must be found to search out and identify criminally acquired monies which is not so difficult as it sounds. And all such money, wherever invested, even in legitimate enterprises be confiscated. This may prove exceedingly difficult, but there are laws which, in the main, would make this possible.

Further, there must be provisions for fines so large that syndicate operators, once caught, would have to dig so deeply into their capital and the capital of their associates, they might find a comeback next to impossible.

Typically, fines today are so small in comparison with profits; convictions normally put no crimp in the illegal operations of large or middle-sized syndicates.

It isn't enough to merely recover stolen goods. Even the arrest and conviction of middle and upper rank syndicate management hardly gives pause to the operations. The top men are seldom caught and even more rarely convicted. Moreover, it is money that makes the operation go. More men will always be available for the syndicate if the money is there to pay them.

The second emphasis must come in a vastly expanded drive to determine what officials and what police are receiving bribes.

An audit system on personal spending and living standards must be set up for those police and officials in positions able to do favors for syndicates and major white collar criminals. Never mind the small fry — officials and police who can make a dishonest buck here and there by letting some insignificant lawbreaker off. There's nothing the manpower nor dollars to monitor both the small-time chiselers and the big operators. But it might be effective to use the little man to give evidence on the men higher up.

In a real sense, the last pair of sentences is the moral of this column. Worry less about numbers of cases and small convictions. Worry more about driving up large amounts of syndicate capital. Shoot for the big deal, then much of the smaller crime may fall by the wayside.

Senator Would Rewrite History

Sen. James Abourezk of South Dakota is trying to rip off the American taxpayer and rewrite history by exploiting the popular myth of the massacre at Wounded Knee. He has introduced a weird bill that would pay $600,000 to the descendants of the Indians killed there.

The current perception of the Wounded Knee battle was created by Dee Brown ("Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee") and other less-than-scholarly writers during the 1960s. The version propagated by these writers maintains that the U.S. Army first disarmed the Sioux and then massacred them.

The only trouble with this version is that 80 U.S. soldiers died in the fight.

For what actually happened at Wounded Knee on Dec. 29, 1890, S.L.A. Marshall, a military historian of impeccable scholarly credentials, provides the definitive account in his book "Crimsoned Prairie" (Scribners, 1972).

Prior to Wounded Knee, records Marshall, the Sioux in South Dakota were swept by a strange religion. During an eclipse of the sun, an Indian named Wokova, who was ill of a fever, dreamed that he had been transported to heaven. He returned with the word that the Indian dead would arise when he gave the signal. Wokova also told the Sioux that "ghost dancing" — a form of wild dancing which also, interestingly enough, occurred in a parallel fashion among the "dervish" followers of the Mahdi in the Sudan — would make the Indians immune to the white man's bullets. The Indians would have "ghost shirts."

Several chiefs came out in support of Wokva's religion, turbulence ensued, and many Sioux went off the reservation in armed bands. It was the Army's job to get these bands back under control.

According to the ineffectual Sen. Abourezk, the Army may not have "premeditated" a "massacre." Nevertheless, the Army was at fault. "The Army set up the conditions for it to happen. There wouldn't have been a massacre had the Army not gone out and rounded them up."

In the year 1890, we are thus invited to suppose, the U.S. government should have tolerated bands of armed Indians roaming at will among the new settlements of the West.

Did the Army first disarm the Sioux at Wounded Knee and then massacre them, as Dee Brown and the other myth makers assert? Here is S.L.A. Marshall's account:

"In groups of twenty or so, the warriors were sent off to the tepees to get their weapons and then yield them. When after an hour the shuttle back and forth was completed, less than half a dozen non-functional rifles had come off it."

The soldiers then searched the tepees themselves. "By the end of their hour of search, the soldiers had found only about 40 weapons, most of them old and not a few in disrepair. Here was a first but belated warning that a prearranged plan of deception was underway."

Then a medicine man named Yellow Bird began yelling at the Sioux: "You wear ghost shirts." When the soldiers tried to search the Sioux warriors, an Indian named Black Fox "jumped to his feet, whipped out a rifle from under his blanket, and fired into the search party. Instantly, as though they had been awaiting a signal, the other warriors did the same, volley-firing into the soldiers with rifles heretofore carefully concealed under their blankets. There is no doubt who started that day's fight, though it is often called a massacre. By the end of the shooting, "Sixty of the cavalrymen lay dead or dying. The cold figures say that there were many rifles under the blankets, and that when they fired the Indians shot to kill."

The Concorde Deserves A Trial Run

Two years before Watergate almost clamped a permanent lock on the headlines Congress scratched the development of an American supersonic transport.

The drawing boards for the U.S. version envisioned an SST capable of flying 500 or more passengers at 1,500 miles per hour nonstop at least a quarter of the distance around the globe's girth.

Three forces combined to mothball the project.

A good many people ridiculed the SST as a needless fast flight to nowhere.

Others swung the economy axe against the idea. Reliable cost estimates were more guesswork than good accounting forecasts, but it was conceded on all sides the SST would chew up billions before the first craft departed its launching site. The private aviation industry lacked the resources to undertake the program and since the Nixon Administration was under fire for spending willy nilly to conquer space while neglecting social problems back on earth, it was easy to coalesce financial opposition to the SST.

Strongest of all were environmentalist objections that the SST's landing and takeoffs would create intolerable noise levels around the few airports large enough to accommodate the monster plane and that its flight path would ruin the ozone cover which protects all animal life from undue exposure to the violet ray bombardment by the sun.

Undeterred by those considerations, the Russians were at work in designing their SST, and the British and French governments were collaborating on another version called the Concorde.

Both types are now operational. For the moment the Soviets are confining their SST to freight runs throughout their vast land area.

The Concorde is booking passenger flights from London and Paris to Rio de Janeiro and other distant ports.

Its sponsors are seeking landing rights at New York City and Washington. They propose four flights daily in and out of New York, two at Washington.

If granted, it means at least 350 people could hop the Atlantic nonstop in 3½ hours, half the time required by conventional jet craft.

The Environmental Protection Agency bitterly opposes the plan for the ecological reasons already mentioned.

Hearings on the proposal concluded this week before William Coleman, the Transportation Secretary, whose office has jurisdiction over the issue.

His job is to weigh the soundness of the environmental alarms against a practicality in foreign affairs. The French and British have made it clear a license denial could fragment the only detente among the free world nations worth mentioning.

The EPA calls this blackmail.

Maybe so, but the EPA has never been above giving out hypotheses unbacked by reliable evidence to prove its case.

Outlook Good

Unless Campaign

Oratory Spoils It

Three Chicago economists, who apparently have not been striking a happy degree of accuracy in predictions in recent years, collaborated on this outlook for 1976:

"Businessmen will find 1976 a good year — not a great year, but a good one — if election-year politics don't muck things up."

"That's an 'if' big enough to fly a supersonic transport through. But the boys probably are right. There is no point in trying to predict what politicians will do to themselves, the economy or anything else in a major election year."

To accomplish such a feat would be at least as difficult as accurately predicting the weather — or the state of economic conditions, with or without political interference.

Supply And Demand In The Postal Business

Have you noticed that you received fewer Christmas cards this year? Or did you send fewer?

If the answer is "yes" you are not alone. The price of postage is causing many American families to trim their Christmas card lists.

Ten-cent postage this past holiday season prompted lots of people to confine the sending of cards principally to distant friends and relatives, cutting out local acquaintances who had received cards in past years.

What will the new 13-cent price of postage do? It probably will reduce Christmas card mailings even more. And that brings up the old question of supply and demand.

Now that the U.S. Postal Service has gotten its 13-cent stamp, on a permanently temporary basis as one wag put it, the question is how much longer to the next increase. Few doubt that there will be others, considering the example the service has been setting for itself.

Even the Postmaster General, while arguing for the latest rate increase, acknowledged the cost of a letter stamp could go to 23 cents within the next few years. It could, if the Post Office has enough customers left to keep it going at all by that time.

It is a fact, as postal figures show, that use of the mails is on a decline at the same time costs to the customer are rising. That is exactly the kind of productivity decrease which spells trouble for the future of the service.

Considering that 85 per cent of the postal budget goes for labor costs, it is safe to say that labor inefficiencies — whether related to rising salaries, falling workloads or whatever — are the cause of much of the problem. It will not do to pass off the continuing deficits, even with the latest increases, simply to "inflation."

It is also a fact that postal unions are among the more militant public employee organizations and have demonstrated an unwillingness to accept labor-saving innovations. It may be time for Congress to rethink the self-serving monopoly it has created.

Putting Both On The Spot!

State Postal Official Defends His 'Employer, Fellow Employees'

Editor.

Since your newspaper has been so negative in the past year with your editorials toward the management and operations of the United States Postal System, to the postal labor unions and their current contract and in particular to the past postage rate increases, you have done an excellent job of stirring the people into playing the old public game of "kick the post office." I feel it is my responsibility to speak up in defense of my employer and in behalf of my fellow employees.

Needless to say everything is going up in prices. Bank interest rates, food, clothing, automobile prices, etc. So why the terrible uproar when postage is increased? Some people sit in a bar and have a glass of beer raised a nickel right before their eyes, or pay 10¢ more for a pack of cigarettes, or pay two to three hundred dollars a year more for a new car. They just shrug this off and attribute it to the cost of living. However, raise postage a few pennies and they have temper tantrums.

I would like to call your attention to the heading on one of your newspaper articles last summer which read, "would you believe a 13¢ stamp." Well, more complaining we should check the first class postage rates of some of the other countries. Belgium 18.8¢, Australia 13.5¢, France 20¢, The Netherlands 20.8¢, Sweden 23¢. The British post office, which our critics hail as a model of efficiency, have nearly doubled their rates over the past year to the present rate of 23¢ for first class mail. I would like to point out at this time that entire England is comparable to the State of Michigan in square miles. How efficient the USPS could be delivering mail to an area that size and at those rates. West Germany charges 21¢ for first class postage while entire Germany is not as large as the state of California in area.

Since most mail at one time or another is moved by gasoline powered vehicles, let us look what it costs the USPS when gasoline prices are raised. Every additional penny in the price of gasoline costs the postal system $3.5 million a year and you know how many pennies gas has gone up in the last few years.

Many people ask, "If postage goes up will the service improve?" I'll answer this by asking, "If gasoline goes up will I get more milk from a quart of milk or more slices in a loaf of bread if these prices are raised?" The answer is obvious. Postal workers are constantly being brought to the attention of the one letter or parcel that was delayed or misrouted with no mention of the vast majority which are delivered accurately and on time.

would you believe that in 1965 your newspaper cost $21.00 a year delivered by motor route and now in 1976 the cost of the Herald-Palladium delivered by motor route is $45.00 a year. First class postage was 5¢ an ounce in 1965 and at the present time is 13¢ for the first ounce. Sure it doubled also. So what's your beef?

The occasion will be a banquet at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 31, at the Knights of Columbus hall in the lower level of Goldblatt's, Fairplain plaza, Benton township.

Steimle during the past year served on the Knights of Columbus tournament committee, when the lodge was host to the Michigan K of C state bowling tournament. He served as chairman of the Knights' children Christmas party and was co-chairman of the annual tri-parish Catholic summer picnic.

Steimle was initiated in the Dowagiac Knights of Columbus lodge, after graduating from Dowagiac high school in 1927. He transferred to the Benton Harbor lodge in 1938.

In 1973, he was initiated into the Fourth Degree, the Father Baroux Assembly, highest honor bestowed by the Knights of Columbus. He also holds an honorary membership in the K of C Supreme Council.

Steimle served nearly 40 years as assistant and manager and then as manager of the former Sodus fruit exchange. He served for 13 years, 1963-75, as president of the Michigan Frozen Food Packers and last month received a plaque designating him as honorary life member in association. Proper hanging of draperies is important to the custom effect in your home and they must have a flowing look for true elegance. The following can mean the difference between a professional looking drape and those of just ordinary appearance: (1) First, hold the finished side of the curtain toward you, grasp the stiff heading of the material in the space between each pleat and fold it down vertically. (2) If you find that the draperies are slightly higher or lower than what you wish, merely adjust the hooks 1/2 inch up or down (be sure that the top of the rod is covered by the top of the drapes.) (3) To emphasize or set the pleats in place, adjust the folds of the drapes vertically. Tie a couple of strips of cloth gently around each panel and leave the strips in place for a couple of days (one strip should be tied 1/3 way down from the top and the other, 1/3 way up from the bottom.) When the strips are removed, the folds will remain in place much better.

We will see that the installation of your new draperies is perfect. Rely on WALTERS PAINT & WALLPAPER, 313 Main St., St. Joseph. Tel. 963-2771. Open 8-5:30 Mon. 8-8 Sat. 8-1. Wallcoverings by leading manufacturers. Complete assortment of paints for interior and exterior use. Bedspreads coordinated to match fabrics. Individualized service.

HELPFUL HINT:
When hanging draperies on the traverse rod, start from the center of the window where the carrier is — first hook should be on the first carrier opening, second hook on the third carrier opening and work outward toward the last, lower opening on the bracket.

Play Is Hit At Tin Tree

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

NEW BUFFALO — Suspense tinged with laughter sets the stage for the well done performance of "Catch Me If You Can," current production at The Tin Tree in New Buffalo.

The play which opened New Year's Eve to a capacity audience, is running Friday and Saturday nights through Jan. 31 with curtain time at 8:30 p.m.

The professional performances of the entire cast is highlighted by the delivery of the comic lines spoken by Inspector Levine played by Bill Van Meer and Ron Ferguson as Sidney.

The mystery which ran over one year on Broadway, features an advertising executive, Daniel Corban (George Steffen) who brings his new wife to his boss's mountain lodge for their honeymoon. Following her disappearance, the groom calls the inspector to report her mysterious disappearance. A pretty girl (Pat Steffen) who appears calls herself Elizabeth Corban, the missing wife. Even the local priest, Father Kelleher (Bill Thissen) backs her story. With the appearance of Everett Parker Jr. (Jay Wellman) and Miss McKay (Leona Williams), Corban's boss and his girl friend, as well as that of Sidney from the town delicatessen, guns flash and there are suddenly two murders. The resulting confusion gives the final 15 minutes an unexpected twist.

The play is under the complete design and direction of Jon A. Putzke in the new permanent structure which replaces the summer tent theatre at US-12 and I-94 at exit 4B.

A dinner-theatre package with the Golden Door Restaurant, New Buffalo, is now available with a reserved ticket to the play.

One-Man Show Sunday

The musical show about the writing and signing of the Declaration of Independence, "1776," will be presented at The Tin Tree as a one-man show.

Featuring Tom Marks, the performance will be held Sunday, Jan. 11, with curtain time at 8:30 p.m.

Tom Marks was a member of the resident company at The Tin Tree during the summer and played roles in "Little Mary Sunshine," "Minnie's Boys," "An Evening With Cole Porter," and "Music Man" with Ray Raynor. A Chicagoan, Marks recently spent two years in Omaha, Neb., where he appeared at The Talk Of The Town and The Firehouse dinner theatres where he was featured in "Camelot," "Guys And Dolls," and "Arsenic and Old Lace."

In Chicago he was also featured in many well known productions including "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," "Zorba," and "Hello, Dolly."

Marks, according to Jon Putzke of The Tin Tree, is a master of characterization as well as being the "leading man" type. Putzke points out that Marks will bring considerable theatrical experience to the one man show.

Tickets for the performance will be available at the door.

Sew Life Style Spring Wardrobe

Sew up a wardrobe to match your life style — rugged pants and slickers for the active sport, dresses for both school or a job, or tailored two-piecers with city savvy.

That's the fashion message from the January Seventeen magazine for home sewers getting a head start on spring. Most girls probably could use something from every category.

Outdoor girls will get plenty of mileage out of a featherlight slicker with raglan sleeves that's roomy enough to go over the heaviest sweaters. The perfect fabric to choose would be a water-repellent yellow nylon crepe. Also bright and useful are a stretchy orange velour jacket and boy-leg shorts, and a versatile coral corduroy jumpsuit that can be dressed up or down.

Dresses and separates with a peasanty feeling set the pace for spring. A quilted tie-front vest and flouncy gathered skirt get together in flowery prints, and an embroidered tunic top in crinkled gauze makes a perfect match-up with basic drawstring pants. The dress to wear again and again is a checkered bigdress with bell-shaped sleeves.

Play Is Hit At Tin Tree

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

NEW BUFFALO — Suspense tinged with laughter sets the stage for the well done performance of "Catch Me If You Can," current production at The Tin Tree in New Buffalo.

The play which opened New Year's Eve to a capacity audience, is running Friday and Saturday nights through Jan. 31 with curtain time at 8:30 p.m.

The professional performances of the entire cast is highlighted by the delivery of the comic lines spoken by Inspector Levine played by Bill Van Meer and Ron Ferguson as Sidney.

The mystery which ran over one year on Broadway, features an advertising executive, Daniel Corban (George Steffen) who brings his new wife to his boss's mountain lodge for their honeymoon. Following her disappearance, the groom calls the inspector to report her mysterious disappearance. A pretty girl (Pat Steffen) who appears calls herself Elizabeth Corban, the missing wife. Even the local priest, Father Kelleher (Bill Thissen) backs her story. With the appearance of Everett Parker Jr. (Jay Wellman) and Miss McKay (Leona Williams), Corban's boss and his girl friend, as well as that of Sidney from the town delicatessen, guns flash and there are suddenly two murders. The resulting confusion gives the final 15 minutes an unexpected twist.

The play is under the complete design and direction of Jon A. Putzke in the new permanent structure which replaces the summer tent theatre at US-12 and I-94 at exit 4B.

A dinner-theatre package with the Golden Door Restaurant, New Buffalo, is now available with a reserved ticket to the play.

One-Man Show Sunday

The musical show about the writing and signing of the Declaration of Independence, "1776," will be presented at The Tin Tree as a one-man show.

Featuring Tom Marks, the performance will be held Sunday, Jan. 11, with curtain time at 8:30 p.m.

Tom Marks was a member of the resident company at The Tin Tree during the summer and played roles in "Little Mary Sunshine," "Minnie's Boys," "An Evening With Cole Porter," and "Music Man" with Ray Raynor.

A Chicagoan, Marks previously spent two years in Omaha, Neb., where he appeared at The Talk Of The Town and The Firehouse dinner theatres where he was featured in "Camelot," "Guys And Dolls," and "Arsenic and Old Lace."

In Chicago he was also featured in many well known productions including "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," "Zorba," and "Hello, Dolly."

Marks, according to Jon Putzke of The Tin Tree, is a master of characterization as well as being the "leading man" type. Putzke points out that Marks will bring considerable theatrical experience to the one man show.

Tickets for the performance will be available at the door.

Sew Life Style Spring Wardrobe

Sew up a wardrobe to match your life style — rugged pants and slickers for the active sport, dresses for both school or a job, or tailored two-piecers with city savvy.

That's the fashion message from the January Seventeen

magazine for home sewers getting a head start on spring. Most girls probably could use something from every category.

Outdoor girls will get plenty of mileage out of a featherlight slicker with raglan sleeves that's roomy enough to go over the heaviest sweaters. The perfect fabric to choose would be a water-repellent yellow nylon cre. Also bright and useful are a stretchy orange velour jacket and boy-leg shorts, and a versatile coral corduroy jumpsuit that can be dressed up or down.

Dresses and separates with a peasantry feeling set the pace for spring. A quilted tie-front vest and flouncy gathered skirt get together in flowery prints, and an embroidered tunic top in crinkled gauze makes a perfect match-up with basic drawstring pants. The dress to wear again and again is a checkered bigdressed with bell-shaped sleeves.

Dine German Style

It's off to Germany, the birthplace of Beethoven, Einstein, and "Mad" King Ludwig. Although Louis II (Ludwig) of Bavaria is not a widely-known German, he did help to enhance the Bavarian countryside. At age 18, King Louis began building many magnificent castles. Unfortunately it was at the expense of his subjects. Taxation and Ludwig's behavior became so outrageous that he was declared insane 20 years later, but not until he had completed Neuschwanstein — the model for Cinderella's Castle in Disneyworld.

Bring the castles of Germany to mind and dine on a savory German-style dinner. Slice beef with sauerbraten gravy, Bavarian red cabbage, German-style whipped potatoes and applesauce cake are all part of a traditional German dinner.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

More Woman Than Child

Dear Ann Landers: I was shocked at the lousy advice you gave the 14-year-old girl whose drunken bum of an uncle insisted on "babysitting" with her, and had already made several passes. The last — she had awakened out of a sound sleep and he was unbuttoning her nightgown. She told her mother and her mother accused her of dreaming.

Your advice was, "A 14-year-old girl is old enough to buy a slot-type lock for her bedroom door and tell the skunk to keep his hands off her in a no-nonsense way that will convince him she means it."

Such advice is utterly useless. Put away your typewriter, kid. You're over the hill. —

Chewing Nails

Dear Nails: Several readers didn't like my answer, but it was right on target and I'll tell you why — if you'll smother the flames in your nostrils long enough to listen.

There's a lot of incest and similar monkey business going on all over this country these days. Someone must give these young girls the courage to tell the Funny Uncle, the Nutty Step-Dad or creepy neighbor, "Hands off, Buster — or I'll turn you in."

Then there's the ever-present possibility that a bit of seduction is going on. A 14-year-old these days is more woman than child. My message is, "No 14-year-old has to sit still for such rotten stuff. She can and SHOULD speak up and scare the rat back into the wood-work."

column from the Jewish boy who fell in love with the Gentile girl.

Twenty-eight years ago I fell in love with a Jewish boy. I decided to convert to Judaism and marry him.

It did not solve our problems, however. His family and friends still considered me a "Shiksa." My friends and family still considered him a Jew. But our deep devotion to one another overcame all the obstacles. We have had a wonderful life together and our two children and three grandchildren have brought us much happiness.

Please tell the young couple who wrote that if they have the strength and the courage to take on a world still full of prejudices (in spite of the progress that has been made) they can beat the odds and find the happiness they seek. — Abie's Irish Rose

Dear Rose: You told them — and I thank you.

ANN LANDERS

deal with strange questions in your column — questions people can't find answers to anywhere else. I have checked several sources without success. I've concluded the answer does not exist in print. Can you help me?

Here's the question:

If a person is in an elevator and the cable breaks, would he be unharmed if he was up in the air when the elevator crashed? In other words, would it do any good to grab on to something at the top of the car, to keep one's self elevated — or jump up and down with a 50 per cent chance of being in the air when the car hits bottom?

This is no joke. Please answer. I'll be watching. — Sherman, Texas

Dear Sherm: I hate to bother Dr. Jerome Wiesner, President of M.I.T., with this so I'll fly blind and say it wouldn't make much difference WHAT you did.

If I'm wrong, plenty of "space experts" will tell me. If they do, I'll pass the word.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (13 cents now) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Bring things that irritate you out into the open today. Keeping them locked inside may cause you to harbor long-standing resentment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Avoid becoming overly involved in a friend's problems. He may see your interest as a good excuse to dump the whole mess into your lap.

When you transfer with a bad hand you follow up the transfer with a pass. When you transfer and want to bid game next, you just bid it. When you want to just invite game in your transfer suit you do that by bidding three.

When you want to give your partner a choice between game in suit, or in notrump while not actually forcing to game your rebid is two notrump.

With 5-3-3-2 distribution and eight high-card points. North transfers to two spades and rebids two notrump. He might well have dropped the bidding at two spades, but his 10 of trumps caused him to go ahead.

South looked at his 4-3-3-3 distribution and 17 points. He decided that good trumps put the three side aces made a game bid a good gamble and decided on four spades rather than three notrump.

In the play, South won the heart lead and knocked out the ace of trumps. The defense played two more hearts. South ruffed in dummy, drew the last trumps and a small club. Clubs broke and the diamond finesse was not needed.

Ask the Jacobys

A frequent question is how to make sure that your partner won't forget when you use a transfer bid.

The answer to that one is that at first you keep it simple. Just diamonds for hearts and hearts for spades. Then be sure to remind him when you sit down to play. If he still forgets, either give up the transfer or give up the partner.

Riverview Dr., Benton Harbor
858 Pipestone, Benton Harbor

Dr. Lester Coleman

I have been told that I have a breast cancer. I heard somewhere that treatment with X-ray is just as curative as removal of the breast. What do you think?

Mrs. J.W., Ohio

Dear Mrs. W.: Since urgency of treatment is so important in such cases I have already answered this letter directly to you so that no time would be wasted.

In addition, I would like my readers, too, to know that many women are confused by the advantages of surgery as against X-ray treatment for cancers of the breast.

It is reasonable to assume that surgery would not be the "preferred" course of action by the patient.

Many women would even subject themselves to risks rather than have the disfiguring operation for the removal of the breast.

It should be understood that there are many kinds of tumors in different parts of the breast that affect the judgment of the doctor and the surgeon. The age group of the patient, and the ability of the patient to withstand massive breast surgery are taken into consideration in the process known as "surgical judgment."

Patients themselves must not, and dare not, risk their lives on their own emotional reaction to their disease. The doctor, the surgeon and the radiologist are the only ones who can coordinate their years of experience and arrive at individual treatment for each case.

Surgery in many instances is actually the most conservative approach to such a serious problem. Total mastectomy, partial mastectomy, post-operative X-ray treatment and anti-cancer drugs are highly complex factors to be considered in the life-saving process of breast cancer surgery.

The emotions of the patient are certainly taken into consideration. But doctors cannot be pressured into straying from their medical judgment by bending to the understandable emotional upheaval of their patients.

I have numbness and tingling of the fingers of my right hand. My doctor calls it "tunnel disease." No one I speak to has ever heard of this.

Mr. S.L., Minn.

Your doctor is astute. A condition known as the "carpal tunnel syndrome" is a relatively rare condition that is responsible for the symptoms you describe.

The median nerve passes through a rigid "tunnel" in the wrist. Sometimes, by injury or inflammation, this median nerve becomes compressed in the narrow tunnel. The result is a "pins and needles" sensation, numbness, swelling and an impaired movement of some of the fingers.

Simple surgery can cure this condition, if drugs and cortisone have been ineffective.

Reagan Pins Hopes On New Hampshire

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan describes his $30-billion budget-cutting plan as a move to decentralize government power. An adviser who helped draft it says if the Republican conservative can't sell the proposal to New Hampshire Yankees, he may not deserve to win their presidential primary. With Reagan's plan emerging as a major issue, President Ford's campaign forces have assembled an item-by-item account of its price in federal aid to New Hampshire and Florida, two key primary states. They say the projected cuts would cost New Hampshire at least $28 million in federal aid, and possibly as much as $113 million. That's not much in federal budget terms — the current federal budget is $374.9 billion — but it is in a state where the budget totals $415 million for the current year and where there is no state income or general sales tax.

In Florida, according to the Ford campaign analysis, the Reagan proposal would cut federal aid by at least $363 million, and possibly by as much as $2.8 billion. In each case, the lower figure is based on items clearly marked for elimination in the Reagan plan, and the higher one includes categories of aid in the areas he has said should be dropped.

The whole controversy is on paper and almost certainly will stay there no matter who wins the presidency. The Democratic Congress is not about to drop the federal domestic programs Reagan proposes to turn over to the states, among them such things as food stamps, education and welfare aid, school lunch programs and housing subsidies.

It stems from a speech Reagan made in Chicago Sept. 26, advocating a transfer of authority — which means programs, resources and revenues to pay for them — from Washington to state and local governments.

Jeffrey Bell, Reagan's campaign research chief in Washington, said the whole idea is decentralization of power and enhanced local authority. He said the Reagan camp will be happy to have Ford campaigners take it up as an issue.

"We intend to make it a major issue, too," said Bell, a key draftsman of the original Reagan speech. "We think decentralization and getting the power out of Washington is a popular thing."

He said polls conducted for the Reagan campaign nationally and in New Hampshire support that belief.

"Northern New England is the home of the town meeting," Bell said in an interview. "If we can't sell the concept of decentralization and local responsibility there, then maybe we don't deserve to win."

"Federal authority has clearly failed to do the job," Reagan said in the original Chicago speech. "Indeed, it has created more problems in welfare, education, housing, food stamps, Medicaid, community and regional development and revenue sharing, to name a few."

"Transfer of authority in whole or part in all these areas would reduce the outlay of the federal government by more than $90 billion, using the spending levels of fiscal 1976," the former California governor said.

Reagan said that would make possible a 23 per cent income tax cut, and a $5 billion start on paying off the national debt. He acknowledged there might have to be state tax increases.

so states could take over payments on the programs they decide to continue.

According to a two-page account put together by Reagan's Washington staff, the proposed reductions would cut federal spending to a level $81.9 billion below that of the administration budget for the year that ends on June 30. Because of inflation and congressional spending increases, according to the Reagan analysis, the reductions actually would exceed $90 billion.

Reagan had said that would provide room for a $25-billion personal income tax cut and a $5-billion budget surplus.

But taxes already have been cut, at an $18-billion-a-year rate, and the federal deficit is expected to total $70 billion to $74 billion. Some reductions Reagan advocated already have been made. As a result, his proposal would add up to a budget with a relatively small deficit.

Red Cooperation Ruled Out; Long Fight Looms In Italy

ROME (AP) — Another long, difficult Italian government crisis was predicted today as the Christian Democrats ruled out cooperation with the Communists in forming the country's 33rd cabinet since World War II.

The issue of a role for Western Europe's largest Communist party was a key factor in the collapse of Christian Democratic Premier Aldo Moro's 13-month-old minority coalition Wednesday night. Moro resigned after the Socialist party, Italy's third largest after the Christian Democrats and Communists, withdrew its parliamentary voting support.

The Socialists complained that the Moro government ignored their economic proposals and their demands that the Communists be given a hearing in the formulation of government policy.

President Giovanni Leone asked Moro, 59, to stay on as caretaker premier. The president today began the traditional series of interviews with political leaders, looking for someone who might be able to put together a new coalition that could get a majority in the Chamber of Deputies.

Any government must be built around the Christian Democrats, and the Christian Democrats must have the support of the Socialists or the Communists to get a majority. But Il Popolo, the Christian Democratic newspaper, today rejected the Socialist demand for an opening to the Communists.

"An emergency solution that includes Communist association in the governing majority cannot be accepted," a front-page editorial said. "It would be a useless waste of time to pursue that kind of idea."

The Communists, who advanced to within two percentage points of the Christian Democrats' 35 per cent of the vote in regional elections in June, demanded a hearing.

"No government today can reject the contribution of the Italian Communist party in the sense of a constructive contribution to the solution of problems," said a front-page editorial in the party paper, L'Unita. The editorial also cast doubt on the sincerity of the Socialist demand on their behalf, saying, "While the Socialists assert the urgency of this development, they themselves raise obstacles and difficulties that do not help its realization."

The crisis blocked further parliamentary action on several important bills, including one to legalize abortion under certain conditions and decrees and proposed laws to pump more than $30 billion into the ailing economy.

Labor sources warned that unless the crisis is resolved quickly and the economic program enacted, thousands of workers in small and medium industries will lose their jobs. The inflation rate of 24 per cent in 1974 was cut to 12 per cent last year, but at a cost of unemployment that rose to 7 per cent of the work force of 19 million, according to government statistics.

Reagan Pins Hopes On New Hampshire

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan describes his $90-billion budget-cutting plan as a move to decentralize government power. An adviser who helped draft it says if the Republican conservative can't sell the proposal to New Hampshire Yankees, he may not deserve to win the presidential primary.

With Reagan's plan emerging as a major issue, President Ford's campaign forces have assembled an item-by-item account of its price in federal aid to New Hampshire and Florida, two key primary states.

They say the projected cuts would cost New Hampshire at least $28 million in federal aid, and possibly as much as $113 million.

That's not much in federal budget terms — the current federal budget is $374.9 billion — but it is in a state where the budget totals $415 million for the current year and where there is no state income or general sales tax.

In Florida, according to the Ford campaign analysis, the Reagan proposal would cut federal aid by at least $363 million, and possibly by as much as $2.8 billion.

In each case, the lower figure is based on items clearly marked for elimination in the Reagan plan, and the higher one includes categories of aid in the areas he has said should be dropped.

The whole controversy is on paper and almost certainly will stay there no matter who wins the presidency. The Democratic Congress is not about to drop the federal domestic programs Reagan proposes to turn over to the states, among them such things as food stamps, education and welfare aid, school lunch programs and housing subsidies.

It stems from a speech Reagan made in Chicago Sept. 26, advocating a transfer of authority — which means programs, resources and revenues to pay for them — from Washington to state and local governments.

Jeffrey Bell, Reagan's campaign research chief, said the whole idea is decentralization of government and enhanced local authority. He said the Reagan camp will be happy to have Ford campaigners take it up as an issue.

"We intend to make it a major issue, too," said Bell, a key draftsman of the original Reagan speech. "We think decentralization and getting the power out of Washington is a popular thing."

He said polls conducted for the Reagan campaign nationally and in New Hampshire support that belief.

"Northern New England is the home of the town meeting," Bell said in an interview. "If we can't sell the concept of decentralization and local responsibility there, then maybe we don't deserve to win."

"Federal authority has clearly failed to do the job," Reagan said in the original Chicago speech. "Indeed, it has created more problems in welfare, education, housing, food stamps, Medicaid, community and regional development and revenue sharing, to name a few."

"Transfer of authority in whole or part in all these areas would reduce the outlay of the federal government by more than $90 billion, using the spending levels of fiscal 1976," the former California governor said.

Reagan said that would make possible a 23 per cent income tax cut, and a $5 billion start on paying off the national debt. He acknowledged there might have to be state tax increases, so states could take over payments on the programs they decide to continue.

According to a two-page account put together by Reagan's Washington staff, the proposed reductions would cut federal spending to a level $81.9 billion below that of the administration budget for the year that ends on June 30. Because of inflation and congressional spending increases, according to the Reagan analysis, the reductions actually would exceed $90 billion.

Reagan had said that would provide room for a $25-billion personal income tax cut and a $5-billion budget surplus.

But taxes already have been cut, at an $18-billion-a-year rate, and the federal deficit is expected to total $70 billion to $74 billion. Some reductions Reagan advocated already have been made. As a result, his proposal would add up to a budget with a relatively small deficit.

Catholic Board Approves Athletic Code Of Conduct

An athletic code of conduct was approved by Lake Michigan Catholic Area board of education last night for Laker athletes.

The code was drafted by coaches and officers of the athletic association and presented to the administration. The school board then adopted it. The code generally follows previous regulations but procedures are spelled out in greater detail.

The school board amended the code in only one instance, clarifying scholastic eligibility regulations. The original draft used the term "solids" for academic courses. The school board changed it to read "subjects." An athlete must maintain passing grades weekly in five subjects to be eligible to play.

The code prohibits smoking, use of drugs or alcoholic beverages and theft. These offenses would be punished by suspension of a third of an academic season. A second offense would result in a full-year suspension.

Suit Seeks $95,000 In Crash

PAW PAW — A Bloomington woman is seeking $95,000 in damages for injuries she suffered as the result of an auto accident in Pine Grove township in 1973.

A lawsuit filed on behalf of Mrs. Catherine M. Kelly in Van Buren circuit court says she suffered rib and back injuries when her car was struck by a pick-up truck driven by William Klobucher of Mat-tawan on M-40 north of Gobles on Feb. 28, 1973.

According to the suit, Mrs. Kelly was headed north on M-40, when Klobucher, who was southbound, attempted to make a left turn, causing his truck to hit her car. At the time, the suit alleges, Klobucher was driving recklessly and failed to yield the right-of-way.

The damages are sought from Klobucher and his wife, Mary, to compensate Mrs. Kelly for her pain, suffering, and medical expenses, according to the suit.

In other action the board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Catherine Wojcinski, Berrien Center, a primary grade teacher, and approved a contract for Mrs. Mary C. Curtis of Watervliet, as the replacement.

Donald M. Stock, high school principal, said enrollment on the fourth Friday of the semester was 410. It has since climbed to 418 and he said he expected additional students to enroll in the high school for the start of the second semester.

Stock said hot lunch prices will remain at 50 cents but that a half-pint of milk will be increased from five to six cents.

Ronald Dombrowski, director of the Tri-Parish Religious Education program, reported enrollment of Catholic students in public schools taking weekend religious courses at $54. This includes 283 at the St. Joseph Catholic annex, Stevensville; 75 at St. Bernard's; 373 at St. Joseph Catholic, St. Joseph; 102 at St. John's, Benton Harbor; and 21 in classes conducted in private homes.

BUW ANNUAL MEETING

Chicago Fund Raiser To Be Guest Speaker

Solon B. Cousins, executive director of the Community Fund of Chicago and Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy, has been named speaker for the 34th annual meeting of Bloomland United Way, according to Henry Tippet, president.

The yearly business session of the local fund will be Thursday, Jan. 15, at 4:30 p.m. in the Easter Seal Society building, 2015 Lake View avenue, St. Joseph. Tippet said 15 directors will be elected to the board, while six officers of BUW will be chosen at the regular meeting on Jan. 29.

Cousins heads the largest community fund in the country. Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy raised $40,718,919 in the 1975 campaign, while Detroit was second in the nation with $34,843,582. By comparison, outstate Michigan pledges to take $26,713,074.

Before appointment to his present post, Cousins held various high-ranking positions in the YMCA, including personnel director of the YMCAs in Metropolitan Chicago, executive director of the greater Boston, Mass., YMCA and executive director of the Urban Group of YMCAs, a collaborative effort of 17 of the largest YMCAs in North America.

Tippet said the public is invited to the annual meeting. The traditional lunch or dinner meeting has been abandoned in favor of a late afternoon session which home - from - work citizens may attend.

"The United Way belongs to people of the community who should be proud to help celebrate three years in a row of pledging beyond the volunteer-set goals," Tippet said. "This represents a very creditable 30 per cent increase in that time, despite severe economic problems."

Robert Starks, past president of BUW, headed the nominating committee and was assisted by John Banyon, Mrs. Ruth Hunter, Donald Ladrow, Mrs. Vera VanAntwerp, Jack Trefry and Bill Johnson. Arranging the annual meeting are Mrs. Marion Hughes, chairman; Mrs. Connie Donahue and Mrs. Mary Letty Upton.

LAWTON — The Lawton Blossom Queen contest will be held March 6 at the Lawton high school auditorium, according to Mrs. Edward (Dorothy) Blum, contest co-chairman. The contest date had not been set when dates for other area queen contests were announced. The deadline for entering the contest has not been set yet, Mrs. Blum said.

Lawton Policemen To Man Intersection

LAWTON — The Lawton village council has directed the police department to station officers at the corner of 29th and Second streets to direct traffic after high school sporting events and other special activities.

The action was taken at the council's meeting Tuesday night and was aimed at facilitating traffic flow through the intersection.

In another area, the council granted permission to the village's Bicentennial committee to paint the trash disposal cans on Main street red, white and blue.

Catholic Board Approves Athletic Code Of Conduct

An athletic code of conduct was approved by Lake Michigan Catholic Area board of education last night for Laker athletes.

The code was drafted by coaches and officers of the athletic association and presented to the administration. The school board then adopted it. The code generally follows previous regulations but procedures are spelled out in greater detail.

The school board amended the code in only one instance, clarifying scholastic eligibility regulations. The original draft used the term "solids" for academic courses. The school board changed it to read "subjects." An athlete must maintain passing grades weekly in five subjects to be eligible to play.

The code prohibits smoking, use of drugs or alcoholic beverages and theft. These offenses would be punished by suspension of a third of an academic season. A second offense would result in a full-year suspension.

The code lists procedure for investigating charges and levying punishment.

Suit Seeks

In Crash

PAW PAW — A Bloomingdale woman is seeking $95,000 in damages for injuries she suffered as the result of an auto accident in Pine Grove township in 1973.

A lawsuit filed on behalf of Mrs. Catherine M. Kelly in Van Buren circuit court says she suffered rib and back injuries when her car was struck by a pickup truck driven by William Klobucher of Mat-tawan on M-40 north of Gobles on Feb. 28, 1973.

According to the suit, Mrs. Kelly was headed north on M-40, when Klobucher, who was southbound, attempted to make a left turn, causing his truck to hit her car. At the time, the suit alleges, Klobucher was driving recklessly and failed to yield the right-of-way.

The damages are sought from Klobucher and his wife, Mary, to compensate Mrs. Kelly for her pain, suffering, and medical expenses, according to the suit.

presented the code for school board approval. He said expansion of athletics, especially in sports for girls, has prompted the association to seek greater parental participation and make its meeting procedure more formal with a specific agenda.

In other action the board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Catherine Wojcinski, Berrien Center, a primary grade teacher, and approved a contract for Mrs. Mary C. Curtis of Watervliet, as the replacement.

Donald M. Stock, high school principal, said enrollment on the fourth Friday of the semester was 410. It has since climbed to 418 and he said he expected additional students to enroll in the high school for the start of the second semester.

Stock said hot lunch prices will remain at 50 cents but that a half-pint of milk will be increased from five to six cents.

Ronald Demblowski, director of the Tri-Parish Religious Education program, reported enrollment of Catholic students in public schools taking weekend religious courses at 854. This includes 283 at the St. Joseph Catholic annex, Stevensville; 75 at St. Bernard's; 373 at St. Joseph Catholic, St. Joseph; 102 at St. John's, Benton Harbor; and 21 in classes conducted in private homes.

Demblowski reported that after two quarters $23,061 had been spent on the religious instruction program. Budget for the full year is $45,782.

Proof Is Positive In Hit-Gallop Case

MIAMI (AP) — It was the hoofprints that gave police an ironclad case. There were four of them on the hood of Win-nifred Strozing's car.

Officers this week received a warning to watch for a brown, hit-and-run horse, "a poor jumper, which should have blue paint on its shoes and is possibly pregnant."

Ms. Strozing, who prefers the designation, said she was driving through an intersection when the riderless horse ran a stop sign. Trying to avoid collision, the speeding steed attempted to jump the car and landed squarely on the hood, police said.

The violator fled the scene on all fours, leaving a bewildered Ms. Strozing to face police.

"She didn't think I was going to believe her, or that her insurance company was going to believe her," said Officer William Glaister. "But it was obvious that a four-legged animal had been on her hood."

Robert Starks, past president of BUW, headed the nominating committee and was assisted by John Banyon, Mrs. Ruth Hunter, Donald Ladrow, Mrs. Vera VanAntwerp, Jack Trefry and Bill Johnson. Arranging the annual meeting are Mrs. Marion Hughes, chairman; Mrs. Connie Donahue and Mrs. Mary Letty Upton.

HEADING FOR EMERGENCY ROOM: A man is wheeled into the emergency room at the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center Wednesday where more injured and ill people are being taken as private Los Angeles area hospitals close in the wake of a doctors' slowdown to protest higher malpractice rates. (AP Wirephoto)

LA Hospital Bulging At Seams

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A doctors' slowdown over soaring malpractice insurance rates has pushed the county's largest hospital beyond its intended capacity, increased the workload at public hospitals and led to the layoff of 2,000 employees at private facilities.

Emergency cases were generally unaffected, but patients in need of nonemergency care had to shop for hospital space.

"A crisis exists," said Dan Asmus, head of the Interns and Residents Association at the bulging County-USC Medical Center. "We're overworked and understaffed."

Asmus, at a news conference Wednesday, said the workload had increased to the point that in one case a single doctor had to care for 40 patients.

At the same time, a number of private hospitals laid off employees, cut their hours or allowed them early vacations or leaves of absence. Administrative officials at some hospitals took a 20 per cent pay cut to help ease the financial impact of reduced patient loads.

State officials said the unemployed hospital workers accounted for 14 per cent of all unemployment claims filed in Los Angeles County on Wednesday.

The worsening hospital situation resulted from a doctors' slowdown which began Jan. 1 to protest proposed increases ranging up to 486 per cent in malpractice insurance premiums in Southern California.

About half the medical employees laid off came from a single hospital, Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, one of Southern California's largest private hospitals. A spokeswoman said 1,000 of its 2,500 employees had been laid off since last Friday.

"It's very gloomy. The main thing we want to do is keep our medical center alive, somehow keep our patients getting care," she said.

Of the 731 beds available at Cedars-Sinai, she said, only 319 were taken.

In contrast, the in-patient count at County-USC, the largest public hospital, rose to 1,671 patients Wednesday. Marion Diamond, chief of disaster services for the county Department of Health Services, said the center is considered overcrowded when the in-patient level reaches 1,577.

"What this overcrowding means is an increased workload for the staff," she said, adding that the heavier caseload "may reduce the quality of care somewhat and we want to minimize that."

"The staff is more tired and the patients are more crowded together."

Despite reaching budgeted capacity, she said beds were available for "a couple of hundred" additional persons.

Liston Witherrill, head of the county health services, said about 350 patients would be discharged from County-USC one or two days earlier than normal so that more beds could be obtained. Additionally, he said, the new Martin Luther King Jr. Hospital would begin to handle more emergency cases than it has in the past.

The Hospital Council of Southern California said a survey Wednesday showed the number of hospitals affected by the doctors' action had risen slightly. Leon Hauck, spokesman for the organization, said 94 of the 234 member hospitals were experiencing some difficulty from the slowdown.

Despite the problem, hospital officials said emergency room treatment was available at most facilities.

SUSPECTS SOMEONE ON HILL

Italy Fund Leak Irks Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House suspects someone in Congress made public secret CIA testimony about undercover American money being given to some Italian anti-Communist politicians.

President Ford was described as angry about the public disclosure of the CIA funding, which CIA Director William E. Colby had described behind closed doors last month to some House and Senate members.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said there was "a strong suspicion in the White House that these allegations originated in Congress." Asked to be more specific, he replied, "I could but I won't."

The public disclosure that the CIA was funneling $6 million to the politicians came just hours before Italy's 32nd collapsed, setting off a new crisis in the midst of a determined Communist drive for a share of political power there. However, there was no known link between the disclosure and the government's collapse.

Nessen declined to confirm or deny the CIA was paying the funds, but an authoritative source elsewhere confirmed the operation, which was initially disclosed in the Washington Post and the New York Times.

The $6 million was going directly to members of the Christian Democratic and Democratic Socialist parties in an attempt to head off what Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger considers alarming advances by Communists in Europe, according to the authoritative source.

Meanwhile, two of the lawmakers who had been confidentially briefed by Colby about the maneuvers were publicly critical of that policy.

Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, said he told Colby after the briefing that "I didn't think it was a very bright idea." Hays said he was concerned that the CIA would have no control over how the money was spent and that the "minute it becomes known" the net effect would be a gain for the Communists in Italy. Hays said he told Colby, "Whoever dreamed this up should have his head examined."

Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., who also was briefed on the CIA program, said the CIA declined to turn over the names of the individuals receiving the money. Instead, the committee was told it was simply being advised of the program, as required by law, and that President Ford had approved it, Ryan said.

Ryan said he and Hays "raised hell about it" but Colby gave no acknowledgment the congressmen could do anything about the funding.

"How do you explain this thing, that we believe in free government but aren't willing to trust the people of Italy to make a decision?" Ryan said. "Suppose the British Labor party or the German Social Democratic party came into the U.S. and spent several million dollars on our elections. Guess what the reaction would be?"

Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he was dissatisfied with the manner in which Congress is given after-the-fact notification of CIA covert operations.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., defended the payments, saying Italy and the United States have "ties of long standing," that "more than a billion dollars" in American money is invested in Italy and that U.S. Navy ships rely on Italian ports.

Woman Officer Arraigned In Flint

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A 20-year-old Flint policewoman stood mute Wednesday at her arraignment on an assault charge stemming from a shoot-out with her white male partner over who would drive their patrol car.

Madeline C. Fletcher was arraigned in her room at Hurley Medical Center, where she is recovering from a gunshot wound suffered in the Dec. 27 incident.

District Court Judge James Shaker released the woman on her own recognizance after she told him she had no previous convictions and was a lifelong resident of Flint. She was charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder.

A Jan. 27 preliminary examination was set. Because of Miss Fletcher's condition, her attorney, Kenneth Cockrell, waived a rule which requires examination within 12 days.

A female police officer, requested by Miss Fletcher, stood guard outside her hospital room while the court action proceeded.

Miss Fletcher was wounded in the chest in the gun battle and is listed in satisfactory condition. Her partner, Walter Kalberer, 34, also was shot in the incident. He was released last week after undergoing treatment for a leg wound.

U.S. Justice Department officials huddled Tuesday with the Flint mayor, police chief and members of the Society of AfroAmerican Police to discuss the shooting.

Sgt. Richard Dix, executive director of the black officers group, says he does not believe the incident was racially motivated. But he said local and federal officials were looking at the underlying causes of the case.

Mayor James Rutherford, a former police chief, says he agrees with Justice Department officials who indicated they felt a training and screening problem existed within the police department.

One Worker Is Missing In Elkhart Factory Blast

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
"There were people afire running around all over," Woodward County Sheriff Creel Gaston was told as he arrived at the scene of gas explosion near rural Mooreland, Okla.
Gaston found three dead and four injured in the blast Wednesday and fire in a ditch leading to a gas company's compressor.
A separate series of explosions at an aerosol container plant in Elkhart, Ind., Wednesday left a woman missing, 24 persons hurt and $1 million in damages.
Workers searched through the debris today trying to determine the causes of both explosions.
Killed in the Oklahoma accident were Russell Warren, 22, of Seiling, Okla., and Bonnie Contreras, 34, and Marcus Pando, 19, Mexican nationals living near the community of May, Okla.
"It was possibly a flash fire rather than an explosion," said Gaston. "I understand they were using a heater down in the hole, and something that seeped in may have exploded."
Temperatures were near zero at the time.
Ambulances were summoned to the remote area to transport the victims after a helicopter from Ft. Sill was unable to land at the compressor station because of high winds.
In Elkhart, officials of Accra Pac, Inc., said the missing employee was Gail Parnell of Elkhart. Witnesses said they saw the woman with her clothes afire shortly after the first blast.
A company spokesman said the plant employs about 80 persons but only 29 were inside at the time of the explosions. The rest were at lunch.
Fifteen workers were hurt. The rest of the injured were fire fighters and rescue workers.
The plant, located in an industrial park on the city's east side, was destroyed.
Pupils were kept in two high schools until a threat of toxic gas subsided, while several hundred residents around the plant were evacuated.
A detachment of Indiana National Guard members stood by with 300 gas masks and other emergency equipment.
The six most seriously injured, all in critical condition, were transferred from Elkhart General Hospital to the burn treatment unit of St. Joseph's Hospital in Fort Wayne, Ind.
A bomb exploded Wednesday night behind the Dean Witter & Co. stock brokerage office in Reno, Nev., police said. No injuries were reported.

Victim Freed; French Hunting Six Kidnappers

PARIS (AP) — A telephone number found in the trouser cuff of a suspect led police to kidnap record company chief Louis Hazan Wednesday night, and today the police were hunting for six of his kidnapers.
The telephone number was that of a walled house, in Trembley les Villages, a small town 70 miles west of Paris. Inside, police found Hazan chained and gagged in a cupboard but unhurt after a week in captivity.
The police said five other members of the kidnap gang, including the leader, and his brother, had been arrested and that none of the $3.4-million ransom demanded had been paid.
Hazan, 54-year-old chief executive of Phonogram, France's largest producer of phonograph records, was kidnaped from a company board meeting Dec. 31 by six men posing as musicians. They took him out in a large wicker basket.
The break in the case came Tuesday night when police seized two brothers in their 30s, with minor criminal records, who came to a ransom rendezvous at the Place de la Bastille in central Paris.
A third member of the gang was seized Wednesday morning. It was in his cuff that the vital phone number was discovered.
As the police entered the house after scaling the wall, three men guarding the kidnaped man fled.
Hazan was "very shaken but unhurt," police reported. They said he had been brought to the house a short time before.
Hazan told reporters he had been kept in the dark all the time, with a hood over his face and his eyes taped.
He said he was "very well treated," fed regularly, taken twice daily to the toilet and given medicine for a stomach ailment.
The alleged leader of the gang was arrested Wednesday night at his parents' apartment in a middle-class housing development near Versailles. He was identified as Hugo Brunini, 35, a French-Italian, and director of an office-cleaning company engaged by Phonogram.
Brunini's brother, who police said apparently knew of the kidnaping but did not take an active part, was seized Wednesday at Orly Airport as he prepared to take a plane to Italy.

White Gold Falls On U.S. Ski Resorts

Snow, the white gold of the nation's 5 million to 7 million skiers, has been falling heavily at many favorite ski resorts, helping them to smash holiday attendance records.
Business was especially good over the Christmas holiday in the New England states, New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan. Some resorts in those states said it snowed over the holidays this season for the first time in five years.
Colorado, Idaho and Wyoming areas have been getting their usual mountains of snow. Aspen, Colo., reports it broke a single-day attendance record on Dec. 30 with 15,722 skiers, and attendance for the Christmas week was up 16 per cent from last year's record.
Vail, Colo., President Ford's vacation spot, reported that lift ticket sales shot up 42 per cent over December 1974 to $1.2 million.

New York State's Commerce Department surveyed 13 ski areas, and nine said business was better than last season.
An Associated Press spot check showed the only bleak skiing spot in the nation is the Far West. Two ski resorts in California and one in Nevada were closed temporarily this week because of lack of snow.

Hans von Nolde, a spokesman for California's Squaw Valley ski area, said business over-all is down 25 to 30 per cent.
"We are actually in better shape than many others," he says. "The people are just waiting for the good stuff to move. If the snow is good, then I think we are far away from being a disaster area."
A white Christmas is more than just a song title to ski resort operators. Cal Conniff, a spokesman for the industry organization, the National Ski Areas Association, estimates that 25 to 30 per cent of an area's annual business takes place over Christmas and New Year's.
Conniff estimates that overall, holiday skiing business was up 15 to 20 per cent across the nation from last season.
Lift ticket prices, for the most part, have held steady from last season or gone up about 10 per cent in some areas. The range is from a low of about $7 a day at Big Tupper in New York's Adirondack Mountains up to $11 and beyond at the big, artificial snow-making areas like Stowe, Vt., and Hunter, N.Y. Vail and Aspen, Colo., and Sun Valley, Idaho, each increased their one-day adult prices to $11 from $10 this season.

Some areas surveyed say that skiers — faced with average per-day expenses of $50 to $60 for food, accommodations, lift tickets and equipment — are becoming more dollar-conscious.
In response, some resorts like Jimmy Peak in Massachusetts are offering package-deal savings with a Bicentennial flavor. At Jimmy, Monday is "Berkshire Day," Tuesday is "Albany Day," and Thursday is "Connecticut Day," when residents of those areas can get $2-$3 discounts on lift tickets.
Bolton ski area in Vermont has offered "Spirit of '76" week packages offering discounts to full-week skiers.
Wende Frutchy, a spokeswoman for Sugarloaf Mountain in Maine and secretary of the Ski Maine Association, notes that skiers are traveling in groups more now, taking advantage of package deals and group discounts.
She also says more people are traveling in each car than last season, probably a hangover

Mrs. Wilson said the deadline for entering the contest is 4:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 19.
Young women between 17 and 21 and who are residents of the Dowagiac Union school district are eligible to enter the contest, she said.

St. Joe Street Back To Two-Way
One-way Church street in downtown St. Joseph reverts to normal two-way traffic today, according to Jim Talbot, director of public works for the city.
A block of Church between Port and Ship streets has been one-way since about last spring because of bridge construction between downtown St. Joseph and Benton Harbor. This block will go back to one-way traffic again for a while in about six months as bridge-related construction continues, Talbot noted.

GEORGIA

Home Of The First Gold Rush

BY TOM COFFEY
SAVANNAH, Ga. — (NEA) — Americans link the nation's gold craze with California and other places in the Golden West. Few know that America's first gold rush centered around a town in Georgia called Auraria, still in existence.
A gold rush took place in Auraria in 1828, 10 years before it shifted to Dahlonega, a few miles north, where visitors still prospect for gold nuggets in mountain streams. It was from Auraria in 1838 that Green Russell led a group west to establish another Auraria — that later became Denver, Colo.

The gold rush was only one of the firsts associated with America's 13th state. There are many others:
—In 1844 the first ice-manufacturing machine in the country began operation in Columbus. Bainbridge, a few miles south of Columbus, is the birthplace of the automatic bottle washer.
—Coca-Cola was invented in Georgia.
—The first federal appropriation for Rural Free Delivery of mail was obtained by Georgia Congressman Tom Watson in 1893.
—Georgia was the first state to grant full property rights to married women.

Berrien Twp. Bicentennial Panel To Meet

BERRIEN CENTER — The Bicentennial committee of Berrien township will hold its monthly meeting on Thursday, Jan. 15, in the old county courthouse in Berrien Springs at 2 p.m. Ebon Ullrey will preside.
Those interested in helping with committee plans and activities are invited to attend, according to Mrs. Lois Foster, executive secretary.

Gobles Queen Contest Deadline Saturday

GOBLES — Young women wishing to enter the Gobles Blossom Queen contest have until Saturday, Jan. 10, to do so, according to Mrs. Marlin (Sandra) Zantello who is contest co-chairman along with her husband.
Contestants must be 17 by March 29, no older than 21 and a resident in the Gobles school district, she said. The contest will be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 14 at the Gobles high school. Mrs. Zantello said a Gobles contest theme has not yet been chosen.

One Gobles Student Asks Grade Review

GOBLES — Only one student at Gobles high school has so far asked for a review offered by the school board to students who believe they received failing grades in 1972 through 1974 because of a now-defunct attendance policy.
The attendance policy called for a student's grades to be reduced for unexcused absences, according to Tommie Saylor, high school principal. He said high school students at Gobles during those years will have until Feb. 1 to request a review of failing grades they believe they received because of the attendance policy.
The Gobles school board on Dec. 8 agreed to allow students to request the review, which could result in an improved academic record.
The attendance policy was dropped by the board in late 1974 amid a storm of public criticism and after a lawsuit was filed.
Saylor said the student whose parents filed the lawsuit against the attendance policy has not yet asked for a review.
He said the board's decision to allow the grade reviews is part of an out-of-court settlement reached between the parents and the school district.

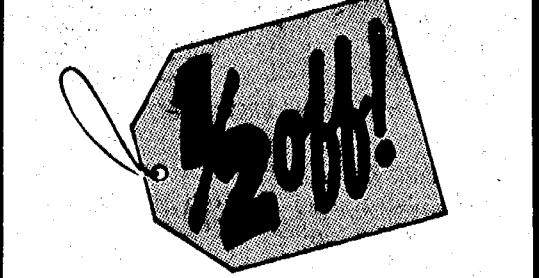

movement, with stronger appeals.
The following March, Georgians living in St. John's Parish, south of Savannah, met and elected Dr. Lyman Hall to be their delegate to the Second Continental Congress scheduled to convene in Philadelphia in May. Sentiment there differed vastly from that in Savannah, St. John's being a rural parish whose residents came from New England with a background of 200 years in America.
By contrast, three Savannah (Christ Church Parish) residents who had been elected by the Provincial Assembly to the Second Continental Congress declined to attend on the grounds that they were not representative of the colony's people. Only five of the 10 parishes had bothered to send delegates.
If there had been any wavering, though, it stopped when on May 10, 1775, word reached Savannah of the April 19 shootings at Lexington and Concord that started the revolution.
Some of the Liberty Boys met at a private home on that day and planned Georgia's first rebellious act against the Crown — the stealing of gunpowder from the King's Magazine. Ironically, one of the leaders of the theft was Noble Wimberly Jones, one of those from Savannah who had been elected to the Second Continental Congress, but had declined to go on the grounds that the election wasn't "representative" of Georgia.
Dr. Lyman Hall, the physician, did decide to go, however, and it was on the way to Philadelphia that he heard of the revolution's outbreak. He would become one of Georgia's three signers of the Declaration of Independence.

GEORGIA

Home Of The First Gold Rush

BY TOM COFFEY

SAVANNAH, Ga. — (NEA) — Americans link the nation's gold craze with California and other places in the Golden West. Few know that America's first gold rush centered around a town in Georgia called Auraria, still in existence.

A gold rush took place in Auraria in 1828, 10 years before it shifted to Dahlonega, a few miles north, where visitors still prospect for gold nuggets in mountain streams. It was from Auraria in 1858 that Green Russell led a group west to establish —Georgia was the first state to have a hospital for blacks, opened in Savannah in 1832 and recently converted to further humanitarian use in the desegregation of other, formerly segregated hospital facilities.

—The Girl Scouts of America was founded in 1912 at Savannah by Juliette Gordon Low.

—Golf was first played in America, in 1736, on links now used by the Savannah Golf Club.

—The Steamship Savannah, first steam-powered vessel to cross any ocean, sailed in 1819 movement, with stronger appeals.

The following March, Georgians living in St. John's Parish, south of Savannah, met and elected Dr. Lyman Hall to be their delegate to the Second Continental Congress scheduled to convene in Philadelphia in May. Sentiment there differed vastly from that in Savannah. St. John's being a rural parish whose residents came from New England with a background of 200 years in America.

By contrast, three Savannah (Christ Church Parish) residents who had been elected by the Provincial Assembly to the Second Continental Congress declined to attend on the grounds that they were not representative of the colony's people. Only five of the 10 parishes had bothered to send delegates.

If there had been any waver-ing, though, it stopped when on May 10, 1775, word reached Savannah of the April 19 shootings at Lexington and Concord that started the revolution.

Some of the Liberty Boys met at a private home on that day and planned Georgia's first rebellious act against the Crown — the stealing of gunpowder from the King's Magazine. Ironically, one of the leaders of the theft was Noble Wimberly Jones, one of those from Savannah who had been elected to the Second Continental Congress, but had declined to go on the grounds that the election wasn't "representative" of Georgia.

Dr. Lyman Hall, the physician, did decide to go, however, and it was on the way to Philadelphia that he heard of the revolution's outbreak. He would become one of Georgia's three signers of the Declaration of Independence.

THE PEACH STATE

Area: 58,876 sq. mi.; rank, 21st. Population (1974): 4,882,000; rank, 15. Capital: Atlanta. Motto: Wisdom, Justice, Moderation. Flower: Cherokee rose. Bird: Brown thrasher. Tree: Live oak. Song: Georgia. Fourth of the 13 original states to ratify the Constitution, Jan. 2, 1788. Nicknames: Empire State of the South, Peach State.

Gen. James Oglethorpe established the first settlements, 1733, for poor and religiously persecuted Englishmen. Oglethorpe defeated a Spanish army from Florida at Bloody Marsh, 1742. In the Revolution, Georgians seized the Savannah armory, 1775, and sent the munitions to the Continental Army. Led by Light Horse Harry Lee, Elijah Clarke, Andrew Pickens and Anthony Wayne, Georgians fought sea-saw campaigns with Cornwallis' British troops, twice liberating Augusta and forcing final evacuation by the British from Savannah, 1782.

another Auraria — that later became Denver, Colo.

The gold rush was only one of the firsts associated with America's 13th state. There are many others:

—In 1844 the first ice-manufacturing machine in the country began operation in Columbus. Bainbridge, a few miles south of Columbus, is the birthplace of the automatic bottle washer.

—Coca-Cola was invented in Georgia.

—The first federal appropriation for Rural Free Delivery of mail was obtained by Georgia Congressman Tom Watson in 1893.

—Georgia was the first state to grant full property rights to married women.

One Gobles Student Asks Grade Review

GOBLES — Only one student at Gobles high school has so far asked for a review offered by the school board to students who believe they received failing grades in 1972 through 1974 because of a now-defunct attendance policy.

The attendance policy called for a student's grades to be reduced for unexcused absences, according to Tommie Saylor, high school principal. He said high school students at Gobles during those years will have until Feb. 1 to request a review of failing grades they believe they received because of the attendance policy.

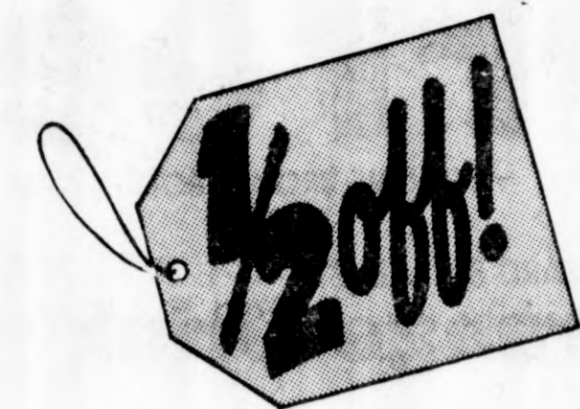

The Gobles school board on Dec. 8 agreed to allow students to request the review, which could result in an improved academic record.

The attendance policy was dropped by the board in late 1974 amid a storm of public criticism and after a lawsuit was filed.

Saylor said the student whose parents filed the lawsuit against the attendance policy has not yet asked for a review.

He said the board's decision to allow the grade reviews is part of an out-of-court settlement reached between the parents and the school district.

Missing Executive Is Using An Alias

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Authorities on Wednesday charged a Grand Rapids businessman with larceny in connection with his closed bookkeeping firm and revealed the man has been using an assumed name in the business since 1973.

Donald Johnston, assistant chief Kent County prosecutor, said the man sought is James Robert Redican, 42, of Holland. Authorities originally believed the missing man's name was Thomas J. Redican.

"He evidently has been using the name of a brother who is not in this vicinity," Johnston said. Johnston did not indicate the whereabouts of the brother whose name was borrowed.

Redican is president of Computer Payroll and Accounting Services, a Kentwood-based firm which recently closed its doors, leaving a tangled financial web which authorities have spent nearly a week trying to straighten out.

The firm prepared payroll checks for its clients and issued its own checks to pay the wages of workers for the firms hiring it. Then, Computer Payroll received the clients' check for money spent paying its workers plus a bookkeeping fee.

The Computer Payroll checks began bouncing about Dec. 17. Some were made good by the firm; but in most cases, the workers' employer wound up footing the bill.

Johnston said investigators believe that Redican is the only Computer Payroll employee linked with the incident.

The extent of the operation is uncertain. "I can't even give you a firm estimate" of how many clients the firm had, Johnston said Wednesday. He said some estimates range from 400 to 600 companies.

Johnston said about all authorities know of Redican other than his real name is that he is believed to be from New York City or Long Island originally. His wife, Gail, is a native of Syracuse, N.Y., authorities reported.

Johnston said he is asking the U.S. attorney in Grand Rapids to issue a federal fugitive warrant for Redican. He already is sought under a warrant charging larceny by conversion. An anonymous tipster indicated Redican and his wife may be heading for Long Island.

Johnston said more warrants may be issued in the case. Both Johnston and Sgt. Donald Yerrick of the Kentwood Police said employees of the firm have cooperated in the probe. One of those employees is Russell Greavu of Spring Lake, the firm's general manager.

Yerrick said one employee showed officers how to find the firm's books. A preliminary study reportedly indicated Computer Payroll operated only in Michigan. There were earlier reports the firm's activities might have covered California and other states.

Meanwhile, three Holland firms filed a petition seeking to have Computer Payroll declared bankrupt.

Kids Go To Jail With Mothers

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Some mothers sent to jail here won't have to be separated from their preschool children. The county is going to let them take the kids along.

"We wanted to avoid the trauma of separation," Santa Clara County Sheriff James Geary said in an interview Wednesday. "We did not want to send these children to foster homes unless absolutely necessary."

SJ Scouts To Conduct Paper Drive

The E.P. Clarke school Boy Scout Troop 007 of St. Joseph will conduct a paper drive from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. Scouts will be stationed at Clarke, North Lincoln, Lakeshore high school and Fairplain Middle schools to receive old newspapers and magazines. The Louis Eisenhart residence, 428 East Glenford road, Lincoln township, has also been designated as a collection point.

REUNITED AFTER 63 YEARS: Mrs. Anna Gosselin of Winnipeg, Ont., Canada, was reunited with her brother Henry Krotter of Trenton, Mich., Wednesday night at Windsor Airport. The couple last saw one another in 1912. Mrs. Gosselin didn't know of her brother's existence, or a sister who now lives in California, until 1957 when she ran an ad which was answered by a Saskatchewan woman who knew the Krotter family in the early 1900s. No Improprieties In Bell Case, PSC Chairman Says

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Public Service Commission Chairman Daniel Demlow says a preliminary review of an alleged $12 million overcharge to Michigan Bell's 1974 customers shows commission staff members "did not act improperly."

But Demlow also said Wednesday that no rebates would be ordered to Michigan Bell's customers until the commission decides cases pending on the matter, which involves how deferred tax benefits are listed on Bell's books.

If listed one way, customers get no benefit. If listed another, they pay lower rates, but Bell receives less revenue.

Demlow criticized Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Kalamazoo, chairman of a special committee investigating the PSC, for issuing a press release about the so-called overcharge.

"The complexity of the issue itself defies such simplistic and unrealistic conclusions," he said.

Wolpe charged Monday, based on PSC staff testimony before his committee, that Bell overcharged its 2.8 million customers in 1974 by $10 million to $12 million.

He said this happened because PSC auditors failed to point out an accounting discrepancy they found just as the commission prepared to grant Bell a $24.7 million rate increase in December 1973.

PSC accountants said at the time that they did not know how to handle the discrepancy but "on 20-20 hindsight" would have recommended that the 1973 rate case be reopened.

Bell officials claim the Federal Communications Commission allows the accounting used by the utility. The tax benefits are linked to removing equipment from operation.

Hugh Larkin, a Wolpe committee accountant, said Wednesday that a state regulatory commission, like the PSC, may decide to treat the accounts any way it wishes.

The PSC reversed its 1973 handling of the account in December 1974 when it passed the benefits of the tax break to ratepayers.

But two cases are pending — one involving Bell and another involving General Telephone Co. — in which the PSC will have to decide how the accounts will be handled in the future.

Demlow said he would ask that the cases be speeded up.

Missing Executive Is Using An Alias

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Authorities on Wednesday charged a Grand Rapids businessman with larceny in connection with his closed bookkeeping firm and revealed the man has been using an assumed name in the business since 1973.

Donald Johnston, assistant chief Kent County prosecutor, said the man sought is James Robert Redican, 42, of Holland. Authorities originally believed the missing man's name was Thomas J. Redican.

"He evidently has been using the name of a brother who is not in this vicinity," Johnston said. Johnston did not indicate the whereabouts of the brother whose name was borrowed.

Redican is president of Computer Payroll and Accounting Services, a Kentwood-based firm which recently closed its doors, leaving a tangled financial web which authorities have spent nearly a week trying to straighten out.

The firm prepared payroll checks for its clients and issued its own checks to pay the wages of workers for the firms hiring it. Then, Computer Payroll received the clients' check for money spent paying its workers plus a bookkeeping fee.

The Computer Payroll checks began bouncing about Dec. 17. Some were made good by the firm; but in most cases, the workers' employer wound up footing the bill.

Johnston said investigators believe that Redican is the only Computer Payroll employee linked with the incident.

The extent of the operation is uncertain. "I can't even give you a firm estimate" of how many clients the firm had, Johnston said Wednesday. He said some estimates range from 400 to 600 companies.

Johnston said about all authorities know of Redican other than his real name is that he is believed to be from New York City or Long Island originally. His wife, Gail, is a native of Syracuse, N.Y., authorities reported.

Johnston said he is asking the U.S. attorney in Grand Rapids to issue a federal fugitive warrant for Redican. He already is sought under a warrant charging larceny by conversion. An anonymous tipster indicated Redican and his wife may be heading for Long Island.

Johnston said more warrants may be issued in the case. Both Johnston and Sgt. Donald Yerrick of the Kentwood Police said employees of the firm have cooperated in the probe. One of those employees is Russell Greavu of Spring Lake, the firm's general manager.

Yerrick said one employee showed officers how to find the firm's books. A preliminary study reportedly indicated Computer Payroll operated only in Michigan. There were earlier reports the firm's activities might have covered California and other states.

Meanwhile, three Holland firms filed a petition seeking to have Computer Payroll declared bankrupt.

Kids Go To Jail With Mothers

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Some mothers sent to jail here won't have to be separated from their preschool children. The county is going to let them take the kids along.

"We wanted to avoid the trauma of separation," Santa Clara County Sheriff James Geary said in an interview Wednesday. "We did not want to send these children to foster homes unless absolutely necessary."

SJ Scouts To Conduct Paper Drive

The E.P. Clarke school Boy Scout Troop 607 of St. Joseph will conduct a paper drive from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. Scouts will be stationed at Clarke, North Lincoln, Lakeshore high school and Fairplain Middle schools to receive old newspapers and magazines. The Louis Eisenhart residence, 628 East Glenford road, Lincoln township, has also been designated as a collection point.

No Improprieties In Bell Case, PSC Chairman Says

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Public Service Commission Chairman Daniel Demlow says a preliminary review of an alleged $12 million overcharge to Michigan Bell's 1974 customers shows commission staff members "did not act improperly."

But Demlow also said Wednesday that no rebates would be ordered to Michigan Bell's customers until the commission decides cases pending on the matter, which involves how deferred tax benefits are listed on Bell's books.

If listed one way, customers get no benefit. If listed another, they pay lower rates, but Bell receives less revenue.

Demlow criticized Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Kalamazoo, chairman of a special committee investigating the PSC, for issuing a press release about the so-called overcharge.

"The complexity of the issue itself defies such simplistic and unrealistic conclusions," he said.

Wolpe charged Monday, based on PSC staff testimony before his committee, that Bell

overcharged its 2.8 million customers in 1974 by $10 million to $12 million.

He said this happened because PSC auditors failed to point out an accounting discrepancy they found just as the commission prepared to grant Bell a $24.7 million rate increase in December 1973.

PSC accountants said at the time that they did not know how to handle the discrepancy but "on 20-20 hindsight" would have recommended that the 1973 rate case be reopened.

Bell officials claim the Federal Communications Commission allows the accounting used by the utility. The tax benefits are linked to removing equipment from operation.

Hugh Larkin, a Wolpe committee accountant, said Wednesday that a state regulatory commission, like the PSC, may decide to treat the accounts any way it wishes.

The PSC reversed its 1973 handling of the account in December 1974 when it passed the benefits of the tax break to ratepayers.

But two cases are pending — one involving Bell and another involving General Telephone Co. — in which the PSC will have to decide how the accounts will be handled in the future.

Niles Pair Capture Honors

NILES — Scott Foster, M-140, Niles township, was first place winner in livestock and carcass judging at the West Michigan Livestock show held recently at Grand Rapids. Competitors for the trophy were from the western half of the state, including the Upper Peninsula.

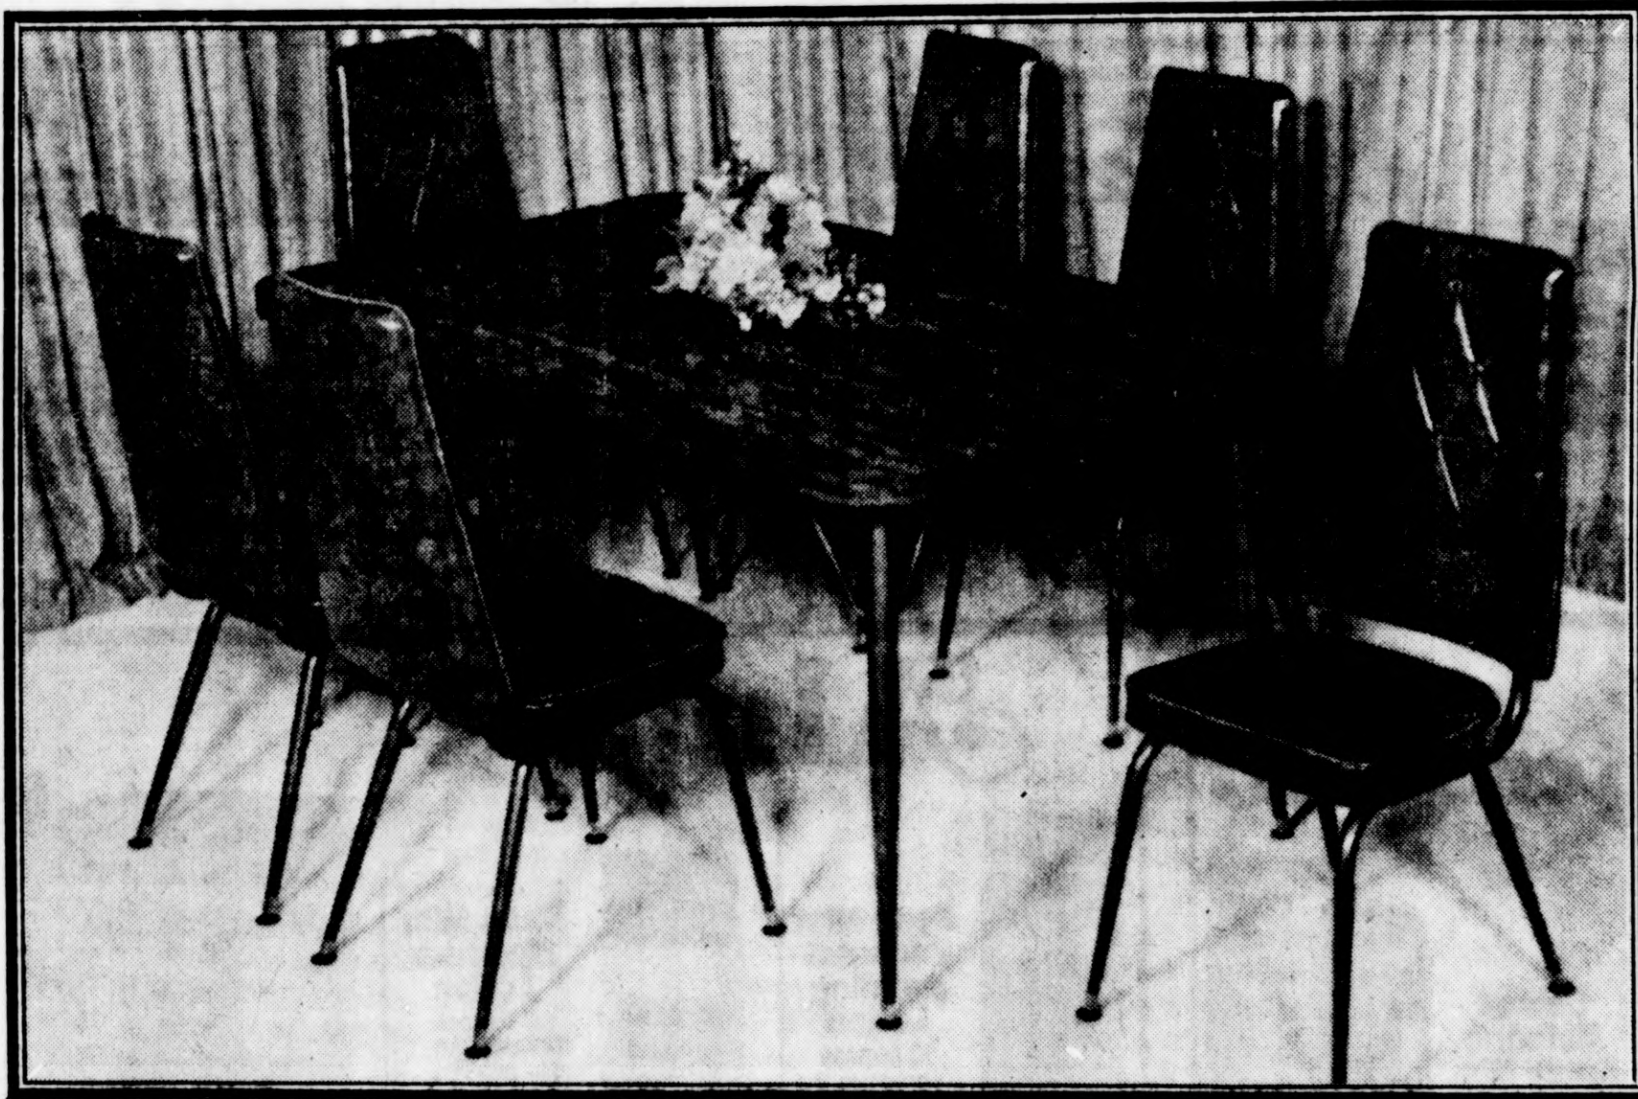

His brother, Bruce Foster, edged him out for first place in senior beef showmanship. Scott was second in that event.

The brothers are students at Niles high school and are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dale R. Foster.

REUNITED AFTER 63 YEARS: Mrs. Anna Gosselin of Winnipeg, Ont., Canada, was reunited with her brother Henry Krotter of Trenton, Mich., Wednesday night at Windsor Airport. The couple last saw one another in 1912. Mrs. Gosselin didn't know of her brother's existence, or a sister who now lives in California, until 1957 when she ran an ad which was answered by a Saskatchewan woman who knew the Krotter family in the early 1900s. Age Catching Up With Some Very Famous Actors

Q: I see Richard Burton is 59. Can you tell me the exact ages of some other movie stars over that magic age, such as Paul Newman? — S. W., Boston, Mass.

A: Well, Newman is almost 51. Marlon Brando is 51. Dirk Bogarde is 54. Burt Lancaster is 62. Frank Sinatra is 60. Gregory Peck is 59. Kirk Douglas is 57. Bill Holden is 57. Rock Hudson is just 50.

Q: Is Paul Newman really going to play a homosexual in a movie? — F. L., Phila., Pa.

A: It's true that Paul Newman will play a homosexual in a film version of the novel "The Front Runner." Paul plays a track coach who falls in love with a champion long-distance runner he is coaching for the Olympics. This movie probably wouldn't have been done two years ago, but with the recent revelations that many professional athletes are homosexual, it becomes very timely.

Q: Do you know if it's true that they are going to start up that TV series, "The Avengers," again? — E. C., Bakersfield, Calif.

A: The report is that the popular series is indeed in for a rebirth. Patrick Macnee, who for years was the male part of the "Avenger" team, will be back in his old role but his glamorous partner will no longer be Diana Rigg. They are looking for another girl for the role which brought stardom not only to Diana but Honor Blackman and Linda Thorson, who preceded Diana.

MORE ON THE WHEELCHAIR CAR: There have been many requests for further information on an earlier item about a car especially designed for wheelchair occupants. Two groups of English designers are at work on the project; one in association with British Leyland in Coventry, England. But the results in both cases have not yet been disclosed and there is no vehicle currently on the market. But, if the response to our item is any indication, there is a real need for this type of transportation.

Q: With movie budgets getting bigger and bigger, what chance do newcomers have of breaking into the business? — P. J., Houston, Tex.

A: It might encourage you to know that Universal has just picked up a film made by two 17-year-old lads, Don Coscarelli and Craig Mitchell. The movie, entitled "Jim — The World's Greatest," is being completed in the studio and will go out as a major release.

Q: Judge Roy Hofheinz said he'd sell the Houston Astros and the lease on the famous Astrodome if he couldn't produce the $38 million owed to leading institutions by mid-October. Did he? — G. E., Baytown, Tex.

A: So far, no. We hear there are no takers.

CAR SALES DOWN: Chart details new car sales in the U.S. — comparing 1975 and 1974. Domestic new car sales in 1975 plummeted to their worst levels in 13 years despite an impressive rally in the final quarter. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Yearend Upturn Gives U.S. Auto Industry Hope

DETROIT (AP) — Buoyed by a sharp yearend upturn, the nation's car makers have wasted no time in shutting the books on their worst sales year since 1962 to set their sights on a strong recovery for 1976.

Sales reports released by the industry Wednesday showed domestic sales last year limped in at an anemic total of 7,050,120. But increased showroom activity in the last three months of the year — including a big surge in December — bolstered predictions of a 20 per cent gain this year to a respectable 8.5 million new cars.

Sales last year trailed 1974 by 5 per cent and were off 27 per cent from the record 9.7 million sold in 1973.

The December daily selling rate of 23,049 was up 34 per cent over the recession-wracked levels of the year before. Last month's rate even eclipsed by one-half per cent the daily rate for December 1973, when fuel shortages first plunged the industry into its worst slump since the Great Depression.

The sharp gain over 1974 levels for December followed increases of 23 per cent in October and 33 per cent in November.

"The industry officially laid its two-year slump to rest in December," said one auto analyst. "The industry should have a good year in 1976."

Bennett E. Bidwell, Ford Motor Co. sales vice president, said:

"We are entering 1976 in an economic climate considerably improved from that facing us at the beginning of 1975. We expect automotive sales in 1976 to outperform the general economy."

Despite the domestic sales slump in 1975, foreign cars capitalized on mounting consumer interest in low prices and high fuel economy to chalk up their third best sales year ever and capture a record 18 per cent share of the American market.

It was not a good year for Volkswagen, however. The West German auto, which had been the top-selling U.S. import for 20 years in a row, was dethroned in 1975 by Japan's Toyota. VW's sales dropped 20 per cent in 1975 while Toyota's jumped 19 per cent.

Analysts said soaring inflation in Europe made it impossible for VW to compete effectively against lower-priced imports from Japan, which captured more than half the import market and a tenth of all U.S. sales in 1975.

Total new-car sales last year, including imports, came to 8,625,600, a 2.5 per cent decline from 1974 and the lowest volume in five years.

General Motors, which sustained the largest decline in 1974 because of its emphasis on large cars with relatively poor fuel economy, was the only U.S. maker to show a gain in 1975, with sales up 1.4 per cent over 1974.

American Motors was off 4 per cent, Ford 10 per cent and Chrysler 17 per cent.

Toyota Ends Volkswagen Reign As Imports King

DETROIT (AP) — Volkswagen's 20-year reign as the top-selling U.S. import came to an expected end in 1975 as Japan's Toyota became the king among America's most popular foreign cars.

Toyota's coronation came Wednesday with the release of year-end sales reports from the auto industry, and the figures showed more than just a setback for West Germany's VW.

After running neck-and-neck with European makers for a year, Japanese auto companies captured more than half the import market in 1975 and threatened to conquer even more territory this year.

Moreover, the Japanese took nearly one sale in 10 overall in the United States last year to set a record.

The Japanese makers moved ahead because they were able to hold prices under $3,000, a figure that inflation-besieged

European importers found increasingly harder to match.

Toyota's 1975 sales jumped 19 per cent over the year before to 284,000. VW finished with sales of 268,000 — down 20 per cent from 1974 — and barely held onto second place.

No. 3 Datsun, another Japanese product, finished with record sales of 263,000, up 39 per cent from 1974.

VW, which does not expect a significant sales gain in 1976, was overtaken by Toyota in the fall as steadily rising costs in West Germany pushed VW's prices out of the low-economy end of the market.

It was a problem shared by several other European makers. Only six of 21 imports registered sales declines in 1975, and all were European.

The six Japanese imports now on the market had record sale of 817,000. Just a decade ago, they sold one-tenth as many. Datsun, Honda and Subaru set sales records in 1975 while the other three had sharp sales gains over 1974. The Japanese are looking for even stronger U.S. sales this year, partly because of the arrival of two more Eastern cars — the Plymouth Arrow and new Buick Opel.

The East-West import battle was overshadowed by the auto war for the U.S. market between the domestic and foreign makers. But the success of the Japanese was not lost to Detroit, which is importing three Japanese cars this year for distribution by Big Three dealers.

The Arrow and Opel join the already established Dodge Colt.

Overall, imports captured the fancy of nearly 1,575,500 American new-car buyers in 1975 to take a record share of the U.S. market.

Yearend Upturn Gives U.S. Auto Industry Hope

DETROIT (AP) — Buoyed by a sharp yearend upturn, the nation's car makers have wasted no time in shutting the books on their worst sales year since 1962 to set their sights on a strong recovery for 1976.

Sales reports released by the industry Wednesday showed domestic sales last year limped in at an anemic total of 7,050,120. But increased showroom activity in the last three months of the year — including a big surge in December — bolstered predictions of a 20 per cent gain this year to a respectable 8.5 million new cars.

Sales last year trailed 1974 by 5 per cent and were off 27 per cent from the record 9.7 million sold in 1973.

The December daily selling rate of 23,049 was up 34 per cent over the recession-wracked levels of the year before. Last month's rate even eclipsed by one-half per cent the daily rate for December 1973, when fuel shortages first plunged the industry into its worst slump since the Great Depression.

The sharp gain over 1974 levels for December followed increases of 23 per cent in October and 33 per cent in November.

"The industry officially laid its two-year slump to rest in December," said one auto analyst. "The industry should have a good year in 1976."

Bennett E. Bidwell, Ford Motor Co. sales vice president, said:

"We are entering 1976 in an economic climate considerably improved from that facing us at the beginning of 1975. We expect automotive sales in 1976 to outperform the general economy."

Despite the domestic sales slump in 1975, foreign cars capitalized on mounting consumer interest in low prices and high fuel economy to chalk up their third best sales year ever and capture a record 18 per cent share of the American market.

It was not a good year for Volkswagen, however. The West German auto, which had been the top-selling U.S. import for 20 years in a row, was dethroned in 1975 by Japan's Toyota. VW's sales dropped 20 per cent in 1975 while Toyota's jumped 19 per cent.

Analysts said soaring inflation in Europe made it impossible for VW to compete effectively against lower-priced imports from Japan, which captured more than half the import market and a tenth of all U.S. sales in 1975.

Total new-car sales last year, including imports, came to 8,625,600, a 2.5 per cent decline from 1974 and the lowest volume in five years.

General Motors, which sustained the largest decline in 1974 because of its emphasis on large cars with relatively poor fuel economy, was the only U.S. maker to show a gain in 1975, with sales up 1.4 per cent over 1974.

American Motors was off 4 per cent, Ford 10 per cent and Chrysler 17 per cent.

Toyota Ends Volkswagen Reign As Imports King

DETROIT (AP) — Volkswagen's 20-year reign as the top-selling U.S. import came to an expected end in 1975 as Japan's Toyota became the king among America's most popular foreign car.

Toyota's coronation came Wednesday with the release of year-end sales reports from the auto industry, and the figures showed more than just a setback for West Germany's VW.

After running neck-and-neck with European makers for a year, Japanese auto companies captured more than half the import market in 1975 and threatened to conquer even more territory this year.

Moreover, the Japanese took nearly one sale in 10 overall in the United States last year to set a record.

The Japanese makers moved ahead because they were able to hold prices under $3,000, a figure that inflation-besieged

European importers found increasingly harder to match.

Toyota's 1975 sales jumped 19 per cent over the year before to 284,000. VW finished with sales of 268,000 — down 20 per cent from 1974 — and barely held onto second place.

No. 3 Datsun, another Japanese product, finished with record sales of 263,000, up 39 per cent from 1974.

VW, which does not expect a significant sales gain in 1976, was overtaken by Toyota in the fall as steadily rising costs in West Germany pushed VW's prices out of the low-economy end of the market.

It was a problem shared by several other European makers. Only six of 21 imports registered sales declines in 1975, and all were European.

The six Japanese imports now on the market had record sale of 817,000. Just a decade ago, they sold one-tenth as many. Datsun, Honda and Subaru set sales records in 1975 while the other three had sharp sales gains over 1974. The Japanese are looking for even stronger U.S. sales this year, partly because of the arrival of two more Eastern cars — the Plymouth Arrow and new Buick Opel.

The East-West import battle was overshadowed by the auto war for the U.S. market between the domestic and foreign makers. But the success of the Japanese was not lost to Detroit, which is importing three Japanese cars this year for distribution by Big Three dealers.

The Arrow and Opel join the already established Dodge Colt.

Milliken Names South Haven Man

LANSING — Wayne A. Erny of rural South Haven is one of two men named by Gov. William Milliken yesterday to the Agricultural Labor commission.

Also named was Allen E. Shapley of Mason, an associate professor of agricultural economics at Michigan State University. The appointments for terms to end in November, 1983, require state Senate approval.

Erny, 38, owns and operates Arvesta farms on CR-388. The 514-acre farm includes about 130 acres of orchards. Erny also grows corn and wheat.

He is a 1955 South Haven high school graduate and took several farm-oriented courses at MSU.

He has been in farming for about 20 years. Erny and his wife Roberta have three children. He has not held an appointive or elective public office before.

GRAND JUNCTION

Gunman Halts Police; Suspect Is Arrested

GRAND JUNCTION — A 29-year-old Grand Junction man surrendered to state police officers early this morning after an armed man kept police at bay from inside a house for more than an hour.

State police from the South Haven post said they had been summoned to the house after a Willie Mae Stout said her boyfriend had fired two shots at her during a quarrel there.

Officers said when they arrived at the Stout home about 12:25 a.m., a man in the house refused to let them enter. Two shotgun blasts were fired in the direction of officers from within the house but no one was injured, state police said.

About an hour later, police said, a man later identified as Clegg Byrd, 29, surrendered and was arrested on a charge of felonious assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder in connection with an alleged assault on Mrs. Stout.

He was to be arraigned on the charge in Van Buren Seventh district court in South Haven today, police said.

Police said a window and a ceiling in the house had been damaged by shotgun blasts as well as the windshield of a pickup truck parked outside.

Byrd had been living at the residence, state police said they were told.

Liquor Law 'Unconstitutional'

LANSING, Mich. (A) — A 1975 law which could have meant more liquor licenses for Upper Peninsula bars and resorts has been declared unconstitutional by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. Kelley ruled Wednesday that a section of a 1975 appropriations bill violates the state Constitution because it deals with matters other than money. The section would have required the state Liquor Control Commission to survey the Upper Peninsula "relative to the need for additional public licenses for the sale of alcoholic liquor for consumption on the premises." It said the commission could then, with local governments' approval, issue additional licenses in the U.P. But commission aide Larry Bryn said because the section was "vague," the commission took no steps to implement it and asked Kelley for his opinion on the matter in October.

Textbooks Are 'Inadequate'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Textbooks used in Michigan high school government classes are generally inadequate in reflecting "the multi-ethnic, multi-racial and pluralistic nature" of America, according to a state Board of Education study. John Porter, state school superintendent, said the study released Wednesday showed "a large number of inadequacies" in the way the books portrayed women and racial and ethnic minorities. Twelve commonly used government textbooks were reviewed by 18 Michigan educators, Porter said. Each educator reviewed two of the books. Of 36 reviews written, 13 gave the books excellent or good ratings, while 23 rated the books fair or poor.

Believes Killing Deliberate

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — A Genesee County woman said Wednesday she believed her husband deliberately was killed and robbed in Bay City Tuesday. The death of Joseph Liddell, 38, of Mount Morris, was confirmed by a spokesman at the Midland Hospital Center, who said Liddell died at 3 a.m. after being transferred from the Bay Medical Center. But all other information about Liddell was being withheld pending investigation of circumstances of the death, the spokesman said. Liddell's widow, Annie, told the Midland Daily News she was told her husband fell down some stairs in a Bay City home. But she said she believed someone may have hit him on the head to steal $1,000 he was supposed to be carrying.

Workers Walk Off Jobs

MUSKEGON HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — About 600 workers at a Dresser Industries Inc. division walked off the job Wednesday in what union officials called a wildcat strike. Harold J. Workman, industrial relations manager for the firm, said the walkout apparently stemmed from dissatisfaction over time taken in efforts to settle a grievance. He said the walkout occurred one hour before union and management officials were slated to meet on a grievance filed by two workers. The workers claimed they were suspended for 30 days in violation of union rules.

Makes School Aid Estimate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's 530 school districts will receive about $1.1 billion in state school aid through this September, the state Board of Education said Wednesday. That is the estimate after more than $40 million was ordered cut from the aid by Gov. William Milliken and more than $14 million was lost because of a new school aid formula in the legislature's appropriations, the board said. Before the budget cuts, local school districts were to receive $574 million in "membership aid" and about $275 million in categorical funds.

Gasoline Prices Dip Slightly

DETROIT (AP) — Drivers in most of Michigan will find generally lower prices for gasoline on major tourist routes this weekend, according to the Auto Club. Prices will be mostly higher around Detroit, however. This week's "fuel gauge" survey of 300 major-brand stations showed regular fuel averaging 66.8 cents per gallon, down three-tenths of a cent from last week. Unleaded fuel at those stations averaged 62.9 cents per gallon for the second straight week, the Auto Club reported.

Man Says Robbers Beat Him

A Benton Harbor man, found barefoot and bleeding on Territorial road early today, told city police he was beaten and robbed of about $130 at an apartment on North Stevens street.

Lester Williams, 38, of 592 Highland avenue, was treated for a broken cheekbone, cuts and bruises and released from Mercy hospital.

Williams told police he met a man and a woman in a bar and went in a cab to where the woman said she lived, shortly after 1 a.m. He said he was then beaten.

Williams later was found in the 500 block of Territorial by a citizen who called police at about 1:20 a.m.

Four thefts were reported to Twin Cities area police Wednesday including citizens' band radios from two pickup trucks parked in the 900 block of Paw Paw avenue.

Edwin Joseph, 461 Madeline avenue, Benton township, and Steven Sabralski, 835 Paw Paw avenue, reported the CB thefts to Benton township police. No value for the radios was reported.

Theft of two stop watches, valued at $98, was reported to St. Joseph police from a room at Auto Specialties Manufacturing company, Graves street.

Mike Byers, 665 East Vineyard street, told Benton Harbor police a tape player, valued at $88, was stolen from his car parked near the intersection of Broadway and Catalpa avenue.

A Benton Harbor man was arrested by Benton township police Wednesday on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and driving with a suspended driver's license.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was L.C. Lincey, 24, of 603 Superior street. Police said he was also cited for having defective equipment. Officers said they stopped a car at the intersection of Territorial road and Crystal avenue about 12:30 p.m. A computer check showed the suspended license and police said they confiscated a butcher knife with a 10-inch blade from the car.

Ford show "softness of support for all candidates because of voter apathy and a lack of information on any of the candidates and what they stand for."

But a spokesman for Reagan said, "We've known all along that the country has been looking for some leadership — somebody who would try to get Washington off their back. We've looked at this — the mood of the country (as reflected in polls) — and it doesn't change anything we're trying to do. It's a long way from here to the convention."

The Harris poll reported Wednesday that initial public reaction to the former California governor has been positive. Harris said a 45 to 25 per cent plurality believes Reagan "is no ordinary politician because he wants to cut federal spending and cut back the 'federal bureaucracy'" and 44 to 25 per cent agreed with Reagan's hard-line stand toward Russia.

The Harris organization also said its sampling showed disagreement with statements

Wounded Man Can't Remember

CASSOPOLIS — Cass county sheriff's deputies said this morning they had no suspects in connection with the shooting of a St. Joseph man found Tuesday lying wounded on a road near Sister Lakes.

The victim, Raymond, Lee Akright, 50, 1366 Trebor road, St. Joseph township, was found about 10 a.m. Tuesday with a gunshot wound in his upper left chest. He was listed in fair condition in the intensive care unit at Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac, this morning.

Capt. Paul Parrish, who is heading the investigation, said detectives talked with Akright at the hospital yesterday but Akright has "refused to cooperate."

Parrish said Akright told detectives he remembered nothing past Monday night when he was at home until he awoke in the hospital.

Parrish said detectives theorize the man was shot by someone he knows during a dispute.

Officers said the weapon used was believed to be a .32 or .38 caliber handgun. The bullet passed through Akright and has not been recovered, officers said.

Akright was found by the driver of a Berrien county highway department truck on Dixon road in Silver Creek township, about one-fourth of a mile east of the Berrien-Cass county line.

The preliminary investigation showed he had been shot in a wooded area about 150 feet from the road and he had crawled to the road, leaving a trail in the snow. The area was searched, but no weapon was found.

President's Backers Remain Confident that Reagan is too close to big business, would start the Cold War anew and that he "would be against the working man, the minorities and the poor."

Reagan spent the last day of his campaign swing through New Hampshire doing essentially the same thing he did the first two days — defending his plan to cut $80 billion from the federal budget by transferring responsibility for many social and welfare programs to the states.

At a news conference in Concord, he said his plan had been "misrepresented," but he would not say who was misrepresenting it. Ford backers have pictured the plan as one that might lead to new state taxes. New Hampshire does not now have sales or income taxes. Reagan was questioned on the plan at nearly every New Hampshire stop, but he said in Concord he believed he had put the issue "to rest" with his explanations.

Accused Burglars Appear In Court

It," Homan testified. This supported the brief testimony of Fowler, who said he yelled several times for the three men to stop and fired two warning shots before actually shooting Gober.

Another officer at the scene, Benton township patrolman James Coburn, said he chased a man whom he saw sliding down a pole from the roof, fired two warning shots and then yelled "Stop, or I'll blow you away." The suspect then stopped, Coburn said.

He identified that man as Williams. Under questioning by defense Atty. Ronald Marchione, Homan said at the time the fatal shot was fired, none of three suspects was facing the policeman, none had weapons in his hands and the light was good enough for Homan — standing 20-30 feet from the officer — "to know he was bringing the gun to bear."

Fowler also testified that one of the three men was carrying a duffle bag, which later was found to contain the alleged burglary tools.

Other testimony by the store manager and a janitor at Muir's detailed the discovery of two holes in the roof large enough for a hand to reach through.

In binding Williams over for trial, Judge Cook explained that to show breaking and entering it is only necessary to show that something has entered the building — a person, an arm or a tool. He also said the tools found in the bag in the roof likely were there for the purpose of committing a burglary.

People entering the locked courtroom yesterday were brushed with a metal detector by sheriff's deputy Ross Brumbaugh, who was shot in a separate incident a few hours before the Muir's incident.

After the hearing, Cook warned the audience that any attempt to threaten or intimidate Homan for testifying against Williams would result in immediate prosecution.

Ailing Economy May Help State

Milliken, a non-gambler who has never bought a state lottery ticket, also acknowledged concern over what some people have called the "compulsive nature" of Michigan's "instant lottery" game.

"The instant lottery has raised some questions in my mind and the minds of other people. I will be watching it very closely," Milliken said.

He said he favors lowering the penalties for marijuana use but not legalizing it. He also opposes decriminalization of prostitution and pornography. Past treatment of marijuana users has been, he said, "uneven and heavy-handed."

Milliken was evasive when asked for details of the budget he will propose at the end of the month. It will be higher than the current $3.047 billion budget but he would not say if it will keep up with inflation.

Asked if he will recommend increases in Aid to Dependent Children funding, Milliken would reply only, "That's a good question."

His budget will "clearly challenge" administrators to slice fiscal fat, he said. The continuation of "austerity" will require "in some instances an increase in tuition" at colleges and universities, he said.

Milliken said if the legislature refuses to extend the fiscal year from July into September, spending will have to be cut by another $90 million or taxes will have to be raised by that much. He said he expects considerable opposition to extending the fiscal year, a device that will bring the state about two months' more income to pay this year's bills.

"The odds are clearly" against Michigan needing a tax increase this year, Milliken said. But he refused to rule it out.

He said he was surprised by the size of a $355 million rate hike request by Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield but expects the health insurer will be required "to fully justify" the cost.

Milliken did not name a woman when asked to list possible runningmates for President Ford.

Milliken, who expects to be consulted on the matter, suggested George Busch, former United Nations ambassador; Elliott Richardson, chosen by Ford to be commerce secretary; Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts; and Iowa Gov. Robert Ray. He will add the names of "several women" (not necessarily from Michigan) when consulted by Ford, Milliken said.

Ronald Reagan would never be Ford's ticketmate because neither man would accept it, Milliken said. He also said Ford will emerge the GOP nominee for president over Reagan.

His own future is unclear, Milliken said he might run for governor again in 1978, giving him three full terms.

Or, "The U.S. Senate might be a possibility for the future. Maybe the foreign service in some way" or "a new business concern of some kind," the governor said.

Milliken, a millionaire and department store owner, repeated his assertion he will serve out his term as governor and that he harbors no political ambitions to short-circuit that plan.

He insisted he will stay out of the GOP primary election to fill the seat of retiring Democratic Sen. Philip Hart.

Milliken said his new proposals will include expanding a "contract system" for putting felons out on the street instead of in crowded prison cells. First-time offenders not convicted of violent crimes could be traded freedom for a contract with the state to perform specific acts, such as making restitution, he said.

He said he was surprised by the size of a $355 million rate hike request by Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield but expects the health insurer will be required "to fully justify" the cost.

Milliken Names South Haven Man

LANSING — Wayne A. Erny of rural South Haven is one of two men named by Gov. William Milliken yesterday to the Agricultural Labor commission.

Also named was Allen E. Shapley of Mason, an associate professor of agricultural economics at Michigan State university.

The appointments for terms to end in November, 1968, require state Senate approval.

Erny, 38, owns and operates Arvesta farms on CR-388. The 514-acre farm includes about 130 acres of orchards. Erny also grows corn and wheat.

He is a 1955 South Haven high school graduate and took several farm-oriented courses at MSU.

He has been in farming for about 20 years. Erny and his wife Roberta have three children. He has not held an appointive or elective public office before.

GRAND JUNCTION

Gunman Halts Police; Suspect Is Arrested

GRAND JUNCTION — A 29-year-old Grand Junction man surrendered to state police officers early this morning after an armed man kept police at bay from inside a house for more than an hour.

State police from the South Haven post said they had been summoned to the house after a Willie Mae Stout said her boyfriend had fired two shots at her during a quarrel there.

Officers said when they arrived at the Stout home about 12:25 a.m., a man in the house refused to let them enter. Two shotgun blasts were fired in the direction of officers from within the house but no one was injured, state police said.

About an hour later, police said, a man later identified as Clegg Byrd, 29, surrendered and was arrested on a charge of felonious assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder in connection with an alleged assault on Mrs. Stout.

He was to be arraigned on the charge in Van Buren Seventh district court in South Haven today, police said.

Police said a window and a ceiling in the house had been damaged by shotgun blasts as well as the windshield of a pickup truck parked outside.

Byrd had been living at the residence, state police said they were told.

Man Says Robbers Beat Him

A Benton Harbor man, found barefoot and bleeding on Territorial road early today, told city police he was beaten and robbed of about $130 at an apartment on North Stevens street.

Lester Williams, 38, of 592 Highland avenue, was treated for a broken cheekbone, cuts and bruises and released from Mercy hospital.

Williams told police he met a man and a woman in a bar and went in a cab to where the woman said she lived, shortly after 1 a.m. He said he was then beaten.

Williams later was found in the 500 block of Territorial by a citizen who called police at about 1:20 a.m.

Four thefts were reported to Twin Cities area police Wednesday including citizens' band radios from two pickup trucks parked in the 900 block of Paw Paw avenue.

Edwin Joseph, 461 Madeline avenue, Benton township, and Steven Sobralski, 933 Paw Paw avenue, reported the CB thefts to Benton township police. No value for the radios was reported.

Theft of two stop watches, valued at $98, was reported to St. Joseph police from a room at Auto Specialties Manufacturing company, Graves street.

Mike Byers, 665 East Vineyard street, told Benton Harbor police a tape player, valued at $98, was stolen from his car parked near the intersection of Broadway and Catalpa avenue.

A Benton Harbor man was arrested by Benton township police Wednesday on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and driving with a suspended driver's license.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was L.C. Luncy, 24, of 603 Superior street. Police said he was also cited for having defective equipment. Officers said they stopped a car at the intersection of Territorial road and Crystal avenue about 12:30 p.m. A computer check showed the suspended license and police said they confiscated a butcher knife with a 10-inch blade from the car.

We've looked at this — the mood of the country (as reflected in polls) — and it doesn't change anything we're trying to do. It's a long way from here to the convention."

The Harris poll reported Wednesday that initial public reaction to the former California governor has been positive. Harris said a 45 to 25 per cent plurality believes Reagan "is no ordinary politician because he wants to cut federal spending and cut back the federal bureaucracy" and 44 to 25 per cent agreed with Reagan's hard-line stand toward Russia.

Wounded Man Can't Remember

CASSOPOLIS — Cass county sheriff's deputies said this morning they had no suspects in connection with the shooting of a St. Joseph man found Tuesday lying wounded on a road near Sister Lakes.

The victim, Raymond Lee Akright, 50, 1366 Trebor road, St. Joseph township, was found about 10 a.m. Tuesday with a gunshot wound in his upper left chest. He was listed in fair condition in the intensive care unit at Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac, this morning.

Capt. Paul Parrish, who is heading the investigation, said detectives talked with Akright at the hospital yesterday but Akright has "refused to cooperate."

Parrish said Akright told detectives he remembered nothing past Monday night when he was at home until he awoke in the hospital.

Officers said the weapon used was believed to be a .32 or .38 caliber handgun. The bullet passed through Akright and has not been recovered, officers said.

Akright was found by the driver of a Berrien county highway department truck on Dixon road in Silver Creek township, about one-fourth of a mile east of the Berrien-Cass county line.

The preliminary investigation showed he had been shot in a wooded area about 150 feet from the road and he had crawled to the road, leaving a trail in the snow. The area was searched, but no weapon was found.

it," Homan testified.

This supported the brief testimony of Fowler, who said he yelled several times for the three men to stop and fired two warning shots before actually shooting Gober.

Another officer at the scene, Benton township patrolman James Coburn, said he chased a man whom he saw sliding down a pole from the roof, fired two warning shots and then yelled "Stop, or I'll blow you away." The suspect then stopped, Coburn said.

Liquor Law 'Unconstitutional'

LANSING, Mich. (A) — A 1975 law which could have meant more liquor licenses for Upper Peninsula bars and resorts has been declared unconstitutional by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. Kelley ruled Wednesday that a section of a 1975 appropriations bill violates the state Constitution because it deals with matters other than money. The section would have required the state Liquor Control Commission to survey the Upper Peninsula "relative to the need for additional public licenses for the sale of alcoholic liquor for consumption on the premises." It said the commission could then, with local governments' approval, issue additional licenses in the U.P. But commission aide Larry Brya said because the section was "vague," the commission took no steps to implement it and asked Kelley for his opinion on the matter in October.

Textbooks Are 'Inadequate'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Textbooks used in Michigan high school government classes are generally inadequate in reflecting "the multi-ethnic, multi-racial and pluralistic nature" of America, according to a state Board of Education study. John Porter, state school superintendent, said the study released Wednesday showed "a large number of inadequacies" in the way the books portrayed women and racial and ethnic minorities. Twelve commonly used government textbooks were reviewed by 18 Michigan educators, Porter said. Each educator reviewed two of the books. Of 36 reviews written, 13 gave the books excellent or good ratings, while 23 rated the books fair or poor.

Believes Killing Deliberate

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — A Genesee County woman said Wednesday she believed her husband deliberately was killed and robbed in Bay City Tuesday. The death of Joseph Liddell, 38, of Mount Morris, was confirmed by a spokesman at the Midland Hospital Center, who said Liddell died at 3 a.m. after being transferred from the Bay Medical Center. But all other information about Liddell was being withheld pending investigation of circumstances of the death, the spokesman said. Liddell's widow, Annie, told the Midland Daily News she said told her husband fell down some stairs in a Bay City home. But she said she believed someone may have hit him on the head to steal $1,000 he was supposed to be carrying.

Workers Walk Off Jobs

MUSKEGON HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — About 600 workers at a Dresser Industries Inc. division walked off the job Wednesday in what union officials called a wildcat strike. Harold J. Workman, industrial relations manager for the firm, said the walkout apparently stemmed from dissatisfaction over time taken in efforts to settle a grievance. He said the walkout occurred one hour before union and management officials were slated to meet on a grievance filed by two workers. The workers claimed they were suspended for 30 days in violation of union rules.

Makes School Aid Estimate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's 530 school districts will receive about $1.1 billion in state school aid through this September, the state Board of Education said Wednesday. That is the estimate after more than $40 million was ordered cut from the aid by Gov. William Milliken and more than $14 million was lost because of a new school aid formula in the legislature's appropriations, the board said. Before the budget cuts, local school districts were to receive $874 million in "membership aid" and about $275 million in categorical funds.

Gasoline Prices Dip Slightly

DETROIT (AP) — Drivers in most of Michigan will find generally lower prices for gasoline on major tourist routes this weekend, according to the Auto Club. Prices will be mostly higher around Detroit, however. This week's "fuel gauge" survey of 300 major-brand stations showed regular fuel averaging 60.8 cents per gallon, down three-tenths of a cent from last week. Unleaded fuel at those stations averaged 62.9 cents per gallon for the second straight week, the Auto Club reported.

Grand Jury Clears Swainson Attorney

the government's actions in the Kohl matter.

He said it was "the first time in my memory that a lawyer on one side of a case that is pending, was taken before a grand jury by the other lawyer to be questioned on any subject matter he wanted."

He denounced prosecutors whom he said "drop devious questions to obtain perjury indictments."

Asked if he was referring to Ozer, Swainson said, "He is the only prosecutor I know... but there are others in the country." Swainson said he had "spent many days and nights trying to find why he was singled out for prosecution."

"I have been destroyed... Now they are attacking my counsel," he said.

Swainson referred to himself as a 50-year-old unemployed man.

He denounced what he called misuse of the grand jury process by "reckless perversion" of the system.

Asked about the credibility of Pulvrenti and Whalen, Swainson said, "It is our criminal against yours."

He expressed doubt Pulvrenti was one of the Whalen abductors, saying, "If he had been as bad a guy as they say, there would have been an execution of Whalen," rather than an abduction and release.

Swainson made the surprise disclosure that Pulvrenti was in touch with the FBI, Detroit Police and State Police on July 1 — before the Swainson trial took place.

FBI statements which Ozer turned over to Swainson and Kohl then indicated Pulvrenti said he could provide information that would prove Swainson had no part in a bribery plot on which the former governor later was tried and acquitted.

Donors' Eyes Restore Sight Of Contractor

Stevensville Man Says Don't Fear Surgery

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

The eyes of two deceased people have restored the sight of Alphonso Myers, a Stevensville area contractor, who returned home this week after undergoing his second cornea transplant operation in about a year. Surgery was performed at the University of Michigan medical center, Ann Arbor, eye bank headquarters for the state.

Myers, 52, said the first transplant operation was on the left eye in November, 1974. The right eye transplant was last Dec. 30.

Myers said the donor for the last operation was known to him only as a "30-year-old person."

The U-M eye bank is largely the project of the Michigan Lions clubs. It was explained by Victor Eichenbaum, a Benton Harbor Lions club member.

Eichenbaum said eyes donated must be at the U-M bank within about 48 hours after the donor's death. He said state police assist the Lions' program by relaying the eyes. The eyes are removed locally after death and placed in special containers for transportation.

Citizens who want to volunteer their eyes after death are provided a red tab that is affixed to the driver's license, Eichenbaum said. The tab says, "Eye Donor." If that person is killed in an accident, police recognize the tab. Donations also are from people who die natural deaths.

Citizens wanting to donate their eyes may sign up with any Lions club eye bank committee.

"It's the fear of the operation that causes many people to not seek proper treatment," Myers said while convalescing at his home, 4815 Ridge road.

"There's nothing to be afraid of and no one should avoid eye surgery, whether it be for a cornea transplant or cataracts," Myers emphasized.

Myers said the latest operation took about an hour and a half. There was no pain, although Myers said he was aware of what was going on during surgery.

Three injections were used to deaden nerves of the eye, a fourth to soften flesh around the eye, and a fifth to serve as a "relaxer," Myers said.

A few days of hospital bed care is required, but a complicated time of life follows until stitches are removed, about six months.

During this period, the patient is instructed to avoid pressure on the eyes. This means no stooping over unless absolutely necessary and then slowly. Reading is not recommended during this period. However, Myers said, the patient can watch all the television he wants.

Baths or showers also are a problem. Myers said the head is not to be immersed in water and hair shampooing must be done carefully and without getting water in the eyes.

Myers said he can see from the right eye, although it is usually covered to avoid bright light. Myers said he now can see well enough from the left eye, although a correction has to be made for astigmatism. This condition prevents rays of light from converging properly within the eye.

Myers commented on alternatives to his surgery. He said for seven years there was suffering that ranged from dizziness at times to loss of vision for up to two or three minutes at a time.

Myers said one of the physicians described the primary problem as "lattice dystrophy." He understands this to mean the cornea that serves as a "window" is pitted and condensation forms between the cornea and retina of the eye.

Myers said he was ruled blind by the state and received Social Security aid for medical care. He looked ahead:

"I would like some day to return to my contracting business." He added that if he couldn't reach this goal, the next best thing would be work related to contracting, perhaps as some type of housing inspector or working in education courses.

Chicago Man Asks $800,000

By DENNIS COGSWELL

PAW PAW — A Chicago man is seeking $800,000 in damages in a lawsuit filed against an Illinois physician who he claims stabbed him in the chest at a Covert township cottage last June 16.

In the suit filed in Van Buren circuit court, Michael Shine, 31, says that Dr. Vernon Wallace, 45, assaulted, stabbed, and bit him without provocation while he was a guest at Wallace's cottage in the Palisades Park subdivision.

Shine was treated for a stab wound in the upper abdomen and later released from South Haven Community hospital, according to Covert township police.

The suit asks for $300,000 in damages to compensate Shine for his medical expenses and impairment of earnings, and another $500,000 in exemplary damages.

Wallace, an anesthesiologist at Holy Family hospital in Des Plaines, Ill., was arrested and charged with assault with intent to commit great bodily harm.

He pleaded innocent to the charges on Aug. 25 in Van Buren circuit court and remains free on bond pending trial.

SHORELINE RENOURISHED: Beach shoreline south of breakwaters at New Buffalo harbor has been renourished as result of 200,000 cubic yards of sand which was pumped from Lake Michigan bottom on northside of breakwaters (top left corner) to southside. Sand was pumped by LaCross Dredging company during August. Project was needed because breakwaters, built to keep harbor entrance open, cause natural buildup of sand on northside, while at same time, erosion of sand on southside. During past four months, sand pumped to southside of breakwaters has drifted down from breakwaters building up beach for present time. Harbor breakwater and beach renourishment projects were financed by federal, state and local funds as part of $2.5 million harbor project. Aerial photo by Adolph Hann, taken Dec. 16, looks north.

State Reverses Sodus Transfer

By JERRY KRIEGER

The State Board of Education yesterday in Lansing overturned its 1974 decision that transferred three former school districts in Sodus township from the Benton Harbor school district to Eau Claire.

The transfer, approved initially by the Berrien county intermediate board and upheld in 1974 on an appeal to the state board, was ruled yesterday to be improper because a desegregation suit was pending against Benton Harbor schools when the transfer occurred.

This morning, Atty. Lee Boothby, counsel for the Concerned Parents and Taxpayers of Sodus, said the overturning decision would be appealed immediately in Berrien circuit court. "We consider the state board's action to be invalid."

Boothby said that state board reconsideration came long after a 60-day appeal period had expired after the transfer decision on July 3, 1974. The Sodus area group contends, he said, the State Administrative Procedures Act does not allow a reconsideration of an administrative decision beyond the appeal period provided in the act.

Boothby also noted that a ruling of Federal District Judge Noel Fox sending the transfer decision back to the state board of education for reconsideration hinged upon such reconsideration being in accordance with state law.

The state board's vote yesterday was split, according to Raymond Godmer of the state education department who was hearing officer in the case. He said he did not remember the exact number of votes each way, and that the minutes of the meeting were inaccessible for reference this morning.

The state board of education in voting to overturn the 1974 transfer decision said that as a matter of board policy no property transfers can occur when a desegregation case is pending against any district involved in a transfer.

A desegregation suit has been in progress against the Benton Harbor district since 1967, and is now entering its 10th year.

Mrs. Zelma Fellner and Larry Schoene, co-chairmen of the Sodus group, said this morning:

"We think this action by the state board of education is unwarranted, unfair, and has caused unnecessary delay in a matter already overly drawn out. However, it is the exact decision expected of the board, and at least it is some kind of movement so we can now proceed with our plan of action."

The transfer, which would have placed 204 students from the Sodus area in the Eau Claire system, was held in abeyance by a temporary injunction issued in August of 1974 by Judge Fox of the Federal District court in Grand Rapids. Judge Fox suspended the transfer to maintain the status quo until the desegregation suit was decided.

Bloomington Appoints Building Inspector

BLOOMINGDALE — The Bloomington village council last night appointed Robert Pearson of Bear Lake as building inspector for the village.

Pearson, who also serves as Bloomington township building inspector, said a list of inspection fees will be adopted soon.

In other action, the auditor for the village has suggested interim budget and book reviews between formal audits.

Richard L. Maurer, an Allegan CPA, said the reviews annually would help eliminate bookkeeping errors and cut down on some of the work during the formal audits required every two years.

He said that based on his latest audit, the village books are all in order.

The next council meeting is to be Feb. 11.

South Haven Man Named To Board

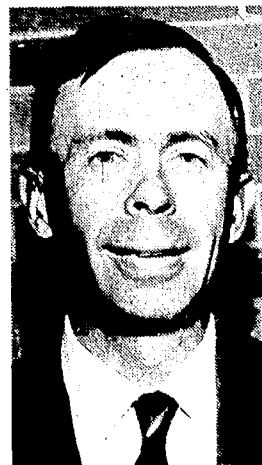

LAWRENCE — The Van Buren intermediate school board last night appointed Richard Barden of South Haven to fill the unexpired term of board member Richard Shamley. The resignation of Shamley, also of South Haven, had been announced in December and became effective last night.

Barden, a farmer, has served on the South Haven school board, the Allegan county intermediate school board, and the advisory committee which helped set up the Van Buren Skills center, according to Supt. Vernon Shaw.

He will serve until June 30, 1977. Shaw said the board also agreed to tour the skills center on Jan. 21 at 7:30 p.m. He added that there will be an open house for parents of students attending the school sometime in February and a formal dedication later in the spring.

The vocational education facility is slated to open Jan. 26. The board also approved the bylaws of its citizens career education planning council.

Berrien Ranks Among Top In State CETA Spending

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien county ranks as one of the top counties in the state for receiving federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds on a per capita basis, a county official reported yesterday.

County Coordinator Roger Petrie noted during the past 16 months the county has received $4,916,000 in CETA funds, meaning Berrien received about $30 for every person in the county.

Petrie said more than 400 people in the county are employed with CETA funds, which are all "non-match," meaning the county does not put up any matching funds for the CETA monies.

A recent audit of CETA funds received under Titles 1, 2, 3, and 6 showed "everything balances to the penny," according to Petrie. The audit was conducted by the St. Joseph certified public accountant firm of Ger-bel and Butzbach.

"On a per capita basis this should make Berrien county one of the tops for receiving CETA funds in the state," Petrie added. The county has a population of about 163,000.

Most of the nearly $5 million in CETA funds the county has received from August, 1974, through December, 1975, go to public employment, on-the-job training programs, and youth-related programs and agencies, Petrie said.

Petrie also expressed some concern about the future of the CETA program, which is scheduled to end June 30. Congress has not yet decided whether to renew the program, and legislation is still pending.

"If Congress doesn't renew CETA there's going to be a whale of a lot of people unemployed in this county," Petrie predicted.

The latest report from the Michigan Employment Security Commission showed 11,300 people were unemployed in Berrien county as of November.

Prayer Meetings Approved

DETROIT (AP) — The Wayne County Board of Commissioners doesn't think there is anything wrong with using a Detroit Common Pleas courtroom for lunch-hour prayer meetings, despite the protests of a widely known atheist. The commission unanimously approved a resolution commending Judge Frederick E. Byrd, in whose courtroom the various prayer meetings are held. The board urged Byrd to continue the meetings. The commissioners were responding to complaints from Madalyn Murray O'Hair that the services are "illegal and unconstitutional." She threatened to file suit if necessary to stop the services.

Donors' Eyes Restore Sight Of Contractor

Stevensville Man Says
Don't Fear Surgery

By RALPH LUTZ

The eyes of two deceased people have restored the sight of Alphonso Myers, a Stevensville area contractor, who returned home this week after undergoing his second cornea transplant operation in about a year. Surgery was performed at the University of Michigan medical center, Ann Arbor, eye bank headquarters for the state.

Myers, 52, said the first transplant operation was on the left eye in November, 1974. The right eye transplant was last Dec. 30.

ALPHONSO MYERS

Myers said the donor for the last operation was known to him only as a "30-year-old person."

The U-M eye bank is largely the project of the Michigan Lions clubs, it was explained by Victor Eichenbaum, a Benton Harbor Lions club member.

Eichenbaum said eyes donated must be at the U-M bank within about 48 hours after the donor's death. He said state police assist the Lions' program by relaying the eyes. The eyes are removed locally after death and placed in special containers for transportation.

Citizens who want to volunteer their eyes after death are provided a red tab that is affixed to the driver's license, Eichenbaum said. The tab says, "Eye Donor." If that person is killed in an accident, police recognize the tab. Donations also are from people who die natural deaths.

Citizens wanting to donate their eyes may sign up with any Lions club eye bank committee.

"It's the fear of the operation that causes many people to not seek proper treatment," Myers said while convalescing at his home, 4815 Ridge road.

"There's nothing to be afraid of and no one should avoid eye surgery, whether it be for a cornea transplant or cataracts," Myers emphasized.

Myers said the latest operation took about an hour and a half. There was no pain, although Myers said he was aware of what was going on during surgery.

Three injections were used to deaden nerves of the eye, a fourth to soften flesh around the eye, and a fifth to serve as a "relaxer," Myers said.

A few days of hospital bed care is required, but a complicated time of life follows until stitches are removed, about six months.

BH Out To Avoid Worst LMAC Start Ever Friday

Benton Harbor will have some added incentive Friday night when it hosts Traverse City at the Colfax Gym.

The Tigers will be out to avoid their worst league start in the 15-year history of the Lake Michigan Athletic Conference. And it won't be easy.

Benton Harbor will have to do it without top rebounder Bennie Bowers and second best scorer Ray Thompson. Bowers and Thompson were both suspended

Monday by Tiger coach Earl McKee for disciplinary reasons. The suspensions are for one-game only.

"I don't know about us," McKee says. "We're not playing as well as we have in past years. We're just not doing things well. Over vacation when we were able to practice longer, we just refused to get any better."

Benton Harbor has dropped its first two LMAC contests, losing to Muskegon (83-80) and Grand Haven (72-64). The Tigers, now 3-1 overall, face a must-win situation if they are to maintain any hopes of defending their league crown.

Traverse City faces a similar dilemma, having posted a 1-1 league mark and 3-2 overall slate.

"We need this game pretty badly," Traverse City coach Joe LeMieux says. "If we hope to stay in the conference race, we have to win this game."

Traverse City's basketball team has a football flavor to it. Two All-State selections from the Trojan football team are also standouts on the basketball team. Mark Brammer, a 6-4 senior, and Rick Waters, a 6-1 junior, both were All-State picks in football. Brammer, a two-time All-Stater, was selected at end and Waters garnered honors as a running back.

On the basketball floor, Brammer and Waters are two of three Trojans averaging in double figures this season. Brammer is scoring at a 17.0 clip, while Waters comes in at 10.0. John Hanson, a 6-3 senior forward, is the other Traverse City player in double digits at 16.0 per game.

Dave Mahn, a 6-3 junior center, and 5-10 guard Tom Raymond round out the usual starting five.

Russell Steele, the top Tiger scorer with a 23.3 average, will start at one forward for Benton Harbor. Either Derrick Joseph or Don Green will go at the other. Either Keith Taylor, a 6-4 junior, or 6-3 senior Fred Woods will start in Bowers' place in the middle. Junior Charles DeFrance will likely team with Steve McNutt at the guards.

"I'm going to be looking this week for someone who is going to dedicate themselves toward helping us play better as a team and setting things up," McKee said. "The guys who play are going to be the ones who play better together."

LeMieux believes the game is going to come down to basic fundamentals.

"The basics of basketball will decide it," he said. "We're going to have to control the boards and work for our shot. We also will need a super defensive effort."

Benton Harbor has never lost as many as three LMAC games with the Tigers. The last time the Tigers lost three league games in a whole season was the 1970-71 campaign when they finished 6-4 in the LMAC. But never has a Benton Harbor team begun a league season with three straight losses.

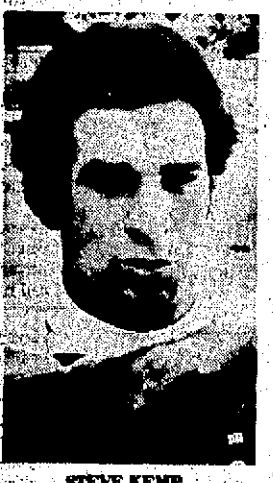

And Friday, McKee's Tigers hope to keep that record in tact. One thing going in their favor is that Benton Harbor has won 13 of the last 14 games against Traverse City.

Detroit Now Has To Sign Kemp

Harbor's Schneck Drafted

Former Benton Harbor right-handed pitcher Steve Schneck was drafted by Boston Wednesday in the third round of the regular phase of major league baseball's annual winter free-agent draft.

Schneck pitched for Kalamazoo Valley this past season. Though his record of 5-3 is not particularly impressive, some of his pitching statistics are. He struck out 66 batters in only 50 innings and posted a 2.00 earned run average.

STEVE KEMP

"He had some great games," Kalamazoo Valley coach Chuck Skarshoug said. "He lost a no-hitter against Middle Georgia on an unearned run in the last inning. And Middle Georgia advanced to the semi-finals of the National Junior College Championships."

"I think he's a great prospect," he added. "He's big time, there's no doubt about that. He's a real hard thrower."

Schneck is expected to be the ace of the Kalamazoo staff this season and does not plan to sign immediately with Boston.

"I've always wanted to play professional baseball," Schneck said. "But I don't think there's any way I'll sign this spring. I've heard from the University of Georgia and my parents and I feel it would be best for me to continue my education. If I have any kind of year this spring, I should get a scholarship."

Schneck is still pleased with being drafted so early in his career and has already begun working out.

"He's working out already," Skarshoug said. "He's been running and working with weights."

Schneck also hopes to master a change up pitch, the forkball, this spring to go with his blazing fastball. In the offseason he has played with the Benton Harbor Racers hockey team to stay in shape.

It appears as though the Tigers won't have any insurmountable problems in signing their No. 1 draft choice this year, a hitter they hope will help them back to the top of the American League East.

"It's great to be with Detroit," Steve Kemp said Wednesday. "I feel I'm ready to go into pro ball. That's my plan. Hopefully, we'll be able to get together on a contract and I'll be on my way."

Kemp, however, indicated he wouldn't sign for peanuts and may force Tiger owner John Fetzer to open his wallet.

"I know what I want but I don't want to say now. I'll just say that I feel I'm being very fair in what I'm asking and I'm sure we can get together," said Kemp.

Kemp, 21, hit .435 last spring at the University of Southern California. The 6-foot, 185-pounder dropped out of the university to become eligible for the draft.

USC Coach Rod Dedeaux called Kemp's style

"unorthodox" but noted: "He violates the fundamental rules of hitting until the ball starts moving, and then he has a super swing. What's amazing is his complete consistency."

"He may be the best pure hitter I've ever had."

That's saying a lot, since Boston's Fred Lynn, highly successful with the Red Sox in his rookie year, also went to USC under Dedeaux.

'Skin Top Offensive Rookie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Running back Mike Thomas, chosen by the Washington Redskins in the fifth round of the draft last year, says his main concern in 1975 was making the team and playing in the National Football League. Now he has set his sights on gaining 1,000 yards next season.

"I just wanted a chance to play in the NFL," said Thomas, after learning he was selected National Football League's Offensive Rookie of the Year by The Associated Press. "Being drafted in the fifth round really didn't bother me. I didn't expect to go higher because of the school I came from, the caliber of ball they play compared to the big schools. So everything worked out fine for me."

The 22-year-old Thomas was selected out of the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, a school he transferred to from Oklahoma.

Thomas, in a telephone interview from Austin, Tex., said Wednesday he was apprehensive when the Redskins chose him in the draft because of Coach George Allen's policy of coaching veterans over rookies.

"I was concerned about making the team," he said, "because of being drafted in the fifth round and going to Washington, with Larry Brown being there and Duane (Thomas) still having a chance to be there."

Thomas, who received 35 of 78 ballots cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, was followed by Atlanta Falcons' quarterback Steve Bartkowski with 21. Others receiving votes included running back Don Haden of the Houston Oilers, tight end and Rush Francis of the New England Patriots, wide receiver Rick Upchurch of the Denver Broncos and guard Lynn Boden of the Detroit Lions.

Defensive Award To Brazile

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Brazile, who went from "Mr. Versatile" at Jackson State to "Mr. Valuable" with the Houston Oilers, was named the National Football League's Defensive Rookie of the Year today by The Associated Press.

The 6-foot-4½, 250-pound outside linebacker, the Oilers' No. 1 selection in the college draft and a starter in their lineup even before the season began, received 41 of the 78 votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

He easily outdistanced Oakland Raiders' cornerback Neal Colzie from Ohio State, the runner-up with 17 nominations. Others in the voting included Los Angeles Rams' cornerback Monte Jackson, Dallas Cowboys' defensive end Randy White and

San Diego Chargers' defensive tackle Louie Kelcher.

And what of the future? "The next goal? The Super Bowl," he replied. "And for myself, well, whatever I did this year, it's to do it better next year."

Bum Phillips, the Oilers' first-year head coach, was unbounded in his praise of the 22-year-old Brazile. "It's only a matter of time before he's the best linebacker in football," he said.

"With his size and speed, he was the same as having another defensive end, but with all of the assets of a linebacker," Phillips said. "All he needs is experience and he'll be in the superstar class."

Ed Biles, the Oilers' defensive coordinator, was even more generous than Phillips in speaking of Brazile. "If he hadn't been named Rookie of the Year, I'd have demanded an investigation," he said.

Giants Deny Report Of Sale To Brewery

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Horace Stoneham, president of the San Francisco Giants, has denied reports that he sold the National League club to a Canadian brewery, adding: "I can't understand where that story originated."

"We've been discussing the sale for quite some time," Stoneham said Wednesday from his winter home here, "but we haven't come to any conclusion at all."

Asked if a deal was imminent to sell the financially ailing franchise, Stoneham replied: "Oh, I would hope so." He declined further comment.

However, he told the Oakland Tribune: "Three or four groups still are interested in the Giants. We're definitely going to sell to somebody, although we may not make a decision Friday," when the Giants' board of directors is to meet.

A Hawaiian radio station, KGMB, had reported that "extremely reliable" sources "in the highest level of organized baseball" revealed that Stoneham had sold the club to Labatt's Brewery.

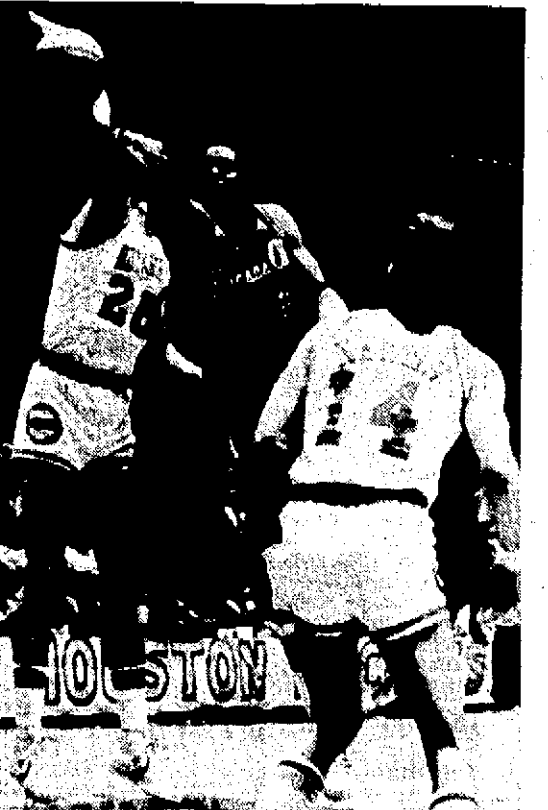

Denial of the report also came from Labatt's. Dave Cashen, a spokesman for the brewery, said there was "absolutely no substance" to the report and nothing has changed since the annual baseball meetings in Florida last month, when the brewery made its initial offer.

The station also said that in addition to an undisclosed purchase price, Labatt's had agreed to pay $4.5 to allow the Giants to break their lease with Candlestick Park.

"I've never heard of that figure before," said Cashen. "Our offer was for $12.5 million cash. That other figure is a fabrication as far as we are concerned."

The Tribune said the Giants would consider offers from Seattle, Toronto and Washington, D.C., groups, plus a couple of San Francisco groups which still appear to be short of cash.

"Let's say there's a 50 per cent chance the Giants will stay in San Francisco," Giants' vice president Chuck Rupert told the Tribune.

Ali-Coopman Title Bout Officially On

NEW YORK (AP) — It's official, Jean-Pierre Coopman, the heavyweight champion of Belgium, a country which has five heavyweights, will fight world champion Muhammad Ali.

Promoter Don King held a news conference Wednesday to formally announce Ali's scheduled 15-round title defense against the 28-year-old sculptor of religious statues, known as the Lion of Flanders, at San Juan, Puerto Rico, Feb. 20.

"After the fight he shall be known as the 'Pussy Cat of Flanders,'" said Ali who dominated the news conference even more than usual. Coopman speaks only Flemish and understands very little English.

But the champion defended the much-criticized — especially in Europe — fight against the unranked Coopman who has a 24-3 pre record but only one fight outside Belgium.

While acknowledging that he cannot prepare for every fight with the intensity he puts into training for man like Joe Frazier, Ali said:

"I know I've got to train because he's got nothing to lose and everything to gain."

"I'm gonna give Puerto Rico a chance to see me." Ali said of the fight which will be held in the indoor Roberto Clemente Coliseum and shown on television in the United States by CBS. "I'm gonna give him a chance to earn a living."

Coopman earns about $200 week from sculpting and his biggest purse in a pro fighting career which began in 1972 was $17,000. George Kantor, a liaison man for the fight, said Coopman would get between $100,000 and $200,000 for his title shot.

"Why do you always want me to fight for my life?" Ali said of the criticism of his seemingly soft-touch title defense — for which he reportedly will receive $1.1 million.

"Joe Frazier's a bad man," Ali said, thinking of his grueling 14-round victory over the top-ranked Frazier last Oct. 1. "Let me have some rest between the big ones."

King wants the next "big one" to be between Ali and the current No. 1 contender, Ken Norton, next July.

"I've got two of the baddest brothers in the world this year — Norton — and George Foreman," said the champion, who said he plans to fight five times this year and then retire.

"Truly, I will retire after I beat Ken Norton and George Foreman," said Ali, who will be 34 Jan. 17.

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Western Michigan hasn't lost a basketball game yet this season, but Coach Eldon Miller is trying not to let it go to his head.

BH Out To Avoid Worst LMAC Start Ever Friday

Benton Harbor will have some added incentive Friday night when it hosts Traverse City at the Colfax Gym.

The Tigers will be out to avoid their worst league start in the 15-year history of the Lake Michigan Athletic Conference. And it won't be easy.

Benton Harbor will have to do it without top rebounder Bennie Bowers and second best scorer Ray Thompson. Bowers and Thompson were both suspended

Monday by Tiger coach Earl McKee for disciplinary reasons. The suspensions are for one-game only.

"I don't know about us," McKee says. "We're not playing as well as we have in past years. We're just not doing things well. Over vacation when we were able to practice longer, we just refused to get any better."

Benton Harbor has dropped its first two LMAC contests,

losing to Muskegon (83-80) and Grand Haven (72-64). The Tigers, now 3-4 overall, face a must-win situation if they are to maintain any hopes of defending their league crown.

Traverse City faces a similar dilemma, having posted a 1-1 league mark and 3-2 overall slate.

"We need this game pretty badly," Traverse City coach Joe LeMieux says. "If we hope to stay in the conference race, we have to win this game."

Traverse City's basketball team has a football flavor to it. Two All-State selections from the Trojan football team are also standouts on the basketball team. Mark Brammer, a 6-4 senior, and Rick Waters, a 6-1 junior, both were All-State picks in football. Brammer, a two-time All-Stater, was selected at end and Waters garnered honors as a running back.

On the basketball floor, Brammer and Waters are two of three Trojans averaging in double figures this season. Brammer is scoring at a 17.0 clip, while Waters comes in at 10.0. John Hanson, a 6-3 senior forward, is the other Traverse City player in double digits at 16.0 per game.

Dave Mahn, a 6-3 junior center, and 5-10 guard Tom Raymond round out the usual starting five.

Russell Steele, the top Tiger scorer with a 23.3 average, will start at one forward for Benton Harbor. Either Derrick Joseph or Don Green will go at the other. Either Keith Taylor, a 6-4 junior, or 6-3 senior Fred Woods will start in Bowers' place in the middle. Junior Charles DeFrance will likely team with Steve McNutt at the guards.

"I'm going to be looking this week for someone who is going to dedicate themselves toward helping us play better as a team and setting things up," McKee

LeMieux believes the game is going to come down to basic fundamentals.

"The basics of basketball will decide it," he said. "We're going to have to control the boards and work for our shot. We also will need a super defensive effort."

Benton Harbor has never lost as many as three LMAC games under McKee in his four years with the Tigers. The last time the Tigers lost three league games in a whole season was the 1970-71 campaign when they finished 6-4 in the LMAC. But never has a Benton Harbor team begun a league season with three straight losses.

And Friday McKee's Tigers hope to keep that record in tact. One thing going in their favor is that Benton Harbor has won 13 of the last 14 games against Traverse City.

Detroit Now Has To Sign Kemp

Harbor's Schneck Drafted

Former Benton Harbor right-handed pitcher Steve Schneck was drafted by Boston Wednesday in the third round of the regular phase of major league baseball's annual winter free-agent draft.

Schneck pitched for Kalamazoo Valley this past season. Though his record of 5-3 in not particularly impressive, some of his pitching statistics are. He struck out 65 batters in only 50 innings and posted a 2.00 earned run average.

STEVE KEMP

"He had some great games," Kalamazoo Valley coach Chuck Skarshoug said. "He lost a no-hitter against Middle Georgia on an unearned run in the last inning. And Middle Georgia advanced to the semi-finals of the National Junior College Championships."

"I think he's a great prospect," he added. "He's big time, there's no doubt about that. He's a real hard thrower."

Schneck is expected to be the ace of the Kalamazoo staff this season and does not plan to sign immediately with Boston.

"I've always wanted to play professional baseball," Schneck said. "But I don't think there's any way I'll sign this spring. I've heard from the University of Georgia and my parents and I feel it would be best for me to continue my education. If I have any kind of year this spring, I should get a scholarship."

Schneck is still pleased with being drafted so early in his career and has already begun working out.

"He's working out already," Skarshoug said. "He's been running and working with weights."

Schneck also hopes to master a change up pitch, the forkball, this spring to go with his blazing fastball. In the offseason he has played with the Benton Harbor Racers hockey team to stay in shape.

It appears as though the Tigers won't have any insurmountable problems in signing their No. 1 draft choice this year, a hitter they hope will help them back to the top of the American League East.

"It's great to be with Detroit," Steve Kemp said Wednesday. "I feel I'm ready to go into pro ball. That's my plan. Hopefully, we'll be able to get together on a contract and I'll be on my way."

Kemp, however, indicated he wouldn't sign for peanuts and may force Tiger owner John Fetzer to open his wallet.

"I know what I want but I don't want to say now. I'll just say that I feel I'm being very fair in what I'm asking and I'm sure we can get together," said Kemp.

Kemp, 21, hit .435 last spring at the University of Southern California. The 6-foot, 185-pounder dropped out of the university to become eligible for the draft.

USC Coach Rod Dedaux called Kemp's style "unorthodox" but noted:

"He violates the fundamental rules of hitting until the ball starts moving, and then he has a super swing. What's amazing is his complete consistency."

"He may be the best pure hitter I've ever had."

That's saying a lot, since Boston's Fred Lynn, highly successful with the Red Sox in his rookie year, also went to USC under Dedaux.

Tiger Scout Bill Lajoie said the lefthanded Kemp "is ideally suited to play in Tiger Stadium."

Kemp said he could play any outfield position, or first base. The lone criticism of him is that his throwing is weak, but Kemp said he thought he could be in the big leagues in three years.

The Tigers plan to send Kemp to their Double A club at Montgomery, Ala., but could change their minds once they see him play.

Other players picked by the Tigers were the top-ranked second baseman, Gerald Price, 18, of Oakland, Cal. Price bats left and throws right.

Mike Yackee, 19, of El Monte, Cal., a 6-foot-4, 200-pound right-handed hurler, was picked third and Larry Randle, 19, of Anaheim, Cal., a shortstop, was picked fourth.

Other players picked in the main part of the draft were right-handed pitcher Brian McCaslin, 18, of Evanston, Ill.; Gary Grafton, 20, a right-handed pitcher from Coraopolis, Pa.; and Mike Wilson, 19, of Detroit, a right-handed outfielder.

In the second phase of the draft, for players previously picked but not signed, the Tigers chose:

—Pitcher Ray Gault, 19, Bradenton, Fla., a right-handed hurler previously picked by San Francisco;

'Skin Top Offensive Rookie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Running back Mike Thomas, chosen by the Washington Redskins in the fifth round of the draft last year, says his main concern in 1975 was making the team and playing in the National Football League. Now he has set his sights on gaining 1,000 yards next season.

"I just wanted a chance to play in the NFL," said Thomas, after learning he was selected National Football League's Offensive Rookie of the Year by The Associated Press. "Being drafted in the fifth round really didn't bother me. I didn't expect to go higher because of the school I came from, the caliber of ball they play compared to the big schools. So everything worked out fine for me."

The 22-year-old Thomas was selected out of the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, a school he transferred to from Oklahoma.

Thomas, in a telephone interview from Austin, Tex., said Wednesday he was apprehensive when the Redskins chose him in the draft because of Coach George Allen's policy of starting veterans over rookies.

"I was concerned about making the team," he said, "because of being drafted in the fifth round and going to Washington with Larry Brown being there and Duane (Thomas) still having a chance to be there."

Thomas, who received 35 of 78 ballots cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, was followed by Atlanta Falcons' quarterback Steve Bartkowski with 21. Other receiving votes included running back Don Hardeman of the Houston Oilers, tight end Rush Francis of the New England Patriots, wide receiver Rick Upchurch of the Denver Broncos and guard Lynn Boden of the Detroit Lions.

Defensive Award To Brazile

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Brazile, who went from "Mr. Versatile" at Jackson State to "Mr. Valuable" with the Houston Oilers, was named the National Football League's Defensive Rookie of the Year today by The Associated Press.

The 6-foot-4½, 250-pound outside linebacker, the Oilers' No. 1 selection in the college draft and a starter in their lineup even before the season began, received 41 of the 78 votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

He easily outdistanced Oakland Raiders cornerback Neal Colzie from Ohio State, the runner-up with 17 nominations. Others in the voting included Los Angeles Rams cornerback Monte Jackson, Dallas Cowboys defensive end Randy White and

San Diego Chargers defensive tackle Louie Kelcher.

And what of the future? "The next goal? The Super Bowl," he replied. "And for myself, well, whatever I did this year, it's to do it better next year."

Bum Phillips, the Oilers' first-year head coach, was unboasted in his praise of the 22-year-old Brazile. "It's only a matter of time before he's the best linebacker in football," he said.

"With his size and speed, he was the same as having another defensive end, but with all of the assets of a linebacker," Phillips said. "All he needs is experience and he'll be in the superstar class."

Ed Biles, the Oilers' defensive coordinator, was even more generous than Phillips in speaking of Brazile. "If he hadn't been named Rookie of the Year, I'd have demanded an investigation," he said.

Giants Deny Report Of Sale To Brewery

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Horace Stoneham, president of the San Francisco Giants, has denied reports that he sold the National League club to a Canadian brewery, adding: "I can't understand where that story originated."

"We've been discussing the sale for quite some time," Stoneham said Wednesday from his winter home here, "but we haven't come to any conclusion at all."

Asked if a deal was imminent to sell the financially ailing franchise, Stoneham replied: "Oh, I would hope so." He declined further comment.

However, he told the Oakland Tribune: "Three or four groups still are interested in the Giants. We're definitely going to sell to somebody, although we may not make a decision Friday," when the Giants' board of directors is to meet.

A Hawaiian radio station, KGMB, had reported that "extremely reliable" sources "in the highest level of organized baseball" revealed that Stoneham had sold the club to Labatt's Brewery.

Denial of the report also came from Labatt's.

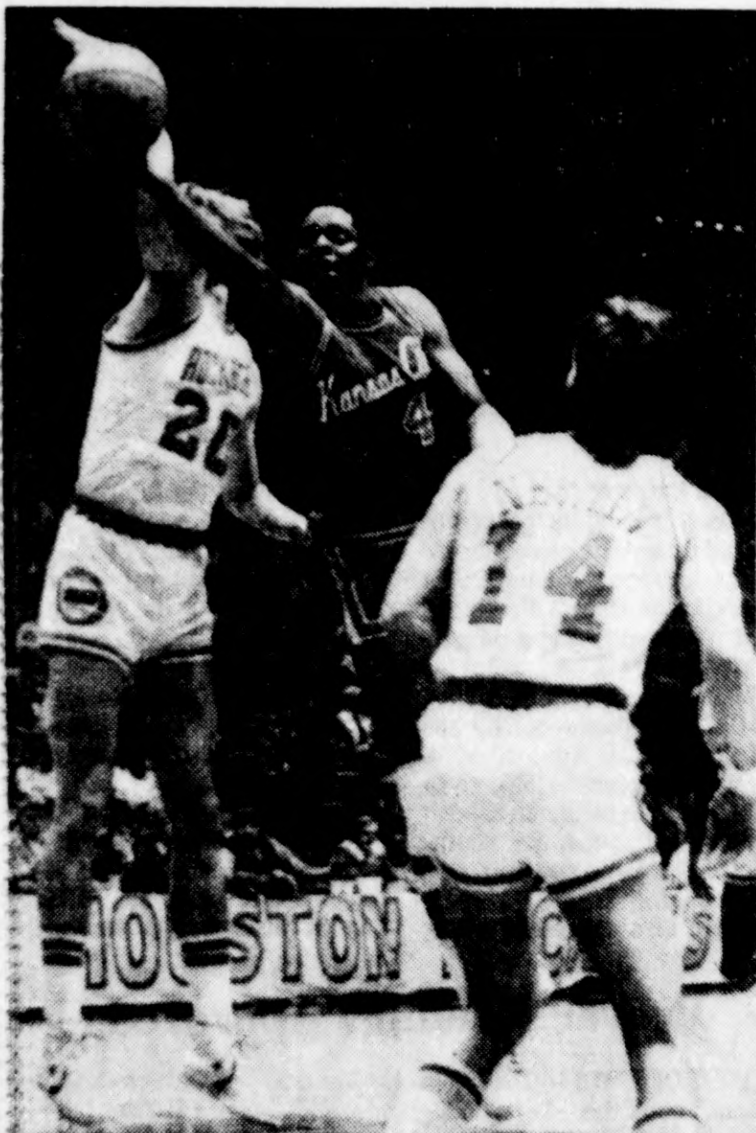

Dave Cashen, a spokesman for the brewery, said there was "absolutely no substance" to the report and nothing has changed since the annual baseball meetings in Florida last month, when the brewery made its initial offer.

The station also said that in addition to an undisclosed purchase price, Labatt's had agreed to pay $4.5 to allow the Giants to break their lease with Candlestick Park.

"I've never heard of that figure before," said Cashen. "Our offer was for $12.5 million cash. That other figure is a fabrication as far as we are concerned."

The Tribune said the Giants would consider offers from Seattle, Toronto and Washington, D.C., groups, plus a couple of San Francisco groups which still appear to be short of cash.

"Let's say there's a 50 per cent chance the Giants will stay in San Francisco," Giants' vice president Chuck Rupert told the Tribune.

Ali-Coopman Title Bout Officially On

NEW YORK (AP) — It's official, Jean-Pierre Coopman, the heavyweight champion of Belgium, a country which has five heavyweights, will fight world champion Muhammad Ali.

Promoter Don King held a news conference Wednesday to formally announce Ali's scheduled 15-round title defense against the 29-year-old sculptor of religious statues, known as the Lion of Flanders, at San Juan, Puerto Rico, Feb. 20.

"After the fight he shall be known as the Pussy Cat of Flanders," said Ali who dominated the news conference even more than usual. Coopman speaks only Flemish and understands very little English.

But the champion defended the much-criticized — especially in Europe — fight against the unranked Coopman who has a 24-3 pro record but only one fight outside Belgium.

While acknowledging that he cannot prepare for every fight with the intensity he puts into training for man like Joe Frazier, Ali said:

Coopman earns about $200 week from sculpting and his biggest purse in a pro fighting career which began in 1972 was $17,000. George Kantor, a liaison man for the fight, said Coopman would get between $100,000 and $200,000 for his title shot.

"Why do you always want me to fight for my life," Ali said of the criticism of his seemingly soft-touch title defense for which he reportedly will receive $1.1 million.

"Joe Frazier's a bad man," Ali said, thinking of his grueling 14-round victory over the top-ranked Frazier last Oct. 1. "Let me have some rest between the big ones."

King wants the next "big one" to be between Ali and the current No. 1 contender, Ken Norton, next July.

"I've got two of the baddest brothers in the world this year — Norton and George Foreman," said the champion, who said he plans to fight five times this year and then retire.

"Truly, I will retire after I beat Ken Norton and George Foreman," said Ali, who will be 34 Jan. 17.

Lancers' Hex Over Coloma In Jeopardy

Bucks Favorites At Dowagiac

Lakeshore's long basketball hex over Coloma appears in jeopardy.

The Lancers have swept to 16 straight victories over the Comets but that string could come to an abrupt end Friday night at the Lancer gym.

Lakeshore will be at a big manpower disadvantage with the absence of seven players who are sitting out a three-game suspension. The seven (Keith Arend, Kevin Campbell, Tom Jager, Mike Mason, Jim Rosenhagen, Hank Schoenhard and Steve Trudell) were suspended for training violations during the Sturgis Holiday Tournament Dec. 27.

So the Lancers will have to go with only five members of the varsity squad and some players off the junior varsity team.

"Right now we'll go with a starting line-up consisting of the five varsity players," indicated Lakeshore coach Lloyd MacTavish. "We'll start Jim Porter and Fred Federan at the guards, Craig Shafer and Rod Nitz at the forwards and Larry Toth in the post.

"We'll obviously have to bring a few junior varsity players up but right now we're not sure how we'll divide it up."

Shafer is averaging 7.4 points a game and Toth 7.3 while Nitz has scored 19 points, Porter six and Federan none. Porter, sidelined with an injured ankle, is improving and should be at 70-80 per cent efficiency for the

Lee Sparks LMC Victory

Kerry Lee tossed in 29 points and James Childs added 16 Wednesday night to lead Lake Michigan College to a 99-90 win over Kalamazoo Valley.

Lee scored 17 of his points in the first half to spark a surge which carried the Indians to a 53-42 halftime edge.

At one point in the second half, Lake Michigan moved the lead to 23 points at 73-50. But Kalamazoo Valley closed to within 88-84 with less than four minutes to play. From there the Indians used free throws to ice the game.

For the game, free throws proved to be the difference. Lake Michigan incredibly, was given 51 free throw opportunities, hitting on 35. Kalamazoo found the range on 16 of 20 from the line.

George Small led Kalamazoo with 21 points. Robert Hunter

Blossomland encounter.

"We'll certainly be working with a patched up line-up...so we certainly have to be considered the underdogs," stated MacTavish. "They'll be taller than we are. But we'll just have to make some adjustments. I hope the jayvee kids can help us in certain situations."

Both Coloma and Lakeshore will be trying to halt losing streaks with the Comets losing eight in a row, seven this season, and the Lancers four straight.

The Comets' winless record is a bit deceiving since they have lost four games by a total of only eight points.

The Comets have a solid one-two scoring punch in Gregg Woodward and Joe Jones. Woodward is averaging 19.3 and Jones 15.9.

Coloma is 0-4 in the league standings while the Lancers are 1-3.

Buchanan and Brandywine, leading the Blossomland standings at 4-0, both take to the road with the Bucks at Dowagiac (1-3) and the Bobcats at Cassopolis (3-1). Also, Edwardsburg (1-3) treks to River Valley (2-2).

Buchanan, 9-0 overall and ranked third in the first AP Class C poll, ranks in the top five in the area in both team scoring (76.7) and defense (56.3).

But Buck coach Bill Wilson would like to see some improvement on defense.

"I think we can improve our overall team defense. We gave up 70 points to Berrien Springs Friday...that's a little more than we'd like to give up. Also the execution of our fast break needs improvement considerably and also our defensive rebounding."

Ken Garrett tops the Bucks with a 20.2 scoring average and 18 rebounds a game. Mike Busby follows at 14.2 points with Walt Vanderbush at 13.3.

Bob Waalkes is hitting at 17.8 for the Chiefs and Oran Danzy 17.6.

Cass needs a win to keep in the thick of the Blossomland race. The Runners have a top scorer in Gary Young at 19.0 while the Bobcats will counter with Steve McCarthy at 16.9. Cass is rated No. 8 in the Class C poll and Brandywine No. 8 in the Class B poll.

River Valley will try to continue its winning ways against the Edgies. The Mustangs, who have taken Edwardsburg nine times in a row, boast the leading Blossomland scorer in Dave North at 22.0 (16.9 all games).

In Saturday night games, Lakeshore will travel to Bronson and Edwardsburg hosts Gallen.

Catholic Out To Protect Lead

Most coaches will agree that playing back-to-back basketball games isn't the most ideal situation. The head mentors even like it less when both are league contests.

But that's the schedule the Red Arrow coaches face this weekend with seven conference games slated for Friday and Saturday.

On Friday, league-leader Lake Michigan Catholic (4-0) hosts Watervliet (2-2), Gallen (2-1) is at Eau Claire (3-1), Hartford (0-3) hosts Berrien Springs (3-1) and Bridgman (1-3) travels to New Buffalo (0-4).

Saturday's contests will find Hartford at Catholic, Watervliet hosting New Buffalo and Eau Claire at Bridgman. In a non-league battle, Gallen travels to Edwardsburg (1-6).

The Lakers' head coach Al Nixon would like to break a pair of, small losing streaks this weekend. His squad dropped both contests in the Buchanan Holiday tourney to give them a 6-3 overall mark.

Also, Watervliet holds a modest two-game winning streak over the Lakers dating back to last season.

"I don't think we played that bad a ball in the Christmas tourney," Nixon said. "We had just one bad quarter against Buchanan and almost beat Berrien Springs."

Nixon feels that playing back-to-back games is going to be rough for his team. "I'm definitely worried about a psychological letdown against Berrien on Saturday," he indicated.

The Lakers have done fairly well in back-to-back games they've played thus far this season, winning both games twice, splitting one of them and losing both ends only once.

Watervliet, on the other hand, has only played one back-to-back set, beating Gallen and Bangor on Dec. 5th and 6th.

"The key for us is shooting," said Nixon. "Everytime we've been in the 40 per cent range from the floor, we've won."

Tom Flood leads the squad in scoring with a 14.4 average while Bill Frantz chips in with an 11.7 average and Don Altie is at 11.3.

After zooming out to one of their fastest starts, the Panthers have dropped their last three games, being vic-

Tigers To Meet Stars In Benefit Cage Game

The Detroit Tigers will meet the St. Joe Stars in a benefit basketball game sponsored by the St. Joseph Baseball Association at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 17, in the St. Joseph high school gym.

Playing for St. Joe will be Harold Wheeler, Rick Bloodworth, Tim Theisen, Glenn Benko, Dave Machomer, Jeff Klapp and Bob Demler. It is not known at this time which Tigers will be on hand.

A 7 p.m. preliminary game will match players from the Berrien County Sheriff's Department against members of the St. Joseph Baseball Association.

Tickets are available at Van's Pharmacy, Hilltop Foods, Midwest Athletic, Barchett Athletic and St. Joe high school.

Lardner Takes Two

NILES — Ring Lardner junior high school swept a doubleheader here Wednesday from Milton junior high.

Lardner edged Milton 41-35 in the eighth grade game despite 15 points from Milton's Wes Rice and 14 more from Jim Mix. Lardner also beat the seventh graders 39-15.

The last game Gallen played was way back on Dec. 19 when the Gaels downed Bridgman 61-45. "I hope the layoff will do us some good," commented Gallen's head mentor Mike Heckathorn. "I hope everyone will be anxious to get back to basketball."

Don Kooy is the man the Beavers will have to hold down in scoring. The senior is the area's third leading active scorer with 889 points. He holds a 19.2 average this year.

This is the first time this season Gallen will have to play back-to-back games while Eau Claire has only had the chore once, in the holiday tournament.

SMC Captures Sole Loop Lead

GRAND RAPIDS — Southwestern Michigan College took over sole possession of first place in the Western Collegiate conference with an 84-82 cage win over Grand Rapids Junior College here Wednesday night.

The Roadrunners are now 5-0 in league play and 9-2 overall while the Raiders fall to a 4-2 conference record and 6-6 overall. SMC was tied with Muskegon, but Glen Oaks upset MCC on a last second shot to give them a 4-1 loop mark.

Bill Carson led a very balanced scoring attack for SMC with 20 points. Other Roadrunners in double figures included Jim Powers with 19, Wayne Battost had 17 and Robin Pflugschaupt 16.

Mark Allen led Grand Rapids with 19 points while Tom Phillipow and Don Buckingham add 18 apiece and Bill Howard chipped in with 12.

In the last minute of play, the Roadrunners held an 84-78 lead but the Raiders notched two straight field goals to bring it to 84-82 with 29 seconds to go.

After an SMC cager missed a free throw, the Raiders brought the ball downcourt and with eight seconds left, Phillipow launched a 10-footer that missed. Its mark and Carson rebounded the ball to seal the win.

The Roadrunners' next game is against Muskegon on Saturday, Jan. 10, at home starting at 7:30 p.m.

Worthington Sets Mark In SJ Loss

GRAND HAVEN — John Worthington of St. Joseph set a new team varsity record in the 100-yard butterfly but it wasn't enough as the Bears lost to Grand Haven 91-81 in high school swimming held here Wednesday night.

Worthington's time in the butterfly was 54.1. It eclipsed the old mark of 54.5 he set at last season's state meet. He also won the 200-yard freestyle in 1:32.2.

Mike Borre turned in a sterling performance for St. Joe, winning the 200-yard individual medley in 2:10.6, 100-yard breaststroke in 1:09.7 and swimming on the victorious medley relay team with Fred Danaher, Tim Momany and Randy Chinery in 1:49.6.

Momany also won the 500-yard freestyle in 5:08.4.

St. Joe's next meet is tonight at home when the Bears open conference action against Holland.

Simko Leads LMC Girls

Karen Simko pumped in 21 points and Deb Schmid added 20 to lead Lake Michigan College's girls basketball team to an easy 84-48 win over Kalamazoo Valley Wednesday.

Lake Michigan raced to a 41-20 halftime lead and was never headed.

Linda Boyd chipped in 13 and Jill Clays 11 to the LMC attack. Pat Clem had 14 for Kalamazoo.

LMC, which shot 45 per cent from the floor, got 14 rebounds from Simko and 13 from Boyd.

LMC, now 3-1, will travel Friday to Jackson.

Lancers' Hex Over Coloma In Jeopardy

Bucks Favorites At Dowagiac

Lakeshore's long basketball hex over Coloma appears in jeopardy.

The Lancers have swept to 16 straight victories over the Comets but that string could come to an abrupt end Friday night at the Lancer gym.

Lakeshore will be at a big manpower disadvantage with the absence of seven players who are sitting out a three-game suspension. The seven (Keith Arend, Kevin Campbell, Tom Jager, Mike Mason, Jim Rosenhagen, Hank Schoenhard and Steve Trudell) were suspended for training violations during the Sturgis Holiday Tournament Dec. 27.

So the Lancers will have to go with only five members of the varsity squad and some players off the junior varsity team.

"Right now we'll go with a starting line-up consisting of the five varsity players," indicated Lakeshore coach Lloyd MacTavish. "We'll start Jim Porter and Fred Federan at the guards, Craig Shafer and Rod Nitz at the forwards and Larry Toth in the post.

"We'll obviously have to bring a few junior varsity players up but right now we're not sure how we'll divide it up."

Shafer is averaging 7.4 points a game and Toth 7.3 while Nitz has scored 19 points, Porter six and Federan none. Porter, sidelined with an injured ankle, is improving and should be at 70-80 per cent efficiency for the Blossomland encounter.

"We'll certainly be working with a patched up line-up...so we certainly have to be considered the underdogs," stated MacTavish. "They'll be taller than we are. But we'll just have to make some adjustments. I hope the jayvee kids can help us in certain situations."

Both Coloma and Lakeshore will be trying to halt losing streaks with the Comets losing eight in a row, seven this season, and the Lancers four straight.

The Comets' winless record is a bit deceiving since they have lost four games by a total of only eight points.

The Comets have a solid one-two scoring punch in Gregg Woodward and Joe Jones. Woodward is averaging 19.3 and Jones 15.9.

Coloma is 0-4 in the league standings while the Lancers are 1-3.

Buchanan and Brandywine, leading the Blossomland standings at 4-0, both take to the road with the Bucks at Dowagiac (1-3) and the Bobcats at Cassopolis (3-1). Also, Edwardsburg (1-3) treks to River Valley (2-2).

Buchanan, 9-0 overall and ranked third in the first AP Class C poll, ranks in the top five in the area in both team scoring (76.7) and defense (56.3).

But Buck coach Bill Wilson would like to see some improvement on defense.

"I think we can improve our overall team defense. We gave up 70 points to Berrien Springs Friday...that's a little more than we'd like to give up. Also the execution of our fast break needs improvement considerably and also our defensive rebounding."

Ken Garrett tops the Bucks with a 20.2 scoring average and 16 rebounds a game. Mike Busby follows at 14.2 points with Walt Vanderbush at 13.3.

Bob Waalkes is hitting at 17.8 for the Chiefs and Oran Danzy 17.6.

Cass needs a win to keep in the thick of the Blossomland race. The Rangers have a top scorer in Gary Young at 19.0 while the Bobcats will counter with Steve McCarthy at 16.9. Cass is rated No. 8 in the Class C poll and Brandywine No. 8 in the Class B poll.

River Valley will try to continue its winning ways against the Eddie's. The Mustangs, who have taken Edwardsburg nine times in a row, boast the leading Blossomland scorer in Dave North at 22.0 (16.9 all games).

In Saturday night games, Lakeshore will travel to Bronson and Edwardsburg hosts Galien.

HEADER: The face of Al Sanders of Lake Michigan College is blocked out by the basketball as he goes up for a rebound Wednesday night in the LMC-Kalamazoo Valley contest at the LMC gym. No. 15 for Kalamazoo is Davis. The Indians, getting 11 points from Sanders, defeated Kalamazoo Valley 99-90 for their fourth win of the season. (Carl Hartman photo)

Back-To-Back Tilts For Arrow Cagers

Catholic Out To Protect Lead

Most coaches will agree that playing back-to-back basketball games isn't the most ideal situation. The head mentors even like it less when both are league contests.

But that's the schedule the Red Arrow coaches face this weekend with seven conference games slated for Friday and Saturday.

On Friday, league-leader Lake Michigan Catholic (4-0) hosts Watervliet (2-2), Galien (2-1) is at Eau Claire (3-1), Hartford (0-3) hosts Berrien Springs (3-1) and Bridgman (1-3) travels to New Buffalo (0-4).

Saturday's contests will find Hartford at Catholic, Watervliet hosting New Buffalo and Eau Claire at Bridgman. In a non-league battle, Galien travels to Edwardsburg (1-6).

The Lakers' head coach Al Nixon would like to break a pair of small losing streaks this weekend. His squad dropped both contests in the Buchanan Holiday tourney to give them a 6-3 overall mark.

Also, Watervliet holds a modest two-game winning streak over the Lakers dating back to last season.

"I don't think we played that bad a ball in the Christmas tourney," Nixon said. "We had just one bad quarter against Buchanan and almost beat Berrien Springs."

Nixon feels that playing back-to-back games is going to be rough for his team. "I'm definitely worried about a psychological letdown against Berrien on Saturday," he indicated.

The Lakers have done fairly well in back-to-back games they've played thus far this season, winning both games twice, splitting one of them and losing both ends only once.

Watervliet, on the other hand, has only played one back-to-back set, beating Galien and Bangor on Dec. 5th and 6th.

"The key for us is shooting," said Nixon. "Everytime we've been in the 40 per cent range from the floor, we've won."

Tom Flood leads the squad in scoring with a 14.4 average while Bill Frantz chips in with an 11.7 average and Don Altie is at 11.3.

After zooming out to one of their fastest starts, the Panthers have dropped their last three games, being victimized by Eau Claire, Berrien Springs and Decatur, and now stand at 4-3 on the season.

Watervliet's head coach Ken Marzka got some bad news this week when starting guard Chuck Brock was injured and may not be up to full strength for this week's games.

Brock and his running mate, Ken Marzka, Jr. draw high praise from Nixon. "Both are very quick," he said. "I don't think we'll press much because of their quickness."

Marzka leads the Panthers in scoring with a 14.1 average. Others averaging in double figures include Brock at 10.3 and Tom Hutchinson at 11.1.

Even though Eau Claire blitzed Michigan Lutheran to win its own holiday tourney, the Beavers didn't come out of the contest unscathed, head coach Dave Gray reports. "Randy (Grandberry) hurt his knee in that game and Al (Flowers) and Terry (Adams) are now wrapping their ankles," he commented.

Gray felt the tourney games were beneficial to his squad. "We got a couple of games under our belts and that's going to help us going into league play," Gray said. "Those games helped the kids believe in what they're doing."

"One of the keys is for us not to make very many mistakes," he added. "We've been cutting our turnovers down very well in the last three games."

The last game Galien played was way back on Dec. 19 when the Gaels downed Bridgman 61-45. "I hope the layoff will do us some good," commented Galien's head mentor Mike Heckathorn. "I hope everyone will be anxious to get back to basketball."

Don Kooy is the man the Beavers will have to hold down in scoring. The senior is the area's third leading active scorer with 809 points. He holds a 19.2 average this year.

This is the first time this season Galien will have to play back-to-back games while Eau Claire has only had the chore once; in the holiday tournament.

Lee Sparks LMC Victory

Kerry Lee tossed in 29 points and James Childs added 16 Wednesday night to lead Lake Michigan College to a 99-90 win over Kalamazoo Valley.

Lee scored 17 of his points in the first half to spark a surge which carried the Indians to a 53-42 halftime edge.

At one point in the second half, Lake Michigan moved the lead to 23 points at 73-50. But Kalamazoo Valley closed to within 88-84 with less than four minutes to play. From there the Indians used free throws to ice the game.

For the game, free throws proved to be the difference. Lake Michigan incredibly, was given 51 free throw opportunities, hitting on 35. Kalamazoo found the range on 16 of 20 from the line.

George Small led Kalamazoo with 21 points. Robert Hunter added 20, and former Cassopolis standout Danny Goins had 16. James Kent, Al Sanders and John Taylor all chipped in 11 and Bernie Christopher had 10 for the Indians.

Lake Michigan, now 2-3 in the league and 4-8 overall, hit on 32 of 60 from the field for 53 per cent. Kalamazoo is also now 2-3 in the league.

The Indians travel Friday to Jackson.

Different Defenses Work For Coaches Zone Against Man-To-Man

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Our big concern with playing a zone defense is to stay away from a lot of foolish fouls and the easy basket. — South Haven coach M. H. White

The controversy continues on which is better — the zone defense or the man-to-man.

Each can be successful in its own way. Probably the best examples currently are the individual success stories of St. Joseph under George Gaundier and South Haven under M. H. White.

Gaundier's success has been almost exclusively with the man-to-man defense, while White's has been with the zone.

Gaundier's reasons for using the man-to-man over the zone is simple.

"I think it makes for better basketball," he says. "I just know if I go to a basketball game and see both teams playing a zone, it's going to be boring. A zone slows the game down too much, which is one of its purposes. It takes away so many things that a team likes to do."

"By using a man-to-man defense, you put more pressure on the ball. It gives each individual some responsibility. A zone does, too, but it's not quite as specific as a man-to-man."

"You will probably see an interesting game when both teams are playing a man-to-man. You're apt to see a dull contest when both are playing a zone. With a zone a couple of passes are made and then somebody will bomb one up from 20 feet."

River Valley's Jerry Schaffer is another coach who prefers the man-to-man over the zone. "I like the challenge it presents to the kids," he says, "not only doing the job on your own man but working together as a unit and trying to play perfect defense."

And River Valley has taken pride in its defense, yielding just 57.0 points per game. St. Joseph goes one step better with its man-to-man and is giving up just 54.4 per contest.

But South Haven has not exactly possessed a porous defense. The Rams are second in the area in defense, yielding only 54.6 points per game. "Since I've been coaching here, we've used both defenses," White says. "I feel that you can't play well against a man-to-man defense unless you play a good man-to-man yourself."

"But I believe the kids have more confidence in the zone. They have to work more on defense and if they didn't get the job done with a zone I would certainly switch."

White employs four different zone defenses, depending on the type of offense the opponent runs. "I think we use man-to-man principles in our zone," White says. "But it's useless unless you move. In a good zone you have to have good movement and hustle. You also have to recognize when the opponent tries to overload a zone and shift as well."

Which defense is better? That depends on your point of view. Schaffer probably sums it up

Buchanan's Walt Vanderbush is quickly bringing back the importance of free throw accuracy to the area. The senior guard has hit on his last 14 straight free throw attempts and has found the range on 36 of 40 tries for the season. Vanderbush earlier had a string of 19 straight before missing.

Fennville's Marc Moeller continues to lead the area scoring race with a 29.6 per game average. Benton Harbor's Russell Steele is second at 23.3, Decatur's Kurt Wiese third at 21.9 and Eau Claire's Terry Adams fourth at 20.4. Buchanan's Ken Garrett rounds out the 20-point club, joining it for the first time with a 20.2 average.

Nelson Motor Heats Up, Sparks Celtics

From Associated Press

It takes Don Nelson's cold-starting motor a while to warm up.

"I have trouble getting going the first time I'm in a game," the Boston Celtic forward says. "After that, it's all downhill for Nelson — and usually the Celtics, if he gets hot."

Nelson had one of his typical slow starts Wednesday night, but then provided the spark to lead the Celtics to a 109-103 National Basketball Association victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Nelson never ran out of gas, scoring 11 of his 18 points after coming off the bench in the fourth quarter.

"I've been working hard in practice," Nelson said. "When you don't play that much you have to like to get warm."

"Nelson has had some real good games lately," said Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn. "He played very well against Los Angeles out there. I put him in the fourth period to help give us some boost. We had Nelson out there with Dave Cowens and Paul Silas. They had smaller people in there. Actually, his scoring was a bonus."

In the other NBA games, the Detroit Pistons nipped the Cleveland Cavaliers 118-116 in overtime; the Philadelphia 76ers stopped the Milwaukee Bucks 112-102; the Kansas City Kings nudged the Houston Rockets 108-106; the Golden State Warriors trounced the Phoenix Suns 114-110 and the Seattle SuperSonics beat the New York Knicks 91-89.

Curtis Rowe's three-point play, followed by two free throws in the final 23 seconds of overtime, enabled Detroit to rally for its victory over Cleveland.

George McGinnis scored 24 points and collected nine assists as Philadelphia beat Milwaukee.

Larry McNeil scored 16 points in the second half as Kansas City came from behind to defeat Houston.

Rick Barry, held to 10 points in the first three quarters, scored 16 in the fourth period to help Golden State beat Phoenix. Fred Brown scored 24 points to lead Seattle past New York. Spencer Haywood, making his first appearance in Seattle since being traded to the Knicks, was boxed throughout the game.

CLEVELAND (118) — Brewer 8-10, Smith 12-15, Chones 7-25, Clemons 3-3, Snyder 0-4, Carr 1-2, Ford 5-10, Russell 6-22, Thurmond 2-8, Walker 1-23. Totals 54-105.

St. Louis Platoon System Working

From Associated Press

Rod Thorn is playing one-upmanship. And he's got the two players to do it.

"I think it's a real advantage to platoon our two centers — Randy Denton and Caldwell Jones," says the coach of the Spirits of St. Louis. "It's impossible for the opponents' center to get 48 minutes and be able to stop two fresh guys coming in and out of the game."

The Spirits' 1-2 punch worked to perfection Wednesday night while beating the Indiana Pacers 114-112 in an overtime American Basketball Association game.

"Randy Denton was the key tonight," said Thorn after watching his big man score 20 points, same as Jones.

Freddie Lewis added 25 points in the high-powered Spirit offense.

"When I have the shots the coach tells me to take them," said Lewis. "But we have to go inside in order to win and it's my job to get the ball inside to guys like Marvin Barnes, Denton and Jones."

In the other ABA games, the San Antonio Spurs beat the Denver Nuggets 121-118 and the Virginia Squires pounded the New York Nets 112-89.

Lewis scored 16 points in the second half and seven in overtime for St. Louis. The Pacers, dropping their sixth straight game, blew a 16-point lead in the third quarter. Barnes finished with 23 points for the winners.

James Silas scored 34 points and added 11 rebounds as San Antonio defeated Denver. It was the third consecutive victory for the Spurs over the league-leading Nuggets. The victory also ended a two-game Spur losing streak.

Virginia, the losingest team in the ABA with a 6-28 record, humbled New York in a rout

Ranger Job To Ferguson

NEW YORK (AP) — John Ferguson's first executive decisions as general manager of the New York Rangers were to fire Ron Stewart and name himself interim coach of the floundering National Hockey League club.

"I'll name my coach at the end of the year," said the 37-year-old former left wing for the Montreal Canadiens after signing a multi-year contract and becoming the league's youngest GM. "I'll be looking for a coach. I've got some people in mind."

Well, that didn't take long. No sooner was he at his new positions Wednesday night than he had hired and fired himself at one of them. But before he's done as the successor to hardluck Coach Ron Stewart, Ferguson pledges his last-place team will earn some respect from the rest of the league.

"You don't have to hit all the time to win," he said after taking the job he turned down last May before New York hired

Hitting and the adaptation of techniques used by Russian hockey teams will be theory behind Ferguson's practice as he takes over the coaching reins from Stewart and the general manager's chair from Emile Francis, who was relieved of those duties Tuesday night after 11 years of service. Ferguson is the first man in the team's 50-year history to coach the Rangers without having played for them.

"It's going to be a tougher hockey club," said Ferguson, who was plenty tough himself during an eight-year career in which he scored 248 goals, added 158 assists and amassed 1,214 penalty minutes.

He will draw from that toughness to weather the challenge of accepting two jobs at which he has little experience, stressing discipline and conditioning.

Tough Win For Montreal Black Hawks Defeated By Soviet Wings

From Associated Press

You may not believe this, hockey fans, but it's not how you play the game — it's whether you win or lose. So Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman wasn't particularly upset by the Canadiens' hard-fought 3-1 triumph over the Minnesota North Stars Wednesday night.

"I'll take it," Bowman said. "We can win a lot of games on 2-1 scores. I think the North Stars have tightened up considerably since the last time we played them. They've cut down on their goals against, and that's hard to do. I'm thoroughly pleased with what we've done so far."

The Canadiens, who lead the National Hockey League's Norris Conference by 16 points over the Los Angeles Kings, got all the scoring they needed on first-period goals 22 seconds apart by Yvon Lambert and Guy Lafleur.

For a while, it looked as though Montreal goalie Ken Dryden would shut out the North Stars for the third time in four meetings this season. But Pierre Jarry scored on a deflection at 18:03 of third period.

Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Flyers trounced the Toronto Maple Leafs 7-3, the Los Angeles Kings downed the Kansas City Scouts 5-2 and the California Golden Seals defeated the Pittsburgh Penguins 4-1.

Reggie Leach took over the NHL scoring lead with his 28th and 29th goals and Orest Kindrachuk also tallied twice.

Leach's second goal came in the third period and ignited a three-goal burst — Gary Dorroh and Kindrachuk got the others — that boosted Philadelphia's lead to 7-1. Goals by Tom Bladen, Kindrachuk and Dave Schultz staked the Flyers to a 3-0 lead in the opening period.

Butch Goring slapped in one goal and assisted on two more. At 12:38 of the first period Bob Nevin converted a pass from Goring and four minutes later Vic Venkay made it 2-0 on a 25-foot shot. Gary Sargeant made it 3-0 in the second period. Goring's goal gave the Kings a 4-1 lead.

At MacAdam and Dennis Maruk each collected his 13th goal of the season for California. MacAdam flipped in a backhand shot at 1:45 of the second period to give California its winning goal and a 2-0 lead. Maruk scored six minutes later. Ralph Klassen and Jim Moxey also tallied for the Seals.

Defenseman Yuri Liapkin scored once and assisted on another tally in the Wings' three-goal second-period. The victory was the Wings' second in three contests against NHL teams and gave the Wings and Russia's Central Army teams a 3-1 lead in the over-all USSR-NHL exhibition series.

Different Defenses Work For Coaches Zone Against Man-To-Man

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Our big concern with playing a zone defense is to stay away from a lot of foolish fouls and the easy basket. — South Haven coach M. H. White

In a man-to-man defense each player has to take pride in his own defense and control his man. — St. Joseph coach George Gaundier

The controversy continues on which is better — the zone defense or the man-to-man.

Gaundier is the top winner among active area coaches with 242 coaching victories. White, on the other hand, boasts the area's fourth best winning percentage with a 122-48 record with the Rams (.718).

Gaundier's success has been almost exclusively with the man-to-man defense, while White's has been with the zone.

Gaundier's reasons for using the man-to-man over the zone is simple.

"I think it makes for better basketball," he says. "I just know if I go to a basketball game and see both teams playing a zone, it's going to be boring. A zone slows the game down too much, which is one of its purposes. It takes away so many things that a team likes to do."

"By using a man-to-man defense, you put more pressure on the ball. It gives each individual some responsibility. A zone does, too, but it's not quite as specific as a man-to-man."

"You will probably see an

River Valley's Jerry Schaffer is another coach who prefers the man-to-man over the zone.

"I like the challenge it presents to the kids," he says. "Not only doing the job on your own man but working together as a unit and trying to play perfect defense."

And River Valley has taken pride in its defense, yielding just 57.0 points per game. St. Joseph goes one step better with its man-to-man and is giving up just 56.4 per contest.

But South Haven has not exactly possessed a porous defense. The Rams are second in the area in defense, yielding only 54.6 points per game.

"Since I've been coaching here, we've used both defenses," White says. "I feel that you can't play well against a man-to-man defense unless you play a good man-to-man yourself."

White employs four different zone defenses, depending on the type of offense the opponent runs.

"I think we use man-to-man principles in our zone," White says. "But it's useless unless you move. In a good zone you have to have good movement and hustle. You also have to recognize when the opponent tries to overload a zone and shift as well."

Which defense is better? That depends on your point of view. Schaffer probably sums it up

Buchanan's Walt Vanderbush is quickly bringing back the importance of free throw accuracy to the area. The senior guard has hit on his last 14 straight free throw attempts and has found the range on 36 of 40 tries for the season. Vanderbush earlier had a string of 19 straight before missing.

Fennville's Marc Moeller continues to lead the area scoring race with a 29.6 per game average. Benton Harbor's Russell Steele is second at 23.3, Decatur's Kurt Wiese third at 21.9 and Eau Claire's Terry Adams fourth at 20.4. Buchanan's Ken Garrett rounds out the 20-point club, joining it for the first time with a 20.2 average.

"You don't have to hit all the time to win," he said after taking the job he turned down last May before New York hired

Stewart. "But you've got to hit to have some respect. You get respect from hitting."

Hitting and the adaptation of techniques used by Russian hockey teams will be theory behind Ferguson's practice as he takes over the coaching reins from Stewart and the general manager's chair from Emile Francis, who was relieved of those duties Tuesday night after 11 years of service. Ferguson is the first man in the team's 50-year history to coach the Rangers without having played for them.

"It's going to be a tougher hockey club," said Ferguson, who was plenty tough himself during an eight-year career in which he scored 245 goals, added 158 assists and amassed 1,214 penalty minutes.

He will draw from that toughness to weather the challenge of accepting two jobs at which he has little experience, stressing discipline and conditioning.

Tough Win For Montreal

Black Hawks Defeated By Soviet Wings

From Associated Press

You may not believe this, hockey fans, but it's not how you play the game ... it's whether you win or lose. So Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman wasn't particularly upset by the Canadiens' hard-fought 2-1 triumph over the Minnesota North Stars Wednesday night.

"I'll take it," Bowman said. "We can win a lot of games on 2-1 scores. I think the North Stars have tightened up considerably since the last time we played them. They've cut down on their goals against, and that's hard to do. I'm thoroughly pleased with what we've done so

Thanks To Good Weather, New Technique Skiers Flocking To State Slopes

By HARRY ATKINS
Associated Press Writer

Skiers are flocking to Michigan slopes in record numbers this season thanks to good weather and a revolutionary teaching technique known as GLM.

The Graduated Length Method starts beginners on skis just over three feet long. The short skis are easy to maneuver. As the novice quickly learns how to handle himself, he is graduated to progressively longer skis.

"We're happy. We've got money in the bank," said Denny Johnson, manager of the Caberfae ski area near Cadillac in the Lower Peninsula. "We had over 110,000 skiers last season, and I predict we'll ski over 150,000 this season."

Johnson said business over the recent holidays was up almost 35 per cent over the 1974 holiday season.

"Ski rentals have been exceptionally good," Johnson said. "New people rent skis, so we can assume we are getting a lot of new people. We feel it's because of the GLM instruction."

Caberfae, which did over $1 million worth of business last season, also has been blessed with good weather this season.

"The past four years we've had rain on New Year's Day," Johnson said. "This year, however, we've had lots of new snow."

Mary Lou Vincent, president of Indianhead ski resort near Wakefield in the western Upper Peninsula, also credited an increase in business to good snow and GLM.

"These are all new people this season," Miss Vincent said. "We've had the short skis for about four years. This year our rental shop stocks nothing but short skis. The GLM is just excellent for getting people into skiing in a hurry."

Indianhead, which also offers lessons in cross-country and hot-dog (free style) skiing, is another resort blessed with good snowfall this year.

"We've had four snowfalls of over 20 inches already," Miss Vincent said. "As a result, it looks like we're in for a record year."

She said Indianhead recorded 115,000 skiers last season, up from 99,000 a season earlier.

"This year we should go well over 115,000," said Miss Vincent, who noted that every skier translates to about $13 in revenue.

Neither Caberfae nor Indianhead raised prices this season, nor are they making any special effort to lure groups with package deals. Both have increased their advertising budgets, however, as have many other resorts in Michigan.

"The Michigan Tourist Bureau has promoted the entire state over a much wider region than ever before," said Reed Frederick, director of the Traverse City Chamber of Commerce.

"We notice that more families are skiing," Frederick said, "and they're staying longer. They don't just stay overnight and move on to another area. Many stay and ski a whole week this season."

Many resort operators also acknowledge that having a skiing first family doesn't hurt business one bit.

"The President's skiing vacations have an influence on skiing, as has the fact that Michigan Gov. William Milliken also skis," said Wayne Mallory, director of the Oscego Ski Club at Gaylord.

Mallory said the "competency of the instructional levels" also was prompting more people to take lessons.

"The Presidents' skiing is bound to have some rub off," said Chuck Moll, general manager of the Boyne complex in northwest Lower Michigan. "I sure wish he skied in Michigan, rather than Colorado, though. But he skied here for about eight years, you know."

Moll said the giant Boyne complex enjoyed one of its best holiday seasons ever. He said attendance was up 20 per cent and said sales in shops were up 40 per cent.

On the Monday after Christmas, Moll said, there were over 10,000 skiers scattered over Boyne's many slopes.

"Since about 1972 ski operators in Michigan have had tough sledding," Moll said. "The first year there was no snow, then there was no gasoline, then we had the bad economy. It looks like this season we'll turn the corner."

Moll said Boyne's rental shops have experienced a marked increase in business, which would indicate new people.

"The short ski has made it easier," Moll said. "The short ski also seems to be hiring skiers from traditionally non-ski areas. Moll said a check of registrations during the holidays indicated 20 per cent of Boyne's customers were from Ohio, 15 per cent from Indiana, 20 from Illinois and 40 per cent from Michigan.

"The other five per cent were from such states as far away as Georgia, Florida and Iowa," Moll said. "How about that?"

Closer in to the metropolitan Detroit area, smaller slopes like Mount Holly do a thriving business every night of the week with skiing under the lights.

"Our attendance is up 30 per cent this season," said Grant Hanks at Mount Holly. "We expect to do $750,000 worth of business this year."

Hanks, whose slopes carry a high percentage of beginners, said the GLM had contributed greatly to increased business.

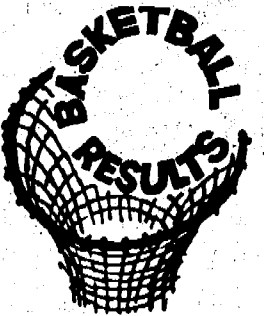

"But it all depends on the weather," Moll said. "We're just like the farmers."

Moll said, however, that every ski operator in Michigan should make money this season because of the weather and ample snowfall.

"We were lucky, we got the holidays in," Moll said. "If you take away the holidays you take away the cream. Even at a big place like Boyne, you take away the holidays and they'll just about pay the bills and that's all."

It was an unexpected pleasure for Dean Smith.

"We certainly didn't expect this kind of game," the North Carolina basketball coach said.

It was a shock for Bill Foster. "The way we played, we should have gotten beat by 40 points," said the Clemson coach.

Smith felt the pleasure and Foster the pain after the sixth-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels crushed the Clemson Tigers 83-64 in college basketball Wednesday night.

"We were lucky to catch them on an off-night," Smith said after the lopsided game at Clemson.

Phil Ford had 15 points and 10 assists and Tom Lillard scored seven points early in the second half to help the Tar Heels break the game open.

Three other ranked Atlantic Coast Conference teams were in action Wednesday night as No. 2 Maryland beat George Washington 82-72; Virginia stunned No. 7 Wake Forest 63-58

Derrick Jackson scored 18 points in the second half to lead Georgetown over St. Joseph's.

NBA Suit Near Settlement

NEW YORK (AP) — The players' union and the board of governors of the National Basketball Association appear close to settling the critical Oscar Robertson lawsuit.

"All aspects of the suit were discussed and the possible settlement of it," Larry Fleisher, general counsel for the NBA Players Association, said Wednesday after a 6½-hour meeting with the board of governors and NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien.

Both sides were scheduled to meet again today, indicating they were nearing an out-of-court settlement of the suit which was filed in 1970 and contends that the annual common draft and the league's option clause violate antitrust laws.

The case, often postponed, is scheduled to be heard June 1 in Southern District Court in New York if there is no out-of-court agreement.

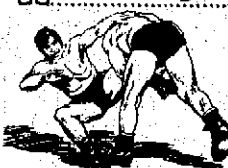

Representing the 18-man board of governors were Mike Burke of the New York Knicks, Dick Bloch of the Phoenix Suns, Abe Pollin of the Washington Bullets, Bill Alverson of the Milwaukee Bucks and William Wirtz of the Chicago Bulls. Wirtz left New York after Wednesday's session and was not expected to return for today's meeting.

In addition to O'Brien, the league office was represented by Deputy Commissioner Simon Gourdine.

Representing the players' union was President Paul Silas of the Boston Celtics, Vice President John Havlicek of Boston, Jim McMillan of the Buffalo Braves and Jeff Mullins of the Golden State Warriors.

Vermont Project Turns Trees Into Low-Price Homes

NEWPORT, Vt. (AP) — A group of northern Vermonters is building inexpensive homes for low-income families and learning a trade at the same time.

Standing timber is turned into finished houses by the logging, sawmill and carpentry businesses run by the Orleans County Council of Social Agencies.

"We have a lot of chronically unemployed people here, very few natural resources and a serious housing shortage," said Thomas Hahn, council executive director. "But one thing we do have is a lot of lumber."

The council owns its own logging equipment and leases two saw mills for its operation here in the area known as Vermont's Northeast Kingdom. Most of the labor comes from unskilled workers who are paid with federal manpower training money.

"They don't make much money — usually $2.10 an hour — but they're being trained so their skills are more marketable," says council spokesman Jeff Hall. "And that's why we're able to sell our houses so cheaply."

The three bedroom, ranch-style homes made by the council are priced at about $18,000 and are sold only to families whose annual income is under $7,500, Hall said. The retail value of the buildings is about $26,000, he said.

"We just completed four or five homes in Newport. As soon as the holes were dug, the houses were sold," he said.

The homes come completely furnished — carpeted and with all standard appliances.

"They're for people who otherwise might be in a substandard apartment building," Hall said. "The family would pay just as much for rent and at the same time not be making an investment toward their future. We're trying to change that."

The council's roughly 40 logging and building workers usually leave within a year to take better jobs with a private logging company or contractor. The project began in 1971.

"But with the current job market the way it is we haven't been able to turn them over once a year lately," Hall said.

Public reaction to the three-county project is mixed, said Hahn.

"The people who buy our houses could not afford one on the private market, so we're not taking business away from contractors," he said. "And the private builders know where they can always get a good worker — from us."

Financing, appliances and furnishings for the homes come from local bankers and merchants, giving the area's economy a boost, he said.

Still, Hahn said there is resentment, primarily from persons whose incomes are just above the eligibility limit.

"Why does that guy deserve a house when we can't afford one? is their reaction," said Hahn. "I guess I would resent it, too."

IN TEXAS PENITENTIARY Prisoners Into Meditation

SEAGOVILLE, Tex. (AP) — When Dan Bernard settles into his yoga position for his daily meditation, he has little reason to worry that he will be disturbed.

Bernard, 32, is serving time at the Federal Correctional Institution here where meditation has become so popular that 321 of the 450 inmates and the associate warden have taken instruction in meditation.

"I have a deep inner peace now and a sense of personal ethics I never had before," said Bernard, in prison on a narcotics violation.

Brian Bunk, a psychologist at the minimum security facility, said the results of a recent survey of 100 inmates who had taken the course indicated they "became more able to live with themselves and the loneliness of prison" because of meditation.

Bunk said the meditation involves the continuous repetition of a word (or mantra) in a quiet atmosphere, bringing on deep, introspective thought.

But Bunk says the success of the program comes from it being taught by inmates, rather than staff personnel or outsiders.

"The resident teachers are how the program began in the first place," said Bunk who has been at Seagoville for two years.

"It remains to be seen what will happen when our resident teachers leave. There are few situations where an expert is incarcerated."

The expert in Seagoville is Michael Clegg, 37, who said he had practiced meditation for three years before entering prison.

"People in prison are looking for inner peace," Clegg said. "And here there is a tremendous amount of free time available to look for inner peace."

"When I first began the program after getting approval from the psychologists, I was considered a weirdo, but not any more."

"Now almost everybody wants to be a part. Even the associate warden has turned into a most beautiful, decent fellow."

Bunk said it's in "vogue" to be into meditation at the institution.

"I plan to submit a full report on the program to Washington when I have more statistical data," Bunk said. "I don't think it would work everywhere because most places would have to institute the program through the staff and prisoners are not receptive to staff-run programs."

Bunk said early research has shown inmates not practicing meditation were eight times more likely to be punished for antisocial behavior in the facility.

"We do realize that we have the almost perfect medium for this kind of activity," he said.

Bunk said the wife of the regional director of the Bureau of Prisons drives out from Dallas twice a week to attend the classes.

BURNING ISSUE ON TV

Who Owns Letter 'N'?

NEW YORK (AP) — A major question that affects all mankind is being asked today: Who has custody of the letter "N," the mighty National Broadcasting Co. or the tiny Nebraska Educational Television Network?

Don't laugh. This is serious. NBC spent 14 months pondering and planning a new corporate identification symbol to replace one in use since Jan. 14, 1959, a serpentine version of the letters NBC.

Executives brooded and mulled, costly research was ordered and a high-powered corporate design firm, Lippincott & Margulies, Inc., of New York, was summoned to lend a hand. It was no small matter, since the changeover of a broadcast firm's corporate symbol can cost hundreds of thousands of dollars, since everything from station breaks to stationery must bear the new sign.

In April, when NBC's mulling still was going on, Ron Hull, program manager of Nebraska's nine-station public TV system, decided his network also needed a new symbol. He didn't know NBC had planned one.

He summoned NETV's art director, Bill Korbus, and asked him to draw up some ideas. Three weeks and less than $100 worth of materials later, Hull says, his 25-member staff chose the winning symbol by a 13 to 12 vote. On Dec. 30, NBC held a news conference to unveil its new symbol. It was an abstract version of the letter "N" which on TV is red and blue.

On New Year's Day, Hull was watching NBC's preview of the Tournament of Roses parade, saw the new NBC symbol and was flat startled.

He said it was identical to the futuristic "N" NETV has used in its newspaper ads since June and in its broadcasts since fall. The only difference is that his "N" is red on a gray background.

"I honestly looked at the dial, because I thought I was on our own channel," he said of that New Year's Day vision. "And that was duplicated 200 times among our own staff that day. Everybody was calling each other all day."

"At first we were kind of mad, and then we were all laughing."

But now, he says he's consulting with Washington lawyers NETV has hired and "they say we have a very good case of claiming that we have prior rights to that logo."

While it never was copyrighted, he said, he's been told that would pose no problem should NETV take the matter of the "N" to court. He said he may know by Friday if any action will be taken.

NBC, understandably jittery about the whole thing, says, "We don't believe there will be any confusion between the new NBC symbol" and that of NETV. But it refuses to answer any questions about it.

Walter Margulies, president of the design firm that put the new "N" in NBC, says, "I have never heard about the Nebraska Educational Television Network or seen its symbol."

He also says "the legal department of NBC has been researching this (NBC) symbol for almost three-quarters of a year. I know they have done some work to protect this symbol."

Hull was asked: If you go to court and win, will you suggest a new corporate symbol for NBC, perhaps something like "OOPS?"

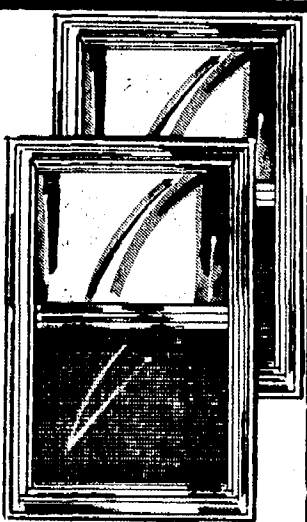

"I couldn't say," he replied with a laugh. "Right now, I'd just like everything to be in the best spirit possible. Life's too short not to be enjoyed."

Africa Nonwhites Are Expected To Endorse Leftist

gaddis ababa, ethiopia (AP) — The leaders of Africa's nonwhite governments will unite at a summit meeting this weekend to endorse the Marxist Popular Movement (MPLA) in Angola, which the Soviet Union and Cuba support, African foreign ministers predicted today.

Some African observers said the endorsement of the leftist faction in the Angolan civil war would be coupled with a request that it negotiate with its anti-Marxist foes, who are supported by the United States and South Africa.

Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., told newsmen the United States should go along with the African consensus. Diggs, attending the summit as an observer from the Congressional Black Caucus, said President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger have lowered American diplomatic standing in black Africa by joining white-ruled South Africa in support of the Angolan National Front (FNLA) and the National Union (UNITA).

The African foreign ministers begin meeting late today to prepare for a three-day summit meeting of the Organization of African Unity opening Saturday. The crisis session on Angola is the OAU's first emergency summit since the league of nonwhite African governments was formed 12 years ago.

Diplomats reported that Chad on Wednesday became the 21st of the OAU's 46 members to announce recognition of the MPLA government in Luanda. They said Ethiopia was delaying its recognition until after the summit to preserve host-country impartiality in the debate.

No country has recognized the joint government proclaimed by the FNLA and UNITA.

Diggs called on the Ford administration to halt arms and financial aid to the FNLA and UNITA. He said an unconditional American withdrawal would put pressure on the Soviet Union to stop arms shipments to the MPLA and on Cuba to withdraw the troops it has sent to fight for the MPLA.

After 12 years of fighting Portuguese colonial rule, the three Angolan factions have been locked in a civil war for control of the rich African territory ever since Portugal announced early last year that it was getting out. When independence came in November, the MPLA took over Luanda, the capital, and central Angola. Recently its forces have been reported making major gains in the northern part of the country.

Diplomats said the summit meeting would also probably make a cease-fire appeal and would condemn South Africa's intervention, which they said more than anything else tipped black African opinion away from the FNLA and UNITA.

The meeting was also likely to call on all foreign powers to pull out of Angola. But many African leaders draw a distinction between the Soviet Union, an MPLA backer for more than 10 years before independence, and the United States, a NATO ally of Portugal during the colonial war.

Some Socialist governments like Tanzania and Mozambique back the MPLA partly because they have the same political ideology. Others, like Ethiopia, feel that a coalition of the three Angolan movements would never last if it could be formed and that the war can end only if the MPLA prevails.

Fact Finding Is Scheduled In Lawton School Dispute

LAWTON — A fact-finding hearing has been tentatively scheduled here in the contract dispute between the Lawton school board and the Lawton Education association.

The association represents the school district's teachers who have been working without a new contract this school year because of a stalemate in negotiations.

"The district is the only one in southwestern Michigan without a contract, according to education association spokesmen."

Robert Nichols, executive director of the Banger office of the Michigan Education association, said the hearing was tentatively set for Feb. 8, at 7 p.m. in the Lawton high school. He said it would be open to the public.

Dr. Darrell H. Pollard, vice president of Adrian college, Adrian, has been appointed fact-finder for the hearing by the Michigan Labor Mediation board.

Nichols said the stalemate has occurred due to economics, "salaries, insurance, etc.," plus a staff reduction clause.

Lawton school district voters have defeated three extra operational millage requests since June and Supt. George Dannecker has said the defeats mean "...we will have to leave salaries where they are. Any adjustment (in salaries) would mean a layoff or a programmed cutback."

David Anderson, president of the LEA, has stated that despite the millage losses, "We still feel there is money for teacher salary increases."

A state mediator has met with representatives of both the teachers and school board, but no settlement was reached.

Weesaw Board States Opposition To Proposed Ambulance Service

NEW TROY — The Weesaw township board last night declared its opposition to a proposed countywide, publicly supported ambulance service.

The board passed a resolution which said it strongly opposed creation of a countywide ambulance service if Weesaw township residents would be taxed to help support it.

The countywide ambulance service has been proposed by officials from several Berrien county municipalities, but the county board of commissioners has not yet taken the matter into consideration.

In its resolution, the township board noted it was very satisfied with the township's present volunteer ambulance service which has been in operation since 1953.

The resolution, which was directed to the county board, asked that each township in the county be allowed to decide for itself whether to be included in such a service, if the issue is put to a countywide vote.

The resolution also said the township will continue its volunteer service which is operated by the volunteer fire department.

In other areas, the board voted to donate $100 to the New Troy Blossom Queen committee. The money is to be used for purchasing charms to be given to queen candidates visiting New Troy.

The board agreed to divide township gasoline purchases between the two gasoline outlets in the township. The outlets are the Walter Streffling Oil company and the William Boyd, Jr. distribution firm.

Clerk John Payne was instructed to request from the county road commission that all gravel roads in the township receive a chloride treatment for dust control later this year.

Experiments On Humans Defended

RESTON, Va. (AP) — Despite experimental misadventures like a large-scale syphilis study at Tuskegee, Ala., research on humans must go on as a part of the search for cures, a Meharry Medical College faculty member says.

"What we must do ... is clearly highlight the transgressions that have taken place and ... provide mechanisms to prevent their recurrence," says Dr. Henry Foster, who leads the Nashville, Tenn., school's Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Postal Refunds 'Impossible'

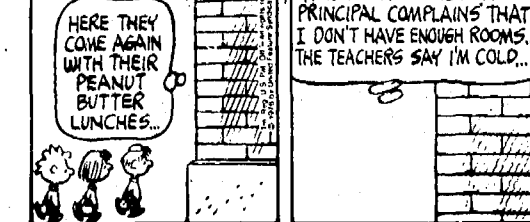

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the recent increase in postal rates is ruled illegal, no refunds can be given to mail users, the Postal Service says.

In papers filed this week with the U.S. Court of Appeals, the service cited "the sheer administrative impossibility of providing such reimbursement to all mail users."

City Cuts Off Mayor's Water

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — A long-standing dispute between this city's mayor and water department is continuing, with the department cutting off the mayor's water.

Mayor Edward Hanna refused to pay a $20.13 water bill for his home last September, saying the water department was operating without a budget and was wasting $200,000 or more annually. He said his action was designed as a protest of his inability to gain reforms in the department.

More Violence In North Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Three bombs wounded six persons in Belfast early today, and police found the body of a man shot in the back of the head in a Protestant section of the city.

The police blamed the bombings on the Irish Republican Army, but it was not immediately apparent who was responsible for the killing. The confirmed death toll in Northern Ireland's Protestant-Catholic warfare rose to 1,414 since August 1968.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Begins To Slide

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower today, giving way to profit taking after its sharp gains since the start of the new year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down more than two points in the early going. Losers held a slight over-all edge on gainers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted continuing optimism over the interest rate outlook. New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, the third largest in the nation, lowered its prime rate from 7 1/4 to 7 per cent this morning.

The move marked a reduction in the basic charge on corporate loans Wednesday by Cleveland Trust. And there was talk that the prime might be headed for 6 1/2 per cent before long with the Federal Reserve apparently relaxing its credit policy.

But traders with large paper profits from the market's recent rise apparently decided to do some selling to cash in on them, on the belief that the market could not go much further without at least a temporary pause.

Today's prices included Gillette, down 1/4 at 34 1/4; Monsanto, off 1 at 78 3/4; Western Airlines, up 3/4 at 10; and Rohm & Haas, unchanged at 63.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 7.87 to 888.69, its highest close since Nov. 9, 1973.

The advance stretched the Dow's gain for the first four sessions of the new year to 46.28 points.

NYSE volume hit 33.17 million shares, the third heaviest total ever and just 2 million shy of the record of 35.16 million set last Feb. 13.

Gainers outpaced losers by about a 5-3 margin on the Big Board, and the exchange's composite index rose .24 to 49.75.

The American Stock Exchange market value index picked up .75 to 88.08.

NEW DRIVE AGAINST PRICE-FIXING

"Fair trade" laws in the U.S. — which for nearly 40 years encouraged price-fixing on many consumer products and cost us, America's consumers, an estimated $2 billion a year in artificially controlled prices — are dead. Within a matter of a few weeks, when the federal law repealing the national authorization for state fair trade laws becomes effective, it no longer will be legal even in states still having fair trade laws for manufacturers and retailers to agree on resale prices charged to us, the consumers.

Some price wars — mighty intensive on specific products — are likely for a while. You and I may even get what seem unfair price advantages while these wars are raging. But the widespread expectation among economists is that after a short period, retail prices will return to an intermediate level between what they were before the price war and their low point during it.

The death of fair trade marks the closing of a huge gap in the federal antitrust laws, and it is certain to spark new enforcement efforts to make sure that the decisions of the state and federal legislators are carried out.

In the New York region of the Federal Trade Commission, for instance — which has within its jurisdiction the headquarters of the largest number of national industries — Regional Director Richard A. Givens has set up a special antitrust task force under the supervision of FTC attorney Laura Worsinger.

Even before Congress had finished its vote to kill fair trade, the new antitrust task force had obtained consent orders against four major national audio equipment manufacturers. Among the provisions: A prohibition on resale price maintenance practices even in states that still had fair trade; a requirement that dealers cut off because of discounting be reinstated; a ban against even "suggested" resale prices. And the Worsinger task force has much larger industries under its scrutiny right now.

Where violations are found, the sanctions (as in the audio cases) can go beyond merely demanding that the illegal practices be stopped. "Fencing-in" provisions can be included which ban even conduct that otherwise would be legal.

According to court decisions, "It's like telling a child found with his hand in the cookie jar to stay out of the kitchen entirely for one week," says Givens, in explaining how fencing-in can prevent a possible repetition of the violations.)

Price-fixing deals between manufacturers and retailers are called "vertical" by antitrust enforcers because they are between different layers in the distribution chain. "Horizontal" agreements between manufacturer and manufacturer or between retailer and retailer also are illegal — in fact, they never were protected even in fair trade's heyday.

Horizontal agreements are even worse than the vertical, because they totally stifle competition — rather than killing it within one brand. But vertical agreements tend to make horizontal agreements more likely — because uniformity makes collusion easier to carry out.

Dealers who are cut off by manufacturers for reducing prices to consumers are a key source of information on illegal deals. And firms that try to rely on the so-called "Colgate" doctrine — a Supreme Court decision in the 1920s that held that Colgate could refuse to sell to businesses that Colgate didn't wish to deal with — will find this doctrine scant protection in this era. The sales force always will try to find out whether the dealer will comply with the pricing policy, and once there is a "yes" answer, an illegal agreement exists.

What's more, Givens says that under the antitrust laws, once you sell a product, you can't dictate to the buyer what to do with it. The dealer may sell to discounters, or any other dealer whether or not approved by the manufacturer.

The "fair trade" of the Great Depression grew out of the fact that prices were often so low that firms were forced out of business by the tens of thousands. Today's problem is hardly low prices; rather, it's rising costs. Price-fixing is obsolete in this era. It is heartening to report it has such powerful enemies on the alert.

SEC Wants Reports On NYC Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission says it will require holders of sizable concentrations of certain New York City and state securities to provide detailed reports on their holdings.

The commission also has proposed a rule which would require similar reports and financial statements by companies whose investments are concentrated in securities of a single issuer.

Detailed reporting under the proposed rule would be required whenever the aggregate investment in the securities of a single issuer exceeds 5 per cent of stockholder equity on the company holding the securities. The threshold concentration for the New York securities was 10 per cent of stockholder equity.

Both actions were announced Wednesday. The proposed new regulations to cover a broader spectrum of securities will be held open for public comment until March 31, the commission said.

The SEC listed these New York securities as meriting special treatment in financial reporting: New York City notes on which a payment moratorium has been declared for maturity within three years; Municipal Assistance Corp. securities issued in exchange for notes covered by the moratorium and MAC securities that were issued as part of an agreement modifying terms of payment.

The commission said that in view of New York City's financial problems and the payment moratorium declared on some of its notes, the additional disclosure "is material and should assist investors in making their own judgments about the effects, if any, on the income and business of registrants."

Items which would have to be covered in a footnote to financial statements include the total cost and carrying value of the identified securities as of the end of 1973 and the income produced by the securities during the year. The total would also have to be broken down by category of security.

Wisconsin Bank Gets Control Of Apartments

A Berrien Circuit court judge has given a Wisconsin bank possession of a Stevensville apartment complex because the owners defaulted on the mortgage.

But the order issued this week by Judge William S. White only allows the First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee to operate Fountainview Condominiums and collect rents during the pendency of the bank's suit to foreclose on the complex's mortgage.

The bank filed suit against the Chicago-based company which owns Fountainview in November, claiming more than $1.7 million is owed on a 1973 mortgage which was due Jan. 1, 1975. The owners of the complex, Sharfman, Inc., and Arnold and Sharon Karmer, of Illinois, and William and Sandra Topp, of Wisconsin, still have title to Fountainview while the suit is pending.

White said he granted the bank possession of the complex, at 4419 Red Arrow highway, because the owners defaulted on the mortgage. He also ordered the bank to account to the court for receipts and disbursements in performance of his order.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Advice To Widow: Bank Money, Wait

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I was recently widowed and don't know where to turn. Some close friends know I will soon be receiving $45,000 proceeds of my husband's life insurance. As a result I have been besieged by real estate agents, brokers and mutual fund agents as well as by some persons who represent income plans I've never heard of. What makes matters worse is that I'll be getting this money in two weeks and I dread it (not the money but the decisions I will have to make). What do I do?

A. Do nothing . . . which means: divide the insurance money in half and put each part into short-term deposits in savings banks insured by FDIC or into savings and loans protected by FSLIC. And tell all these salesmen that the funds have been invested . . . period.

Let the money remain there until you can catch your breath, decide what you want to do for yourself (get a job?) and what this money must do for you.

You fail to give your age. If you are elderly and must turn to this money for maximum support, most of it should go into high-grade corporate bonds which today offer 9 per cent and a bit better. If you plan to go to work, wait until you see how much help you need from these funds before you take them out of the savings accounts.

But don't let anyone rush you and don't make a move until you know which way you want to go. And that may not be for months or even a year. A recent release by the Institute of Life Insurance points out that "silence is not always golden" when it describes the silence of those men who feel it is not necessary — or even "isn't nice" — to talk about money with their wives.

the USPS and their recently negotiated contract; I must say it is not inflationary. They are the victims of inflation and not the cause of it. They have just reached comparability with the employees of private industry on wages. The contract protects postal employees against the ravages of runaway inflation. After all, we buy our groceries in the same stores you do. The contract is once again without the right to strike. Legislators say the employees of the USPS should not have this right because they render an essential service. Well, if they render such an essential service, then why are they considered so overly paid by some critics?

In conclusion I would like to say our present postage rates are still a bargain and I personally believe the majority of the people are satisfied with their mail service. It is the news media such as your newspaper who are keeping the public uninformed by reporting your side of the story only. Get with it and think it over.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS WITH QUOTATIONS

In response to Editor's Mailbag of Dec. 24, 1975, Ted Wotowis's expletives and questions and Mary Tuka's benign questions can be answered (in part) with quotations as follows:

"Is the paltry consideration of a little dirty pelf to individuals to be placed in competition keeping with the essential right and liberties of the present generation, and of millions yet unborn? Shall a few designing men for their own aggrandizement, and to gratify their own avarice, overset the goodly fabric we have been rearing at the expense of so much time, blood and treasure? And shall we at last become the victims of our own abominable lust for gain?" — George Washington, letter to a friend, March 31, 1799.

"The accumulation of all powers, legislative, executive, and judiciary, in the same hands, whether of one, a few or many, and whether hereditary, self-appointed, or elective, may justly be pronounced the very definition of tyranny." — James Madison Mo-47 Publius, 1787 in defense of our present Constitution.

Ted Wotowis and Mary Tuka, your questions may be self answered by that same fabric you possess that prompted your letters. This fabric may be strengthened with prudence, and repeated gleanings of the Constitution of the United States of America. Then candidly sown to each citizen, we may yet be able to "secure the blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our posterity." (Preamble to the Constitution.)

Please feel free to communicate via same.

SAYS INCUMBENCY IS A BURDEN

Editor,
When Ronald Reagan was elected governor of the state of California in 1967, he certainly accomplished things. He began his own welfare reform. Instead of a massive overhaul and a federal takeover, he wanted tougher and more efficient administration of present laws, tightening of some rules and keeping state control of local programs.

As for Mr. Ford, he never thought of himself as a possible president and his tenure in office has not inspired many Americans of any party to praise his presidential qualities. What is worse, Mr. Ford must stick his neck out on all issues regardless how injurious it might be to him.

Reagan can kibitz, criticize severely when it seems politically productive, or hide out in silence when he dares not take a stand. But, Mr. Ford must act and in this sense incumbency is a burden. A question of what a voter wants in a president — honesty, simplicity, trustworthiness. Some people think Jerry Ford is not particularly articulate. Don't you sense as many others, people don't want slick articulate leaders. They are rather relieved and pleased to find somebody like Ford who has some of the old fashioned virtues that people are interested in.

Mr. Ford had no intentions becoming a candidate for president in 1976, but he showed immediate strength in public opinion polls. Democrats noted with chagrin that he was holding his own against such leading possibilities in their party as Senator Edward Kennedy of Mass., and Henry Jackson of Wash. Now that Mr. Ford is president, Democratic strategists look on him not as a caretaker in the White House but as a vigorous incumbent who could prove to be unbeatable. He seems the same easygoing Jerry Ford but has revealed an inner toughness that will make him a strong president.

He faces a great challenge and is fired up to use all of his abilities. Said a veteran Democratic politician: "We had better get used to the idea of Gerald Ford as president because we may very well not see the last of him until 1981."

Readers Express Their Opinions

the USPS and their recently negotiated contract, I must say it is not inflationary. They are the victims of inflation and not the cause of it. They have just reached comparability with the employees of private industry on wages. The contract protects postal employees against the ravages of runaway inflation. After all, we buy our groceries in the same stores you do. The contract is once again without the right to strike. Legislators say the employees of the USPS should not have this right because they render an essential service. Well, if they render such an essential service, then why are they considered so overly paid by some critics?

In conclusion I would like to say our present postage rates are still a bargain and I personally believe the majority of the people are satisfied with their mail service. It is the news media such as your newspaper who are keeping the public uninformed by reporting your side of the story only. Get with it and think it over.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS WITH QUOTATIONS

In response to Editor's Mailbag of Dec. 24, 1975, Ted Wotowis's expletives and questions and Mary Tuka's benign questions can be answered (in part) with quotations as follows:

"Is the paltry consideration of a little dirty pelf to individuals to be placed in competition keeping with the essential right and liberties of the present generation, and of millions yet unborn? Shall a few designing men for their own aggrandizement, and to gratify their own avarice, overset the goodly fabric we have been rearing at the expense of so much time, blood and treasure? And shall we at last become the victims of our own abominable lust for gain?" — George Washington, letter to a friend, March 31, 1799.

"The accumulation of all powers, legislative, executive, and judiciary, in the same hands, whether of one, a few or many, and whether hereditary, self-appointed, or elective, may justly be pronounced the very definition of tyranny." — James Madison Mo 47 Publius, 1787 in defense of our present Constitution.

Ted Wotowis and Mary Tuka, your questions may be self answered by that same fabric you possess that prompted your letters. This fabric may be strengthened with prudence, and repeated gleanings of the Constitution of the United States of America. Then candidly sown to each citizen, we may yet be able to "secure the blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our posterity." (Preamble to the Constitution.)

Please feel free to communicate via same.

SAYS INCUMBENCY IS A BURDEN

Editor,
When Ronald Reagan was elected governor of the state of California in 1967, he certainly accomplished things. He began his own welfare reform. Instead of a massive overhaul and a federal takeover, he wanted tougher and more efficient administration of present laws, tightening of some rules and keeping state control of local programs.

As for Mr. Ford, he never thought of himself as a possible president and his tenure in office has not inspired many Americans of any party to praise his presidential qualities. What is worse, Mr. Ford must stick his neck out on all issues regardless how injurious it might be to him.

Reagan can kibitz, criticize severely when it seems politically productive, or hide out in silence when he dares not take a stand. But, Mr. Ford must act and in this sense incumbency is a burden. A question of what a voter wants in a president — honesty, simplicity, trustworthiness. Some people think Jerry Ford is not particularly articulate. Don't you sense as many others, people don't want slick articulate leaders. They are rather relieved and pleased to find somebody like Ford who has some of the old fashioned virtues that people are interested in.

Mr. Ford had no intentions becoming a candidate for president in 1976, but he showed immediate strength in public opinion polls. Democrats noted with chagrin that he was holding his own against such leading possibilities in their party as Senator Edward Kennedy of Mass., and Henry Jackson of Wash. Now that Mr. Ford is president, Democratic strategists look on him not as a caretaker in the White House but as a vigorous incumbent who could prove to be unbeatable. He seems the same easygoing Jerry Ford but has revealed an inner toughness that will make him a strong president. He faces a great challenge and is fired up to use all of his abilities. Said a veteran Democratic politician: "We had better get used to the idea of Gerald Ford as president because we may very well not see the last of him until 1981."

'Hothouse' School Starts Them Right, Says Headmaster

By GUNNAR CARLSON
MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — There are no drugs in the Muskegon area's newest school. Drugs are not even talked about.

The American flag receives respect.

"Griping" is forbidden — on penalty of suspension — and discipline is strictly enforced. The noise level during school hours seldom rises above a whisper. There are no troublemakers.

which opened Sept. 1. The Rev. Mr. McPhail also is pastor of the West Shore Wesleyan Church.

"Some people might call us isolationists, call our school hothouse-type education," Rev. McPhail said.

"But with all the drugs and immorality in society, we feel

The silence is one of many things that make the school different.

Teachers here are called supervisors. Booths take the place of classrooms. And the 23 students receive completely individualized instruction and work at their own pace.

The academy was founded on a philosophy blending old-time religion, patriotism and conservative educational values that run counter to trends in modern public education, according to the leaders.

Yet, they say, the academy is "at least 10 years ahead of the public schools academically."

Avoiding Criminal Mentality

"True or false: Children who participate in athletics are less likely to become delinquent." . . The crime rate in America soars and there is very little the average citizen can do about it other than learn how to protect his family from criminals and try to ensure that his children don't develop antisocial behavior.

This week's "People Quiz" tells you how to avoid being the easy prey of vandals, how to spot the first signs of violent tendencies in your children and how to prevent those tendencies from becoming bad habits.

Read it Saturday in Family Weekly magazine, a regular feature of The Herald-Palladium.

"Some people might call us isolationists, call our school hothouse-type education," Rev. McPhail said.

"But with all the drugs and immorality in society, we feel

The silence is one of many things that make the school different.

Teachers here are called supervisors. Booths take the place of classrooms. And the 23 students receive completely individualized instruction and work at their own pace.

The academy was founded on a philosophy blending old-time religion, patriotism and conservative educational values that run counter to trends in modern public education, according to the leaders.

Yet, they say, the academy is "at least 10 years ahead of the public schools academically."

"The principal problem for Christian schools in the past has been with the lack of adequate textbooks," said Mark Brewer, the school's principal.

"They've been forced to take the best secular texts, add a Bible course and devotions."

That problem, Brewer said, has been solved by "Accelerated Christian Education (ACE)," a "Christ-centered" curriculum introduced in 1970 that emphasizes fundamentalist Protestant teachings. West Shore Christian Academy is the first ACE school in western Michigan.

"We're endeavoring to teach students what life is about," Rev. McPhail said. "Our philosophy is, education is life and life is found in Jesus Christ. We're bringing back education into the total life concept."

The school day at West Shore begins with pledges to both the American and Christian flags, a patriotic song and prayer. Four days a week, 45-minute devotional meetings are held, and there is a chapel service on the fifth day.

All students wear uniforms. A dress code — including specifications for hair and fingernails — is strictly enforced.

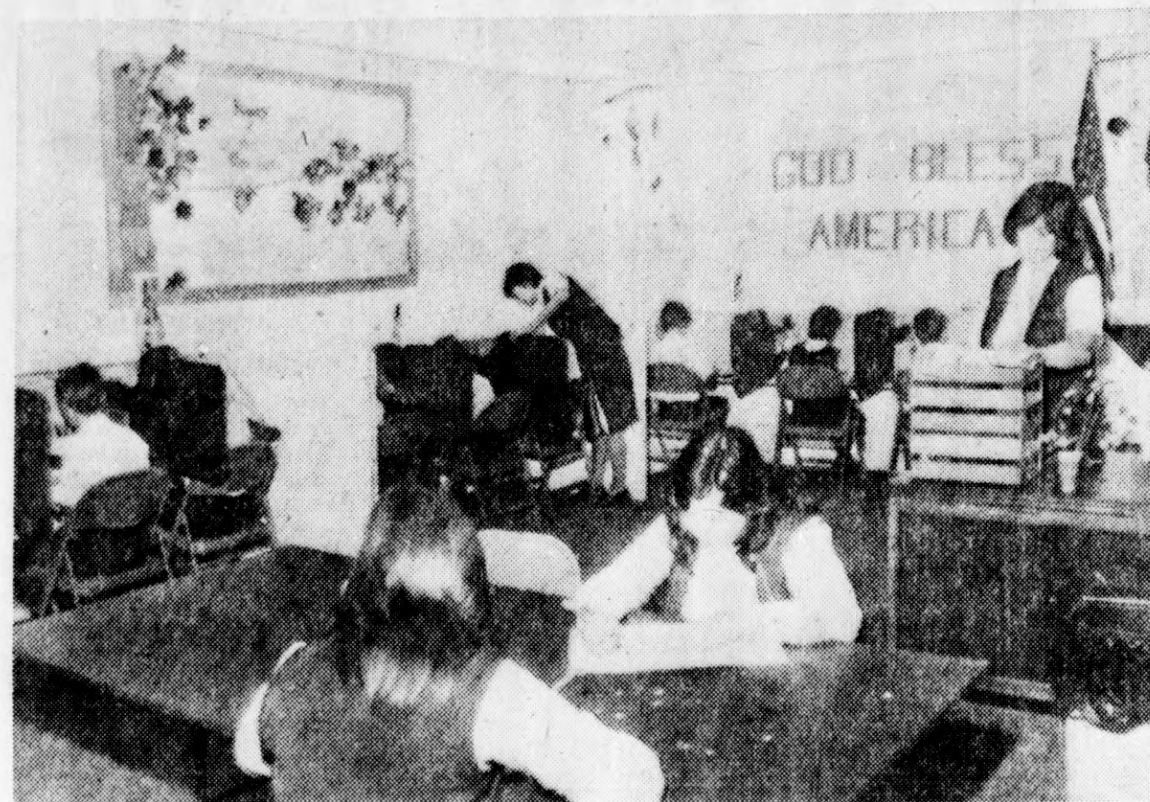

Students are assigned to individual study booths called offices. They are not allowed to speak or be out of their offices without permission.

When students want their supervisor's attention, they place a miniature American flag atop their office instead of raising their hands.

Brewer said discipline is not a problem, because students who can't conform to the rules are asked to leave.

A student who complains, for instance, can be placed on probation. If his or her attitude does not change in two weeks, the student's parents are asked to withdraw him or her from the school.

The 23 students now enrolled

in the school are between 7 and 13 years old. The school has no grades as such, and there is no such thing as a failing mark.

At the beginning of the school year, students are given diagnostic tests to determine the level of their knowledge in learning areas.

They begin their studies at the level of their skill and then progress at their own rate.

Working individually, the students teach themselves in part, getting help from two certified teachers — Mrs. McPhail and Mrs. Brewer, the wives of the school leaders.

The academy has room for 40 pupils, and the leaders hope to have it filled next semester.

The Rev. Mr. McPhail said he envisions adding high school, kindergarten and first-grade facilities next year. And he talks of a school of 300 to 400 students within the next decade.

The school, recognized by the state, charges tuition of $725 a year.
